Cancer in Hens.
Mexico's Wise Welcome.
The Star That Vanished.
Archbishop Not Wanted.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

ENCOURAGING NEWS for those studying the world problem of cancer. Investigators at the Rockefeller Institute of Medical Research discover that a certain type of cancer in chickens contains its own healing agent. Scientists hope for a similar discovery in the human form of the disease.

When this writer visited the Rockefeller Institute with John D. Rockefeller, Jr., some time ago to see the famous Dr. Carrel perform an operation for removal of tubercular tissue in the lung, scientists had transplanted cancer in a hen to make it grow.

At that time transplanting and growth had been successful only once. On the other hand, scores of white mice and rats had transplanted cancer that had grown bigger than the rest of the animals' bodies.

The fight against cancer is slow, but sure, and will be victorious in time.

A YOUNG Mexican genius, Augusto Novaro, musician and mathematician, has discovered a new harmony, based on mathematics. His method is complicated, but simpler than Einstein.

MORE IMPORTANT, to the world and to Mexico, is the Mexican government's welcome to a large colony of Slavs, presumably Russians, dissatisfied with the Soviet system of government. Lands will be provided and Mexico will make them prosperous, while they contribute to Mexican prosperity.

JUST AS this country in the early days when there were needed all kinds of people from Europe, so Mexico with its population of earnest, energetic men, needs all kinds of mixtures from Europe now.

Thirty million intelligent Europeans, from Germany, France, Italy, Russia, Scandinavia and the Balkans, would enable Mexico to build her own ports, deal directly with Europe and Asia on a gigantic scale, becoming entirely independent of the United States, financially and commercially.

SOME WEEKS ago, here, you were warned that bad news of 1930 operating results, leaking out gradually, would discourage stock speculation.

Some of it came out yesterday, when the New York Central Railroad, among the most prosperous and valuable in the United States, cut its dividend for the first time since 1911. This is due to earnings in the past, and should not influence men's judgment for the present. But it will influence it.

FROM THE TRAIN a few miles outside of Colton, Cal., at four in the morning you could see a magnificent star shining just above the horizon, a pale blue sky, a faint color below telling that the sun would soon rise.

Suddenly came beside the track a high, long, black stone mountain. Glorious star, and color of the rising sun were both shut out. One of the ephermeridae, winged creatures that live only from sunrise to sundown, would have said:

"Too bad, star and sunrise are gone. We shall never see them again."

But a moment later the mountain passed, the star was still there.

Wall street speculators and many businessmen feel about the beautiful star PROSPERITY, temporarily behind a cloud, as the ephermeridae would feel about the vanished star.

THE ARCHBISHOP of Canterbury, head of the English Church, on the yacht of J. Pierpont Morgan, will visit Jerusalem with the American banker. The Associated Press says of the visit:

"The Holy See has made representations to the British government regarding a situation which might be created in Jerusalem."

It is feared by Vatican authorities that the visit might be interpreted "as an Anglican bid for possession of the Holy Sepulchre."

TO THE layman, all this is difficult to understand. The possession and guarding of the Holy Sepulchre is now entrusted to four religions, Roman Catholic, Greek, Armenian and Copt. What difference it would make to let the English come in for 20 per cent of the glory and responsibility, is hard to understand.

THE IRISH Free State on St. Patrick's Day will be dry. Effort to open saloons at certain hours as on Sunday, next Tuesday, will not pass the Dail Eirean.

The Irish express just contempt for our efforts at prohibition, but a statement by Frank Aiken, visiting the United States, as representative of De Valera, was somewhat exaggerated. He said that among millions of people here, he did not see a man, woman or child sober.

ADOLPH S. OCHS, back from Honolulu, where he absolutely refused to see anybody dance the "hula hula," says:

"Business is definitely on the upgrade, if the people have the power to make the grade."

Mr. Ochs, thoughtful, says the country was going too fast and "naturally ran out of breath."

Many ran out of other things such as jobs, ready cash, and "collateral."

A Chicagoan went to all the banks and reported that there was no shortage of cash in the country, but "only a shortage of collateral." He had the shortage.

WICKERSHAM CALLS DATA ANTI-DRY

Enforcement Commission Head Interprets Report; Amazed at 'Wet' Attacks

International News Service.

BOSTON, March 12.—Painting the now famous law enforcement commission's report with an anti-dry tint, Chairman George W. Wickersham said today the anti-prohibitionists should derive more encouragement from it than the drys.

This interpretation, the first made by Chairman Wickersham, was given to the Boston Chamber of Commerce in a luncheon address.

Confessing he was mystified by attacks of anti-drys upon the commission, Wickersham stoutly defended it against the charge of inconsistency.

DIFFER ON REMEDY

The commission, he said, thoroughly agreed upon the ills of prohibition. The difference is the remedy to be applied, Wickersham said:

"Curiously enough the most vehement criticism and the most abusive articles came almost exclusively, as far as I can learn, from the 'wet' press. I say 'curiously' because I should have thought the 'wets' would have derived more encouragement from the report and the separate statements of the commissioners attached to it than the 'drys.'

"Yet the comments of the 'dry' press and of 'dry' organizations have been on the whole friendly to the report and the manner in which the commission discharged its task."

ANSWERS CRITICISM

Answering the criticism that the commission's conclusions differed with the body of the report, he said:

"I think a careful study of all these documents will satisfy

NEW DRY DRIVE PLAN OF U. S.

WASHINGTON, March 12.—(AP.)—"Development of a new and more strenuous plan of campaign" against dry law violators, built around the addition of 500 new dry agents, was made known today by Prohibition Director Woodcock.

Within recent days, Woodcock said, a circular has been dispatched to all prohibition administrators, deputies and instrutcors throughout the country detailing what is expected of them.

They have been ordered to submit, in reply, a plan of future operation in their territories, detailing the use to which the new agents authorized by Congress will be put.

Jealousy Blamed by Wife In Fatal Shooting of Nixon-Nirdlinger

NICE, France, March 12.—(AP.)—Long hours of merciless questioning today failed to shake the story of Mrs. Fred G. Nixon-Nirdlinger that when she shot and killed her husband, the Philadelphia theatrical magnate, last night, she killed in self-defense.

She told police that after hours of nagging, jealous quarreling, her husband accused her of having an Italian suitor. Then, just as his fingers clutched at her throat, leaving vivid red marks which were still visible today, she took a revolver which she had hidden and shot four times, two bullets finding their mark.

While Mrs. Nixon-Nirdlinger was at the police station, other officers searched the apartment she occupied with her husband, scanning their correspondence and seeking some flaw in the story which she tells. Their two children, aged 3 years and 18 months, who were not awakened by the shooting, were under the care of the janitress.

The case has startled police, who find it hard to believe the

Nixon-Nirdlinger, Slain Theater Man, Known Here

Pride in his wife, the former Charlotte Nash, was always expressed by Fred G. Nixon-Nirdlinger, it was revealed today by Harry Brown, manager of the Nixon Theater. The magnate was slain yesterday by the former beauty.

The slain theater magnate continually corresponded with Mr. Brown, their friendship extending over a 30-year period. The last letter was received by Brown last week, in which Nixon-Nirdlinger proudly told of his wife's skating accomplishments. Writing affectionately of Mrs. Nixon-Nirdlinger neglecting her skating and devoting her time to skiing, he said:

"I have objected to it on account of it being so dangerous. I did finally talk her into a skating contest last Wednesday, with some professionals, and do you know that little monkey ran off with the third prize in the waltzing, the third in figure skating, besides capturing the dancing contest with Maj. Beaumont."

Mr. Nixon-Nirdlinger has not been active in theater management for some years, Mr. Brown said. His last visit to Pittsburgh was 10 years ago. He was active with his late father, Samuel F. Nixon-Nirdlinger, when the Nixon Theater was built in 1903, spending considerable time here.

P. S. C. ASSAILED ON BUS GRANT

HARRISBURG, March 12.—An attack upon the Public Service Commission for its "unexplainable and high-handed" action in granting certificates for Oakmont-Verona bus service to the Pittsburgh Motor Coach Company and the Pennsylvania General Transit Company was made today by Fred Shoemaker, solicitor for Oakmont and Verona.

The solicitor, before the Moore committee, charged that the company owning the Verona street car lines, a subsidiary of the Pittsburgh Railways Company, was the only opponent when the Allegheny Valley Motor Coach Company asked the commission to allow it to operate a bus line from Pittsburgh to Oakmont.

The application was made, he said, after the Pittsburgh Motor

BLACKMAIL CHARGED BY DOCTOR

Ex-Policeman Seized After Letter Demanding $8,000 Is Reported to Detectives

"Burn House Mike's" demand for $8,000, delivered to Dr. George S. Bubb, 817 Island avenue, McKees Rocks, wealthy physician, resulted today in the arrest of Joe Farino, 45, former Stowe Township policeman.

The arrest was made by County Detectives John Geisler and Michael Ford and Constable Duffy, after they said they saw Farino take a package of false money deposited by Dr. Bubb in a lumber pile at an isolated spot along McCoy road, Stowe Township.

A letter mailed to Dr. Bubb from Pittsburgh yesterday, signed "Burn House Mike," demanded that $8,000 be deposited by noon today.

Dr. Bubb communicated with county detectives and was advised to prepare a package and follow the instructions in the letter.

This morning the detectives concealed themselves near the spot designated and watched Dr. Bubb deposit the package. Soon, they said, Farino appeared and took the bundle. He was overpowered and taken to detective headquarters for questioning.

Dr. Bubb, after learning the identity of the prisoner, said he had known Farino 25 years and had befriended him frequently.

The letter:

"Dear Doctor and Friend:

"If you want to be friends with a good society named "House Burners" you are forced to make a present of $8,000. We know that you could afford to light cigars with that money and not miss it. We know your whole life. You are to leave this money at McCoy road, around the bend past the reservoir.

"There is a mail box, No. 158, on the right going out. Right below the box there is a big pile of lumber like this (here an illustration is drawn in crayon) and has a hole under it.

"You to wrap the money up and leave it there March 12, at 12 o'clock sharp at noon.

"When you get there don't be afraid because I'll watch you and there won't be no trouble.

"Friend, believe this letter and do what it says or there'll be trouble.

"If you go to the police it will be worse for you and you can't do anything so you better have the money there.

"If you do as you are told, we will be your friend the rest of your life. I am,

"BARNHOUSE MIKE."

VALPARAISO, Ind., March 12.—(AP.)—A story that Arlene Draves, 18, died from wounds resulting from being struck over the head with a milk bottle in the hands of a jealous girl friend, and not from bruises inflicted by the convicted Virgil Kirkland, engaged the attention of his counsel today.

Framing their plea for a new trial, to be presented to Judge Grant Crumpacker Monday, Defense Attorney Barratt O'Hara said he was seeking the witnesses to present at a new trial.

The legality of Council's action in ordering payment of bills contracted without the formality of competitive bidding, which has been the practice of that body for some time, is to form the basis of a test case in court, it was learned today.

It was also reported that this phase is to be one of the first things that the Citizens Committee will delve into during the double audit now being made of the affairs of the Department of Supplies.

INFORMATION ASKED

Assistant District Attorney William H. Colvin, who is watching the audit for evidence on which criminal prosecution might be based, today invited anybody who has information concerning city affairs to co-operate with him. He said:

FIND NO BID ON LIBRARY FURNITURE

Goods Bought Year Ago Not Yet Unpacked; Councilman Explains, Records Differ

The purchase of more than $750 worth of furniture for the North Side Carnegie Library today linked Councilman Clifford B. Connelley with the investigation of irregular methods of purchasing city supplies.

The furniture was delivered almost a year ago, but it lies disowned in the basement of the library in its original crates, unused and untouched, apparently another example of an illegal city purchase of more than $500 without advertising for bids.

Files in Controller J. P. Kerr's office do not show a record of any bids.

DENIES ORDER

Connelley was reported to have denied that he ordered the furniture while he was librarian there.

He also was quoted as saying that he did not know why it had been paid for by the city, but Council records seemed to contradict him. The minutes of the meeting last May 27 of the Committee on Parks and Libraries show that Connelley, no longer the librarian, but now the Councilman, introduced a motion to pay for the furniture.

When Council, on June 2, finally voted payment for the furniture Connelley was absent.

'SAMPLE' FURNITURE

Connelley is reported to have admitted discussing such furniture with a representative of Yawman & Erbe Manufacturing Company, from which it was eventually bought, but he explains that he was under the impression that the company had merely sent the furniture as a sample.

Connelley, who is one of the seven councilmen who supported Mayor Kline in the opposition to an open investigation of the Department of Supplies, planned to use new furniture for a reading room he contemplated moving to the basement of the building.

His successor, David D. Cadugan, said today he hadn't gone on with plans for the new reading room because he didn't believe the visitors would want to go to the basement for newspapers, which were to be the chief reading matter there. Furthermore, Cadugan said, the plan would have involved spending considerable money altering the room.

CAN BE USED

Cadugan added:

"We can use this furniture. Some of our other furniture is

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., March 12.—(AP.)—Admiral Richard E. Byrd is without a good overcoat today. Newspaper photographers surrounded him when he arrived here yesterday.

In Florida it isn't customary for any one to have a picture taken while wearing an overcoat, they explained, and wouldn't he please lay it aside.

He handed the coat to a friendly bystander, and the camera men did their work. The admiral then turned to the friendly stranger. He, however, had vanished—and so had the overcoat.

Mellon and Bride Return From Honeymoon Voyage

NEW YORK, March 12.—(INS.)—William Larimer Mellon, Jr., nephew of Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon, and his youthful bride returned from their delayed honeymoon today aboard the liner Bremen.

The couple played the same hide-and-seek game away from newspaper reporters and cameramen as they did when they sailed for Europe in November.

However, the bridegroom's brother, Matthew T. Mellon, acted as "spokesman" for the honeymoon couple.

The marriage of the young couple took place a year ago and was only revealed when they left secretly for New York to sail for Europe.

Matthew Mellon said that his brother planned to return to Pittsburgh immediately and take an apartment with his bride there. He said his brother, who is a teller in the Mellon Bank in Pittsburgh, has been offered a job in the Pittsburgh branch of the Gulf Refining Company, which is controlled by his father.

KLINE STEERS CLEAR OF UTILITIES' QUIZ PROCEEDINGS

Pittsburgh, Philadelphia Mayors Cite 'Lack' of Protest Against Rates

By ED PRENDERGAST
Staff Correspondent.

HARRISBURG, March 12—Cities of the first and the second class, Philadelphia and Pittsburgh, have no official complaints against the utilities or Public Service Commission, it was pointed out today, when neither Mayor H. A. Mackey nor Mayor Charles H. Kline appeared before the House committee investigating the utility probe.

Mayor Kline, here in the interest of the Coyne bill and patronage, said last night he had not seen the invitation to the inquiry and would not attend. Mayor Mackey previously was quoted as saying he "had nothing to tell" the investigators.

OTHERS TO APPEAR

Other mayors will appear, according to the schedule, among them Joseph Heinemann, of Butler, and O. W. Saylor, of Johnstown.

After devoting an hour and a half to cross-examination of Albert M. Greenfield, Philadelphia real estate operator, the Senate committee today failed to learn what had happened to almost $1,000,000 which represented an apparent profit in the sale of the Quaker City Cab Company to the Philadelphia Rapid Transit.

W. A. Gray, representing Gov. Pinchot as counsel before the committee, by his questions, took Greenfield step by step through the various transfer of property, but failed to get Greenfield's admission to more than a normal profit as a real estate agent.

COMMITTEE RECESSES

At the completion of the Greenfield testimony, the committee adjourned until next Monday at 3 o'clock. John Farr, who yesterday refused to give the committee information which it desired, was in the room at the time of the adjournment. He was reminded of the fact that he still is under subpena and told to be present when the sessions are resumed.

It was learned from an authoritative source that the committee has a right to prosecute a contempt case in the Dauphin County courts, despite reports that previous decisions ruled that contempt would have to be instituted by a legislative committee of both houses, rather than one.

WORK STARTED ON HOOVER DAM

LAS VEGAS, Nev., March 12.—(AP.)—The taming of the mighty Colorado River got under way today. Actual work started on Hoover Dam, a monumental effort, fittingly placed in a wild section that has been a land of romance since the sixteenth century.

Out of 40 years of study and 10 years of fighting came the Swing-Johnson bill, providing for an expenditure of $165,000,000 for the great dam project, but even as the "hard rock" crews went on the job today the fight was still on in Washington.

Arizona, dissatisfied with provisions of the Swing-Johnson bill, filed suit in the United States Supreme Court to prevent its consummation on the ground that it discriminated against the state.

Waving aside Arizona's opposition, the six remaining states of the Colorado River basin entered a compact under which the development now proceeds. The Supreme Court case still is pending.

P. S. C. Assailed on Bus Grant

CHANGE OVERNIGHT

Overnight, he said, the Public Service Commission postponed the hearing of the bus line petition and, in the period following, the Pittsburgh Motor Coach Company and the Pennsylvania General Transit Company, Pennsylvania Railroad subsidiary, filed applications for certificates.

After the Public Service Commission hearing, the motor coach company and the Pennsylvania General Transit Company were awarded the certificates and the Allegheny Valley concern ignored. The commission sent Shoemaker a letter to that effect, he testified, alleging the Verona railways line was affiliated with the independent bus concern that it had ignored.

REPORT 'MISTAKE'

Their answer to the solicitor's denial of such an affiliation was a letter. It informed Shoemaker that he had received this first report by mistake. A second order was then sent out by the commission, Shoemaker said, which averred that the Pennsylvania General Transit Company and the Pittsburgh Motor Coach Company had already been given the certificates, so there was no need for any new concern to get one.

In an appeal before the Superior Court, Shoemaker said, he found that the commission had sent over only the second order, and that the first had been completely forgotten.

Shoemaker also charged the Public Service Commission with allowing high valuations and high rates to be charged by the water company.

WATER RATES RAISED

Shoemaker declared:

"In 1918, Verona and Oakmont were supplied by the Suburban Water Company, a local company—the Suburban Water Company of Allegheny County, now taken over, I think, by the Byllesby interests of Chicago. That company decided during the war period when the rates were highest and the prices were highest, to raise those rates. Under the system it was necessary to put a valuation on the plant, and they came in with replacement values, and the two boroughs had to employ high priced engineers and accountants to go over the books, and a special solicitor at a total cost to the two boroughs of $13,772.51."

Shoemaker said they were treated fairly by the Public Service Commission, but the expense to these boroughs was almost prohibitive.

Verona at the present time is in debt practically 7 per cent and cannot get a bond issue by a vote of the people, Shoemaker said. Oakmont is in better shape and could increase its debt.

LIGHT COMPLAINT

Edward Krouse, of Sharpsburg, filed a complaint against the Duquesne Light Company. He testified that while the municipal plant broke down, the light company demanded excessive rates for service.

Charges that the "power trust" has had men in Brookville working prior to elections were made by W. N. Conrad, solicitor. The "power trust," he said, was the Consumers Electric Company, a subsidiary of the Associated Gas and Electric Company.

In 1925 the voters of Brookville passed a bond issue to acquire the plant of the Solar Electric Company. Agents of the Pennsylvania Public Service Corporation were in Brookville prior to election, trying to have the bond issue beaten.

Before the borough could acquire the electric plant, Conrad said, Pennsylvania Public Service paid $150,000 for the capital stock of the Solar Electric. He added:

"David I. McCahill, Pittsburgh attorney, often said to me that our borough's dealings were directly with the Solar company. It certainly was irony."

The commission halted the West Penn purchase, but New York interests then bought the Solar, Conrad added.

John Elliott, city solicitor, of Beaver Falls, arraigning the water companies of the valley, stated the domestic rates were raised from 14 cents for 1,000 gallons t. 25 cents. He blamed the increase on consolidations and outside control, asserting:

"In my home, operated on a flat rate, the increase was 27 per cent."

The new rates have brought no real improvement, he said, adding that the holding companies interests are from Maine and that the increase was brought about soon after they secured the local concerns.

BEAVER FALLS CASE

Elliott said the situation rivaled that of the Scranton-Springbrook case. He said the boroughs were unable to appropriate money to fight a rate increase. An increase in rates was made in July, 1927, to domestic consumers only. This made it difficult to organize a protest, Elliott said.

The Beaver Falls fire plug rate, he said, was four times as high as that charged by another company in the nearby city of New Castle.

He said the old company, prior to the purchase, made money and built up their plant to a high state of efficiency.

Elliott recommended legislation to permit municipalities to expend money for the protection of the people and that the P. S. C. should be more inquisitive about rate increases.

A. A. Kochran, solicitor of the city of Chester, complained that the water supplied Chester from the Delaware River was unfit for consumption. Pollution of the Delaware, he said, resulted in the water being unfit for drinking.

At the afternoon session, Mayor Joseph Heineman, of Butler, complained against the excessive water rates. He was followed to the stand by Edward McCloskey, of Johnstown.

McCloskey told the committee that the water company, controlled by the Bethlehem Steel Company had raised water plug rates and costs from $3,200 in 1917 to $38,000 in 1925 by a succession of raises. The city forced them to settle for $31,000 that year.

Notables Dine, Laud Opper, Creator of 'Hooligan'

NEW YORK, March 12.—(Universal.)—Financiers, educators, journalists and artists paid tribute last night to Frederick Burr Opper, Hearst newspaper cartoonist and creator of "Happy Hooligan."

Mr. Opper

Mr Opper, who has been called "the dean of American cartoonists," sat at a banquet board on the SS. Conte Grande, flagship of the Lloyd-Sabaudo line, and listened to a succession of notables praise him on the occasion of the thirty-first birthday of his redoubtable "Happy."

Eminent folk who sent their best included Herbert Hoover, Calvin Coolidge, Charles M. Schwab, Alfred E. Smith, Wilbur Cross, governor of Connecticut; Fannie Hurst, Morgan F. Larson, governor of New Jersey; George M. Cohan, William Lyon Phelps and David Belasco.

Arthur Brisbane, the famous Hearst columnist and editor, was present, heading an imposing list of guests. There were newspaper executives, fellow comic artists with Mr. Opper, writers and officials of the Lloyd-Sabaudo line.

Characterizing Opper as the "ablest American cartoonist," Arthur Brisbane said:

"At St. Paul's in London, there is a Latin inscription which, referring to the architect, reads, 'If you want to see his monument, look about you.' The same applies to my friend, Mr. Opper. If you want to see his monument look at the rising young cartoonists in this room."

GANDHI STARTS ANNIVERSARY SALT MARCH

Retracing Route He Covered Year Ago in Crusade; Opposition Not Likely

AHMADABAD, India, March 12.—(AP.)—On the first anniversary of the start of his historic march to the sea in the beginning of the disobedience campaign, Mahatma Gandhi left Ahmadabad today to retrace his route and make salt once more in defiance of British law.

His venture will mark a test of the truce which he arranged last week with Viceroy Lord Irwin, one of the terms of which was that peasants in the salt districts be allowed to make salt for their own use and for sale within their own towns, though this is a violation of the letter of the law.

OPPOSITION NOT LIKELY

It was not regarded as likely that the British would attempt to rearrest Gandhi for a violation of the salt-monopoly act, with the ink of his signature on the formal truce ending the civil disobedience campaign hardly dry, but all India watched his move. The Nationalists regard salt-making as a sacred right.

Gandhi's followers prostrated themselves before him when he reached Borsad, women fighting to kiss his feet and children garlanding him with flowers. He told them:

"We are in this fight to the finish. It is the supreme and final struggle of my life.

"FIGHT JUST BEGUN"

"Our fight for liberty has just begun. Our truce with the viceroy is only temporary. I shall not rest until all confiscated land has been restored, but how can we bring the dead back to life?"

Vallabhai Patel, president of the Congress party, said no one knew when the fight in India would end. He declared:

"In this truce we must consolidate our forces so that when the struggle begins again we will be able to battle England with redoubled energy."

DATA CALLED ANTI-DRY

any impartial mind that these differences are mainly confined to the remedies suggested for the ills recognized in the report.

"The report frankly recognizes the evils which have developed in the course of 10 years of the administration of the national prohibition act, but nevertheless points out that the great achievement of the act has been the abolition of the legalized saloon."

Again discussing differences among the commissioners, he said:

"The members of the commission differed on the question of whether or not there was any reasonable probability that the prohibition law could be reasonably enforced with improved organization and larger appropriations; and whether or not it was too late for the improvement of existing sentiment and the development of a more favorable attitude of the public mind toward prohibition."

CENTRAL CONTROL

Wickersham said the report emphasizes the fact "that every plan of control must start from the fundamental fact that the business of producing and distributing alcohol transcends state laws; that to set up a unified force and organization required in controlling the manufacture and distribution demands a broader basis than was afforded by the powers of the federal government before the Eighteenth Amendment."

The prohibition question, he said, must finally be solved by the people. He continued:

"No group of 11 men and women could solve a problem on which there is such a fundamental difference of opinion as this."

Employment, Wages Gain; First Upturn Since '29

WASHINGTON, March 12.—(AP.)—Secretary Doak today reported there had been a general increase in the volume of industrial employment during February.

Doak based his announcement on department statistics. He said the increase constituted "the first satisfactory indication of a general upward trend since the stock market collapsed in October, 1929."

He estimated the total number of persons employed in industry had increased 1.4 per cent in February, as compared with January, and that the wages paid for February would be 7.5 per cent greater than in the preceding month. The statement said:

"These figures are based upon a comparison of 13,377 identical manufacturing establishments employing in February 2,772,219 workers, having a weekly payroll in February of $66,567,283.

"The present increase compares favorably with those in years prior to 1930, and is the first satisfactory indication of a general upward trend since the stock market collapsed in October, 1929."

LA FOLLETTE ASKS TRADE REMEDIES

Progressives' Conference Scores Business Chiefs, Hoover on Depression

BULLETIN.

WASHINGTON, March 12.—(AP.)—In an attack upon the Hoover administration, Senator Norris (Rep.) of Nebraska, before the Progressive conference today called for the election of "a Progressive President."

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, March 12.—A breakdown in the industrial, financial and political leadership of America has thrust the nation into an economic depression which forces 25,000,000 persons to suffer in the midst of plenty, the national conference of Progressives was told today by Senator Robert M. LaFollette, Jr., at a round-table discussion of the unemployment problem.

A number of liberal-minded business men, labor leaders and legislators indorsed LaFollette's indictment of the nation's leaders. Calling on Progressives everywhere to assume leadership in the economic crisis, LaFollette suggested they draft a program of legislative and economic remedies which would restore prosperity to the people.

REMEDIES SUGGESTED

Among the suggested remedies were:

Creation of a federal agency to plan emergency work to meet unemployment cycles.

Legislation compelling industry to adopt unemployment insurance.

Use of government ownership of utilities to check private extortion.

Creation of a national economic council to advise the President and Congress of economic issues.

The Hoover administration was assailed throughout the discussion for failing to meet the unemployment problem. LaFollette charged the President first tried to minimize conditions and then sought to block all remedial legislation. This was an indirect stab at the presidential veto of the Wagner unemployment relief bill and the administration opposition to federal funds for relieving distress.

PURCHASING POWER LOST

LaFollette blamed the depression on the public's losses in purchasing power. He said the administration sat idle while this happened and that neither industrial nor financial leadership could solve the problem.

LaFollette blames the "leadership of both parties" for postponing effective relief legislation until next December. He likewise charged industrial and financial leaders with failing to meet the crisis.

LaFollette declared the Progressives would hold a "balance of power" in the next Congress and admitted this gave them "an added responsibility to press for sound legislation upon the great issues confronting the nation."

When LaFollette called for suggestions from other Progressives, a flood of recommendations were submitted.

Leo Wolman, New York economist, proposed unemployment insurance, government co-operation with industry in stabilizing conditions and federal planning to meet depression by increased governmental works.

George E. Soule, of the New York Labor Bureau, blamed political, industrial and financial leaders for the business collapse. He proposed a national economic council to aid the federal government in planning measures to prevent periodical depressions.

Coolidge Opposed to U. S. Taking Blockade Stand

NEW YORK, March 12.

To the Editor of the Sun-Telegraph:

We are besought by Europeans to define our attitude toward any blockade by the League of Nations against one of its recalcitrant members. As our rights of trade are already substantially defined by the usages of international law, the request is virtually that we signify that foreign powers be given the privilege to abrogate and violate our rights. It is difficult to see why such authority should be granted even if our government had the power.

Mr. Coolidge

In so far as a blockade is an act of war, we could only participate in it through a declaration of the Congress. To observe a blockade amounts to about the same thing and undoubtedly would be considered unfriendly if not hostile. We remember that whenever we have placed an embargo on arms, the country affected has usually been able to purchase a supply in Europe.

It will be more practical to await the event. Our position can then be ascertained. It will be on the side of peace and fair dealing. We already restrict the sale of arms. Having made the treaty outlawing war, we would not look with complacency on another nation proposing to violate it.

CALVIN COOLIDGE.

REMOVAL OF MAYOR WALKER SOUGHT IN VICE CRUSADE

QUIZ TO ASK GOVERNOR TO ACT

Probe Committee Preparing Charges as Result of Expose of N. Y. Conditions

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN
International News Service.

NEW YORK, March 12.—Removal of Mayor James J. Walker will be asked and formal charges filed with Gov. Roosevelt within two or three days, it was announced today.

The City Affairs Committee, of which John Haynes Holmes is chairman, will take the step, asking an inquiry similar to that ordered in connection with charges against District Attorney Crain.

Announcement of the City Affairs Committee action came from its headquarters here. The charges, it was said, are being drawn up by Chairman Holmes and Rabbi Stephen S. Wise, a member of the committee.

With ever-increasing vigor, the hue and cry for a city-wide investigation of the government of New York City—alleged to be steeped in corruption—spread in a dozen directions today.

TAMMANY WAITING

Civic leaders, business men, social workers, clergymen, reformers and politicians were uniting in an insistent demand for a "clean up" of conditions. Meetings were being called, and numerous organizations were going on record as in favor of an immediate "showdown."

Tammany Hall, the organization in power, "sat tight" and awaited developments as the movement for municipal reform grew hourly. No statement was forthcoming from John F. Curry, Tammany chief.

WALKER UNRUFFLED

Mayor Walker was proceeding, meanwhile, toward Palm Springs, Cal., some 3,000 miles away. There the debonair mayor, who is accused of having maintained a "wisecracking and flippant attitude toward revelations of vice and corruption," will vacation for several weeks in the hope of restoring his shattered health.

From reports trickling back from the West, Mayor Walker is unruffled over the storm clouds that have sprung up back home.

"LID" BLOWN OFF

For months these investigations have been proceeding. Extensive publicity has been given to allegations of official dishonesty, political corruption, police abuse of power and judicial dereliction.

The sudden resignations of municipal judges who were under fire, and the disclosures that certain members of the vice squad "framed" women on immorality charges, added fuel to the flames of public indignation, which reached a climax following the murder of Vivian Gordon, vice-inquiry witness, and the "shame" suicide of her 16-year-old daughter, Benita.

ANTI-TOXIN SENT JUST IN TIME

Crosson Describes Pathetic Scenes When He Lands Serum to Fight Diphtheria

By JOE CROSSON

Pilot of Alaskan airways of American Airways, Inc., who flew from Fairbanks to Point Barrow, inside the Arctic Circle, with 280,000 units of anti-toxin and vegetables to combat a diphtheria epidemic. He flew back to Fairbanks yesterday.

FAIRBANKS, Alaska, March 11.—A trip that once required days by dog sledge was converted into a matter of a few hours when I flew from here to Point Barrow this week with anti-toxin and fresh vegetables and fruits, in a race against a raging diphtheria epidemic.

Pilot Crosson

An hour after the plane landed Dr. Greist, who met me, was administering 8,000 units of anti-toxin. He said the serum was in perfect condition.

The medical supplies and fresh foods I carried were declared by the doctor to be sufficient to check the epidemic, which started at Point Hope around Christmas time, traveling northward until virtually everyone in the region was suffering from the disease.

It was a thrilling trip, this race with death.

As I approached I saw whites and natives working frantically to clear a field. I landed safely in the only place available—a narrow strip 600 feet long. A strong ground blizzard made the landing precarious.

WILD EXCITEMENT

The little settlement was in a state of wild excitement. Six men still are patrolling the village night and day to prevent the natives from congregating.

I was able to give every human being in Point Barrow an orange or a lemon, and their delight was pathetic. They carried the fruit around, smelling it, saying it was too precious to eat.

But by morning every housewife in Point Barrow was making a lemon pie.

Diphtheria Breaks Out Anew at Point Barrow

POINT BARROW, Alaska, March 12.—(AP.)—A renewed outbreak of diphtheria gripped this settlement today, overflowing the only hospital with patients. Anxiety among health authorities rose because virtually all available anti-toxin had been used.

Dr. Henry Griest, of the Presbyterian Hospital, said the health bureau at Fairbanks, which sent a supply of anti-toxin here last Sunday by Joe Crosson, airplane pilot, had advised him it was hesitant about sending more serum by plane because of the expense.

The physician replied financial considerations were secondary. He said that if the situation at Wainwright, southwest of here, became more serious, more than 500,000 units of anti-toxin would be needed.

PANTAGES GIVES $25,000 BAIL

SAN DIEGO, Cal., March 12.—(INS.)—Alexander Pantages, wealthy theater magnate, under sentence on a previous statutory charge, was at liberty on $25,000 bonds today following his arraignment on a charge of having committed a criminal offense against a young girl in the Hollywood "love bazar" case.

Asserting that the charges were a "frame-up," Pantages asserted that he would fight the case to the limit. Pantages returned from Agua Caliente, Mex., to surrender for arraignment.

John P. Mills, millionaire realtor and former partner of Pantages, was arraigned in the same justice court yesterday on similar charges. He likewise posted $25,000 bonds. Hearings for Pantages and Mills were set for April 13.

Jesse Shreve, third member of the realty syndicate of Pantages-Mills-Shreve Company, had been arraigned previously and his hearing set for March 31.

All three men have been charged with conspiracy to commit a statutory offense and to violate the state juvenile delinquency act. Alice Blake, 16, otherwise known as Lydia Nitto, and Helen Livingstone, 19, were named as the complaining witnesses.

Brandon made his charges in an address before members of the Harwood School Parent-Teacher Association in Sheraden, Tuesday night.

BRIDGE WIDOW IN WILL FIGHT

KANSAS CITY, March 11.—(AP.)—A predicted court fight over the estate of John G. Bennett, wealthy salesman, gained impetus today, five days after his widow, Mrs. Myrtle A. Bennett, was acquitted of murdering her husband after a bridge game quarrel.

J. Victor Schultz, attorney for the Bennett relatives, said they are prepared "to fight to the last ditch" to prevent Mrs. Bennett inheriting her husband's money.

Mrs. Bennett testified at her trial that her husband was shot accidentally. His estate includes $30,000 worth of life insurance. The salesman's will named the widow as sole heir and executrix.

beautiful but distraught woman before them is the confessed killer of her husband, who, at 54, more than doubled her 26 years. They were married in 1925 and have been divorced and remarried once since. As "Miss St. Louis" she was runner-up in the 1923 Atlantic City beauty pageant.

She sobbed to the police:

"If I hadn't killed him, then he would have killed me."

Her account of the shooting as given to police in a formal statement follows:

"After dinner my husband started drinking whisky. I undressed to go to bed and, returning to the salon, started to read an Italian paper. He, infuriated, said that my desire to learn that language was because I had an Italian suitor. This started the quarrel.

SECRETED PISTOL

"I went to bed, but I took the precaution of putting the revolver I bought three months ago under my pillow because he had threatened me before. He was only half undressed when he started talking about an Italian suitor.

"Suddenly, leaning over my bed he seized me by the throat. I managed to escape him and grasped my revolver. I fired it once, full into his face, and then three more times. He staggered to the other room and I followed him and then fainted beside him.

"When I recovered I awakened the janitor and told him to notify the police."

Friends of Nixon-Nirdlinger and his wife, who was Miss Charlotte Nash, of St. Louis, said that he undoubtedly loved his wife very much, but was most jealous. Yesterday morning he engaged detectives to trail her, explaining that he did not intend to use any information he might get against her, but simply wanted to know what she was doing.

His body is being held at the morgue and while she is being held by police, no formal charges have been filed.

Mrs. Nixon-Nirdlinger was the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. J. B. Nash, of St. Louis. She met the producer during the 1923 beauty contest at Atlantic City and later appeared in his theaters in Philadelphia and Atlantic City.

They eloped to Hagerstown, Md., in 1925 and went abroad for a honeymoon. An estrangement soon developed, and she was said to have left him. She divorced him in 1926, but they were remarried in 1928.

The dead man was married three times. His first wife, Tessie Burke, an actress, divorced him more than 20 years ago. One of her two sons, Samuel Nixon-Nirdlinger, is general manager for the Erlanger theatrical interests in Philadelphia. The other, Jack Nixon-Nirdlinger, lives in New York.

His second wife was Laura McKenna, whom he married in 1909 and who divorced him in Paris. In 1922 he was named defendant in a $150,000 suit brought in Atlantic City by Franz Voelger, former secretary of the Atlantic City board of taxation, for alleged alienation of the affections of his wife. A jury awarded Voelker 6 cents damages.

"Some day Miss Charlotte Nash will make some fellow feel like the luckiest man in the world by changing her name permanently."

WASHINGTON, March 12.—(AP.)—The Army today paid its last honors to one of its greatest engineers, Lieut. Gen. Edgar Jadwin.

Over a grave in Arling National Cemetery "taps" and three volleys marked the conclusion of the military funeral for the retired chief of army engineers, who died March 2 in Panama.

An escort of 800 troops—a regiment of engineers, a battalion of field artillery and a squadron of cavalry—accompanied the flag-draped casket to the grave.

Gen. Pershing was one of a large group of high-ranking army officers who attended.

TOLEDO DOPE RING SMASHED

TOLEDO, O., March 12.—(INS.)—What federal authorities described as one of the largest dope rings in the country was smashed early today in a series of raids which resulted in the arrest of 19 persons, including seven women, and seizure of $6,000 worth of narcotics.

Names of 100 other dope-peddlers and addicts were learned by the raiding crew composed of 10 federal agents and more than a score of city patrolmen.

Difficulty was encountered in transporting the prisoners to the municipal jail. Police reported two attempted escapes and declared that several of those arrested made desperate struggles for freedom.

The raids, according to Maurice Helbrandt, head of the Federal Narcotic Bureau here, climaxed a six weeks' probe by two undercover men and Miss Margaret Brogan, locally famous policewoman.

P. A. A. PAYROLL BANDIT GUILTY

One of the payroll bandits who robbed the Pittsburgh Athletic Association of $2,485 last December today was convicted. John McKenna, 25, of 3965 Liberty avenue, the defendant, was found guilty by a jury which was given the case yesterday.

On motion of Assistant District Attorney E. R. Jackson, visiting Judge Ray P. Sherwood, of York County, increased McKenna's bail from $5,000 to $10,000. He is subject to a sentence of 20 to 40 years.

Attorney Harry Shapira, for McKenna, asked that sentence be postponed pending application for a new trial. The trial judge said the defendant had a fair and impartial trial, and indicated that unless good reasons were given the application would be refused.

It was testified two men entered the servants' dining room of the club about noon, after Thomas Cornell, paying the servants, had distributed all but $2,485 of a $9,585 payroll. Displaying revolvers, the intruders took what money remained, ran out, entered an automobile and were driven away by a third person.

The state's principal witness was Victor Volaha, a waiter, who said he recognized McKenna, with whom he had formerly sold papers.

WIFE INDICTED FOR MURDER

HOPKINSVILLE, Ky., March 12.—(AP.)—Mrs. Daisy L. Dycus, 24, was under an indictment today charging wilful murder of her husband, Edwin Dycus, 28, a county patrolman, who died January 27 apparently of poisoning.

The young widow, who is seriously ill in her jail cell, denied the charge of murder in connection with her husband's death, and said McClure tried to force her to drink grape juice, which later was found to contain poison.

To play on the heartstrings of nice ladies with bulging purse strings, comes the self-styled million dollar gigolo, Francis X. Bushman, erstwhile movie idol, to Pittsburgh in search of a wealthy wife and matinee patronage in "Thin Ice" with George Sharp's Stock Company at the Pitt Theater. He arrives Sunday. He makes his debut on the Sharp stage Monday and between shows plans to look over the town and rich women with a hankering for expensive husbands.

Mr. Bushman announced himself on the marriage market yesterday in Chicago. He offered to marry any woman who can support him in the style to which he has been accustomed.

But what a style—Hollywood mansion; country estate; strings of race horses, yachts and travel deluxe.

He says:

"I've lost my fortune. I've made between $6,000,000 and $9,000,000 in the movies, but now I'm broke. I suppose I I might be called a gigolo, but after all a gigolo gives value for the money he receives, but if he is paid $10 to take an ugly woman to dinner, he earns it."

SUIT PLANNED TO TEST CITY BUYING

Courts Will Be Asked to Pass on Payment of Bills Contracted Without Bids

will not disclose the informant's name to anyone."

The audit was well under way today in Courtroom No. 8 in the City-County Building.

Two firms of auditors, Main & Co., employed by the League of Women Voters and the Citizens Committee, and Price, Waterhouse & Co., retained by Controller James P. Kerr, have completed preliminaries but have made no announcement on the form the audit is taking.

District Attorney Andrew T. Park, his assistant in the audit, Mr. Colvin, and Attorney Earl F. Reed, counsel for the Citizens' Committee, conferred in Park's office. Declaring that the Citizens' Committee and the district attorney's office are in full co-operation, Colvin said:

"They (the Citizens' Committee) will not give out any information or take up any matter with me until they have some indictable facts."

WOMEN APPROVE QUIZ

Approval of the report of the special food committee was voted today by the executive committee of the League of Women Voters. Tomorrow noon in Kaufmann's dining room, Mrs. J. O. Miller will discuss the investigation before membership of the league. Albert Maris, of Philadelphia, who drafted the election laws reform code, now before the Legislature, will discuss the code.

Leslie M. Johnston, chairman of the Citizens Committee, said he has not conferred with the auditors, preferring to let them get started according to their own ideas.

Annual reports of the Department of Supplies from 1926 to 1930, inclusive, have been brought to the courtroom from Controller Kerr's office on the first floor.

Extra tables, chairs and desks have been installed in the courtroom. Records are placed in orderly piles, easily accessible to the experts.

M. C. Conick, of Main & Co., is in charge for the Citizens Committee and the league. J. C. M. White, representing Price, Waterhouse & Co., is in charge of Kerr's audit.

Conick is being assisted by six men. It was he who helped install the present bookkeeping system in the Controller's office in 1915.

White is being aided by two certified public accountants. How long the audits will take or how far the departmental records will be delved into, has not been divulged.

NO BULLETINS BY KERR

Controller Kerr, back from New York, where he signed bonds for school board activities, said that no announcement would be made of the progress of the city's audit until that audit is completed. The controller explained he wanted to have all the facts in his possession before announcing them.

Directors of the Washington Heights Board of Trade, meeting tonight, are expected to indorse the Allied Boards of Trade resolution demanding a complete investigation.

Meanwhile Mayor Kline was expected to return from Harrisburg, where he lobbied for passage of the Coyne judges bill yesterday in the House. Whether he will take cognizance of charges made by former Police Magistrate Brandon that "the only thing Succop was guilty of was taking orders," is a matter of doubt. Brandon made charges against the administration at a talk given to the Harwood School Parent-Teacher Association, Sheraden. Brandon also scored the Department of Public Safety and accused police of "lying down on the job."

TIRE BUYING SCORED

Alleged favoritism in the purchase of automobile tires by the Department of Supplies was one of the latest revelations in the city records.

Tires were purchased from the Glick Auto Supply Company, headed by A. L. Glick, at a 10 per cent discount. Tires said to be of the same quality were offered by Kress Brothers at a 19 per cent discount.

A. L. Glick is a brother of Peter Glick, former state secretary of labor and industry and a Republican leader who held a prominent place on Mayor Charles H. Kline's campaign committee.

Edward Kress, one of the unsuccessful bidders, once handled some of the city fire business, but not since the beginning of this administration.

He is reported to have said:

"I once went to see Director Succop and asked him about getting some of the city's trade, but Succop told me the Mayor handled all of the fire business. I did not bother to see the Mayor. They award the bid where they want to anyway."

The order for individual package cereals for Mayview Hospital sold to the City Department of Supplies by Marcus Company, Inc., on October 23, 1930, did not come to the Kellogg company direct, according to George E. Ander, district sales manager.

Ander said his organization has not sold the Marcus company an order of goods since the reorganization of the latter firm several years ago. He said the package cereals must have been obtained from other wholesale outlets. Prices on these lines have not been reduced in years, he declared.

Dog Yields Life To Save Baby From Wolves

SEQUIN FALLS, Ont., March 12.—(AP)—"Sport" died so an 18-month-old baby could live.

Three wolves crouched near the carriage of Andre Ninette's baby. The dog sensed the danger, and as his master, not realizing the trouble, looked down from a distant hillside, Sport drew the wolves, step by step, from the child. Suddenly he turned and ran, the wolves howling after him.

"Sport" did not come back.

COUNCIL TO GET PUBLIC WORKS QUIZ REQUEST

Consideration Promised by Herron; Evans Denies He Impugns Lang's Honesty

Henry Oliver Evans, former city controller, has received a letter from Council President John S. Herron, declaring Evans' request for a hearing on conditions in the Department of Public Works will be presented before Council without delay.

Evans in seeking an inquiry said the wide differences between original estimates and quantities of materials used in street improvements opened a field for graft.

Replying to a defense by Edward G. Lang, director of the department, Evans said:

"Mr. Lang in talking of 101 contracts let to higher bidders misses my point entirely. Assuming that he was honest, I never even looked at that. I was concerned with the large increase in quantities, whether put in by high or low bidders. I have not questioned the honesty of Mr. Lang, Mr. Reppert or Mr. Reed. I have called their attention to what I believe is a very dangerous practice."

LINK CONNELLEY IN BUYING QUIZ

getting old and needs replacing. I saw this furniture while I was down in the basement looking around some months ago. The reason I didn't unpack it was because I had no set program in mind. I can just remember the circumstances, but I can't recall having conferred with Connelley about the furniture."

Cadugan, who said he wanted it understood that he was not involved in the purchase of the unused furniture, said that Connelley had done many fine things for the Library and deserved much credit.

The furniture consists of 11 oak racks with four news files, at $396; 30 oak chairs, $195, and five oak library tables, $160.

THINKING ABOUT THE OTHER FELLOW

To sell furniture might seem to be a prosaic occupation, and perhaps it is to some men. But to us it has always been a most interesting study of life itself.

The romance of youth . . . the hopes and aspirations of men and women . . . the development of character in children—all have been interwoven in our daily contacts with those we have served.

And through the 25 years we have shared the problems of our customers, we have discovered that thinking about the other fellow is one of the most satisfying experiences life has to offer.

A warm smile, a hearty handclasp, a word of thanks for something we may have done—these are the golden moments that make life worth living after all.

May we in the future, as in the past, ever maintain that intimate contact, that human touch which means so much to you and to us.

Blonde Actress Tells of Valentino's Interest in Parsons Radio Interview

Universal Service.

LOS ANGELES, March 12.—Ann Harding, screen star, has disclosed for the first time the part the late Rudolph Valentino played in her screen career.

She told the story during an intimate radio interview conducted by Miss Louella Parsons, motion picture editor of Universal Service and the Hearst newspapers, who introduced this newer screen celebrity.

There is something about the radio talks of Miss Parsons and the film stars that brings these favorites close to their public. Last night's chat was a delightful example of this.

"SHEIK" MADE TEST

Miss Harding told Miss Parsons that her first screen test had been made by the "Sheik" and that it had been "awful." Valentino and his wife, Natacha Rambova had attended a performance of "Tarnish" in which Miss Harding was playing in New York. They were so impressed with her beauty, charm and talent they said her a visit backstage and Rudy persuaded the little blonde actress to let him make a screen test of her.

Miss Parsons asked:

"Did you tell him you were eager to play in pictures?"

Miss Harding said:

"No, as a matter of fact I wasn't and I told him I wouldn't even consider it unless I knew all about the play and the part. I was so afraid I might be asked to appear in scanty clothing or do something shocking—and I was so easily shocked."

That must have been a surprise to the many girls who would have been eager to play opposite Valentino. But lawsuits and one thing and another tended to interfere and Valentino was never able to carry out his intention to have Miss Harding as his leading lady.

SURPRISED AT QUERY

Miss Harding is a young woman who has definite views about her work, her home and her recreation. She was surprised when Miss Parsons asked her about her tennis, flying and the other sports in which she shares an interest with her actor husband, Harold Bannister.

She asked Miss Parsons:

"Isn't there anything you don't hear about?"

Next week Miss Parsons is going to give the leading men a break. She will interview Buddy Rogers Wednesday evening and the flappers will get a thrill when the young Paramount star speaks over the radio.

DEATH DRIVER GETS 6 YEARS

Michael Nagy, 25, of City Farm lane, Homestead, was found guilty in Criminal Court of involuntary manslaughter in the death of Virginia M. Piper, 4, of Nineteenth street, Homestead. Nagy denied the charge that an automobile he was driving hit and fatally injured the child.

Visiting Judge Norman T. Boose, of Somerset County, immediately sentenced Nagy to six years in the Western Penitentiary under the habitual criminal act. The sentence will not begin until Nagy finishes serving a 5-10-year term which he started recently after pleading guilty to the theft of an automobile.

Patrolman Jack Herwich, of Homestead, testified that Nagy continued after the accident colliding with two automobiles later.

Alma Rubens 'Cured,' Lost Husband's Love, Again Slave of Dope

By ALMA RUBENS

CHAPTER XXXVI.

Ward 5 was bad enough in all conscience, but it wasn't the worst place in Patton.

I found the worst place soon enough.

One day I said something to one of the keepers that she didn't like, and in less than no time I was in Ward 6.

As long as I live I shall wake up at night, shuddering, for that Ward 6, and the pitiful wretches who lived in it, will haunt me as long as I live.

The attendants were not brutal to the patients in Ward 6.

The poor creatures locked up there were simply mindless bodies—animals with no feeling, no pride — they didn't have any temper. They just sat and stared into vacancy all day long.

Alma Rubens

Sometimes for some little disobedience of rules the attendants would take some poor, sodden creature and stand her with her face to the wall. The "patient" would stand there without moving a muscle, sometimes for hours at a time, until the attendant came and turned the poor mindless creature into some other position.

Where were their thoughts, I wondered time and again.

Did the poor crushed souls escape from the poor twisted bodies and wander somewhere in pleasant fields where wild flowers grew and where the beasts of the field were at least clean and sane?

They didn't seem to think at all.

Many of them were so repulsive that I shut my eyes whenever I had to pass one of the poor defaded beings.

Mindless Victims

I had nothing to read, no one to talk to. I couldn't even think. I just sat and looked ahead of me, like the rest of the poor wretches in Ward 6.

One day I was sitting in my cage counting — counting — counting—74, 75, 76—on and on up to a thousand. I said the figures over to myself so I could hear a sane voice speaking. It shut out the constant muttering, whispering and strange, hoarse chuckling that went on around me ceaselessly night and day.

"Seventy-seven, seventy-eight, seventy-nine," I said, and suddenly I was conscious that someone stopped at my cage.

It was the asylum superintendent.

"Stand up," he said.

I stood up.

"Your time is about up, you're about virtually cured."

"Yes, sir," I said meekly.

To myself I thought:

"Cured, yes I am cured. I am cured of happiness, cured of hope, cured of my faith in human nature, yes, I'm cured."

That afternoon I was sent to Ward 15, the best cottage in the grounds. To one from outside Ward 15 wouldn't look much like a Paradise, I suppose, but after what I had been through it was like Heaven to me.

We were allowed to go to chapel in the morning, and we had a radio, and a piano. Not much of a radio, and not much of a piano, but what they meant to me!

One day I sat at that same piano trying to pick out a few cords, when I heard someone speak my name.

"Alma, Alma my darling," and there stood my Mother.

I couldn't move. I couldn't speak.

My mother took me in her arms and kissed me, and in an hour—oh delirium of joy—I was on my way home.

Sane, balanced, clean, and rid forever of my terrible curse of drugs. I could not believe my joy.

I'm dreaming, I thought, just dreaming. I musn't be too disappointed when I wake up and find myself back again among the poor groveling creatures in Ward 6.

No guards, no meshed steel wires, no harsh commands, no pitiful afflicted creatures, moaning and sobbing, and giving their hoarse animal cries all around me.

I was almost too happy to bear it and live.

How the sun shone, how sweet the flowers were, what a beautiful world it all was—again.

The first thing I did when I got home was to rush to my room, my own room, think of it, and there I sat down and wrote a long letter to my husband. I marked it air-mail, and sent it so it would get out that night.

Mother and I had a simple little dinner together—but oh, how delicious everything tasted. Then we went down to Los Angeles and walked up and down the gay, crowded streets, full of free human beings.

We walked until we were both exhausted, and then we went home.

I went to the telephone and called my husband at his New York address.

He was not home.

No Word From Ric

For days I waited, but I had no word.

One day I picked up an old newspaper and learned that Jeanne Eagels was dead, beautiful, talented Jeanne Eagels. I knew her as well as I did Mabel Normand, Julia Bruns, Wally Reid and others of that brilliant company, who went down the dark road of dope ahead of me.

I fell on my knees, and thanked God that I was cured, even if I had to be sent to Patton to make the cure complete.

My mother took me to the ranch in Madera and there I lived quietly, resting and sleeping, and building up my health on good home food.

February 19 was my birthday. And I felt that I had indeed been born again, so I made up my mind to go to New York, get back into my regular routine, see the new pictures, buy some new clothes, make new acquaintances, and gradually work up the courage to look my old friends in the face again.

When I stepped off the train in New York there was my husband waiting for me. Before I had a chance to realize that he was really there—really alive, and as handsome as ever, I was surrounded with a surging crowd.

There was a truck full of roses, and orchids—there was a great armful of telegrams—greetings from Broadway, and Hollywood stars. Messages of faith and affection from old friends, from rich people and poor people, messages from society women, and one pretty, simple, little corsage came from a little dressmaker who had once worked for me. For some strange reason I loved that best of all. I pinned it to my coat, and my husband ordered the rest of the gifts sent to the hotel.

More flowers, more telegrams, more friends. My heart sang and I was a poor foolish woman in Paradise.

Everything Over

The moment I was alone with my husband I knew that everything was over between us. He had nothing to say to me, except what he would have said to any stranger. He was playing at a Broadway theater and he asked that I come and sit in a box and see the performance.

The theater was packed and when my husband came on the stage, he threw out his arms to me and he introduced me from the stage, saying:

"My dear little wife, Alma Rubens, Mrs. Cortez."

We had decided to "put up a front" for the sake of business—but we were never happy together, for one minute, again.

Within four weeks I signed up for 18 weeks on the vaudeville circuit. I was paid $1,500 a week.

I have often done imitations of well-known actresses, but I never gave any imitation of the way I looked and acted when I was being "cured" at the Patton Insane Asylum.

My imitations were a great success, but when I came back to New York, flushed with my triumphs, I met another well-known and highly-respected doctor.

And in no time at all he had trapped me into dope—again!

And all that I had hitherto known or imagined about drug orgies, and degenerate existence, faded into nothingness.

Love cults—devil worship, drug madness—I got to know them all. That was how I stayed "cured."

Tomorrow: Alma Rubens reveals details of her latest dope experiences.

One Surging Insurgent

By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER

matter what happens we will never run out of wall mottoes.

It's all a huddle of Mrs. Brown's cows. The budget is the haystack.

The Democrats just finished their national conference and staggered out much refreshed.

The Progressive party will claim everything, concede nothing, and demand first bite in the big national barbecue. It seeks to combat monopoly, corporate greed, organized wealth and political corruption, which is a combination of four big spoons. And the public is the soup.

But when 1932 rolls around with its new excess hopes and compound fears the old guard will still be smiling sweetly and licking the cream off its whiskers.

There's only one insurgent who is getting anywhere these days. His name is Sandino.

As an educator Prof. Einstein is the bouquet of broken blossoms.

He tells you everything he knows and you still don't know anything.

We listened to one of his intellectual mumbles on the relativity of adjacent environment and left handcuffed to some superior knowledge.

We have had a lot of European scientists over here and we have vexed them to a neat majority. We didn't know what they were talking about. Neither did they.

But they asked the first question and put us on the defensive. Up until now the Einstein theory has been proved by a reception on City Hall steps (N. Y. Dem.), three banquets and a group picture of Hollywood stars.

There was one professor in California who claimed that he almost understood the theory. But his folks grabbed him in time.

Some historic European discoveries have been the World War turtle serum, how to make buttons out of buttermilk and the Einstein preamble.

Put them all together and you've got buttons made out of buttermilk.

Maybe Einstein is right in whatever he was trying to demonstrate. This was his second trip over here and we hope the third time he comes back he has learned the Cuban rumba or how to tell fortunes with tea leaves.

Anytime an European scientist or lecturer starts whistling off key or commences to scissor paper dolls us friends figure he is ripe for an American tour.

So they crate him and shoot him over quick, with instructions to feed every 24 hours. At the present time we have 72 expert platform gabblers over here, and they have all enjoyed the trip except the six weeks on Ellis Island.

It's a friendly arrangement. We exchange prisoners in war and professors in peace.

That keeps the balance of pow-wow even. We were ahead once. That was when Nicholas Murray Butler made that scolding tour of Germany.

CAKES AND PIES HAVE IMPORTANT DIET VALUE

Their Flavorful Goodness Makes a Meal Complete

America has made its pastry popular the world over. And of all desserts, few can be made in more pleasing variety than pies and cakes.

Every normal person should have pastry frequently, because it helps balance the diet. A piece of fruit pie, or a slice of light-textured cake, is an ideal ending to a meal composed of meat, and vegetables, both leafy and starchy.

If you don't make your own pies and cakes, the ingredients and manufacturing methods employed by modern bakers, great and small, insure the highest quality in these popular American desserts. Their freshness can be depended upon and their price is within reach of all.

A nationally known nutritional authority recommends a generous vegetable salad followed by a piece of pie, cake or any similar dessert for those dieting, in order to reduce weight. A bit of sweet makes the meal complete. The Sugar Institute.

O'NEIL UPHOLDS VETERAN LOAN

NEW CASTLE, Pa., March 12.—Ralph T. O'Neil, national commander of the American Legion, addressing the Twenty-sixth Congressional District national commanders' banquet in the Scottish Rite Cathedral here last night, declared:

"Members of the American Legion are just as patriotic today and as willing to make sacrifices for their country as they were 12 years ago. We have asked nothing of Congress and will ask nothing in the future that will be injurious to our country."

Of the benefit of the recent loan act for veterans he remarked:

"A law much more favorable to the ex-service men could have been enacted without impairing the nation's finances."

Other speakers of the evening were Charles I. Engard, Pennsylvania department commander, and Mrs. W. J. Lloyd, Western Pennsylvania vice president of the Legion Auxiliary. Attorney Clarence A. Patterson was toastmaster, and Harry M. Long general chairman.

WANT TO LOOK YOUNG?

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound as a substitute for calomel to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets are gentle in their action yet always effective. They help bring about that natural buoyancy which all should enjoy by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets are known by their olive color. 15c, 30c, 60c.

To End a Cough In a Hurry, Mix This at Home

To end a stubborn cough quickly, it is important to soothe and heal the inflamed membranes, get rid of the germs and also to aid the system inwardly to help throw off the trouble.

For these purposes, here is a home-made medicine, far better than anything you could buy at 3 times the cost. From any druggist, get 2½ ounces of Pinex. Pour this into a pint bottle, and add plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey to fill up the pint. This takes but a moment, and makes a remedy so effective that you will never do without, once you have used it. Keeps perfectly, and children like it.

This simple remedy does three necessary things. First, it loosens the germ-laden phlegm. Second, it soothes away the inflammation. Third, it is absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly on the bronchial tubes. This explains why it brings such quick relief, even in the obstinate bronchial coughs which follow cold epidemics.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form, and known as one of the greatest healing agents for severe coughs, chest colds and bronchial troubles.

Do not accept a substitute for Pinex. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

RAYMOND KNIGHT, KUKU, CAMPAIGNS FOR PRESIDENCY

WE NOW PRESENT

By DARRELL V. MARTIN, Radio Editor

A man of the people if not a man of the hour, Raymond Knight famous comic of the air arrived in Pittsburgh today prepared to start his campaign for the presidency. The train bearing his royal "sweet" was a few minutes late but upon alighting the Hon. Mr. Knight said something to the porter about it being better to arrive late than never. A crowd at the station applauded and it is understood Mr. Knight's words were copied for the Congressional Record. A taxicab whisked him to a downtown hotel where he drew from his brief case a bundle of important papers. First was a picture of the pile of iron that Paul Revere rode in last Saturday night's "Cuckoo" program via KDKA. Next was a speech for KDKA at 3:30 this afternoon then a speech for WCAE at 5 and next his classic of the moment calculated to carry him into the high chair at Washington. Seriously, Mr. Knight speaks to the Bond Club in the William Penn at 7 o'clock and you can bank on that.

Ray Knight

Not so seriously he pens this message to his Pittsburgh admirers.

The Pittsburgh Raymond Knight-for-President Committee has asked me for a statement giving my impression of Pittsburgh.

Of course, while my impression will not be complete until after the election, I wish to reply in the affirmative. Pittsburgh is rich in mineral oils, copper sulphate and bromo seltzer. Its unnatural resources are beyond control. My opponents point out that Pittsburgh is 128 feet above sea level. I answer this charge by pointing out that there's nothing on the level any more.

The doorbell industry in Pittsburgh alone, is ringing proof of what can be done with a little piece of wire and a little wire pulling. If the cornerstones of all the buildings erected in Pittsburgh in the last 10 years had been laid end to end instead of merely laid, it would have been just too bad.

Pittsburgh is rising Phoenix-like from the ashes like a bolt from the blue. Let us love our fellow man and then wait and see what he will do to us. Prosperity is the keynote of Prosperity.

That, my friends, is how strongly I believe in Pittsburgh and I stand or lie down upon that platform.

Raymond Knight

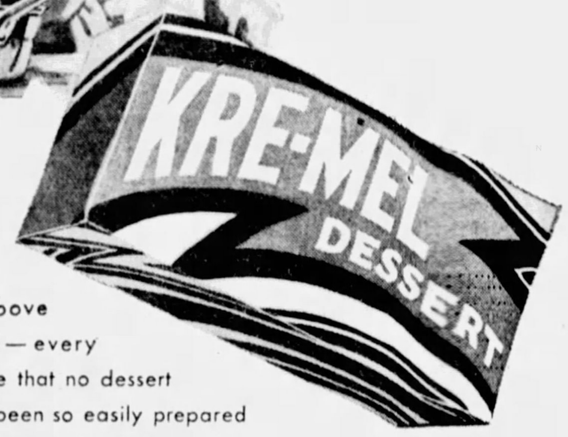
Don't toil in the kitchen over the Dessert problem—

MERELY DO THIS—
Mix thoroughly a package of KRE-MEL with ½ cup milk. Add 1½ cups milk and place over fire, stirring constantly until it thickens and reaches boiling point. This will take several minutes. If cooked in a double boiler, mix as above and stir constantly until thick (2 to 3 minutes) after which continue cooking and stir occasionally for about 5 minutes.



Once the above recipe is tried—every woman will agree that no dessert has ever before been so easily prepared—nor enjoyed more by the entire family.

KRE-MEL is a pure, rich, delicious dessert—and wholesome as well. There's plenty of Dextrose in KRE-MEL—and Dextrose is the vital food element that provides energy to growing children. Please notice the amount of milk called for in the recipe. That's fine for children.

REBUILD YOUR STRENGTH
the new strength that comes with taking S.S.S.
. . . particularly is this IMPORTANT in the spring, after colds, flu and sickness

MANY are weakened by the epidemics of colds and flu in winter and the body therefore has less resistance against further disease attacks.

When your vitality is low—you feel weak—have lost your appetite, the chances are that cold or the flu or some other sickness has destroyed many of your red-blood-cells and your body has not the strength to properly assimilate and use the food you eat.

When your red-blood-cells are reduced to 80% you are not yourself. 60% is dangerous. Your body may be demanding more red-blood-cells. You need these health-building and health-sustaining cells to build and repair tissue and give you strength.

S.S.S. is famed for its ability to increase the red-blood-cells. This is why for over 100 years it has been popular for toning up the system—especially in the spring. And being purely vegetable, S.S.S. has no harmful effects upon the system.

Every spring countless thousands take S.S.S. to build back their red-blood-cells so that they may have that new strength which makes for a keen appetite, firm flesh, a clear skin and greater resistance against infection and disease. You, too, will want to take S.S.S. for this very reason. Select the larger size as it holds double the quantity and represents a price-saving.

The Loudspeaker

By LOUIS REID

NEW YORK, March 12.—It has remained for radio to disclose the most fervid search for the fountain of youth since old Ponce de Leon rested his weary legs on the sands of Florida.

The search goes on day after day in thousands of homes. Women huddle by the loudspeakers from Gotham to the Golden Gate waiting for the priceless word of how to attain or retain youth. There is a new goddess of the microphone and her name is Edna Wallace Hopper.

Edna Wallace Hopper, 57-year-old flapper, recently entered the broadcasting corral. Sharing with Fannie Ward the apparent secret of eternal youth, she was induced to tell the women of America how she kept young. The little woman in the home, inspired perhaps, by the crooners and their amorous chants, began to cup her ear to Hopper. Throughout the republic she fell into the practice of cupping her ear whenever Miss Hopper faced the microphone.

More important, she began to write letters to this rare figure who has succeeded in staying young in spite of 57 years.

Today, Edna Wallace Hopper is a radio phenomenon. She receives, M. H. Aylesworth, hetman of NBC, told me, the astounding total of 142,000 letters a month. And that, my illusion-preservers, is a lot of mail. More mail, by 134,000 letters, if you want to know, than any other entertainer in his domain receives during the same period. By that token she ought to command the largest salary on the air.

Were a Thackeray alive today in the land he might pounce upon such a tidbit as the mainspring of a new social novel of the times. He might seize upon it for a penetratic analysis of the romantic spirit that hovers so hauntingly over the American scene, the ceaseless pursuit of the American woman for beauty and youth and love.

Though letter-writing has become a major industry in the land, a vast amount of toil and concentration are necessary to produce 142,000 letters a month to one radio personality. And that does not include the mail received by the commercial sponsors of her program. And there are the countless thousands who listen, eagerly, endlessly to the Hopperian wisdom, but who would never take the trouble to write a letter.

The statistics dumbfounded us, as used as we are to elaborate press agents' statements concerning the fan mail of radio entertainers. We had a notion that such big shots of the microphone as, say, Amos 'n' Andy, Seth Parker, Lowell Thomas, George Frame Brown were those who could display the most mountainous piles of mail. However, we can tell you, on the authority of Aylesworth, that their letters are of insignificant number in comparison to those reaching this high priestess of youth.

The influence of the sensational success of the radio trial drama of "The Trial of Vivienne Ware" continues to be felt in the studios of the radio rajahs. It is undoubtedly the Ware case that has inspired a series of famous trials of history soon to be broadcast. The first, concerned with the treason of Benedict Arnold, with Clarence Darrow and James M. Beck in the roles, respectively, of prosecutor and defender, should halt and keep halted any bridge game in the land.

The armchairs have yet to be treated to a prohibition raid. With William Burke Miller, most resourceful of the microphone's "put-them-on-the-spot" men, assisting, McCampbell should be able in his new role as chief of the dry cleaners to provide a good 15 minutes of comedy drama.

RETAIN PEPPER IN REDS' PLEA

Carl Hacker, Pittsburgh district secretary of the International Labor Defense, announced today that former Senator George Wharton Pepper had been retained, along with Attorney John M. Henry, of Pittsburgh, to represent three Aliquippa Communists when they apply for a pardon before the State Pardon Board.

The prisoners, Milan Resetar, Tom Zima and Peter Muselin, convicted of sedition, petitioned Judge J. J. McConnell, of Beaver County, for a parole yesterday, but were refused. They have served 15 months of five-year sentences.

Quickest Way To Knock a Cold

Millions Say of This Proved Way

Take two tablets now.

Better almost before you know it.

You Feel Like a New Person Almost Before You Know It

If you want quick relief from a cold, go back to first principles and use something you know does the business—don't start "trying" a lot of fancy ideas or remedies. Even a "little" cold is too dangerous to take chances on.

Get Hill's Cascara Quinine. A scientific formula made to do ONE THING WELL, to knock a cold in a jiffy, not to cure a hundred different things.

Take two tablets now. Then follow directions on box. Drink lots of water, too—that's all. Soon those mean aching pains in head and body begin to go; the cold breaks up; poisons leave your system. Almost before you know it, you feel like a new person.

If it doesn't do that, your money back. Get a box now. You'll be surprised at the speed with which it works. Costs only few cents.

$19,866 AWARD IN SALARY SUIT

A verdict of $19,866 against the McKeesport Journal in favor of Edgar Bell, formerly advertising manager, for services claimed under a contract, was returned in Common Pleas Court before Judge Harry H. Rowand.

Publication was suspended February 7, 1927, when the paper was taken over by the McKeesport Daily News, and Bell claimed $17,700, with interest, for the remainder of the alleged contract period, after deducting his earnings during that time on a Columbus publication.

STATE REMOVES 23 LIGHTS

Only 23 traffic signal lights, of the 53 disapproved by the State Highway Department, have been removed in Allegheny, Beaver, Greene, Washington and Westmoreland counties, the Pittsburgh Motor Club announced today. Officials of the club explained that many of the 30 remaining disapproved lights will not be removed, because they were in operation before June 1, 1929, and are exempt from the removal order. Of the 17 lights disapproved in Allegheny County, nine are still in operation, according to the motor club.

GOTHAM AND HOLLYWOOD LIFE; ABOUT COMING THEATER BILLS

Stars That Shine No More Reflect Their Life In New Books

By GEORGE SEIBEL

The public has a notion that every great actor must be a bit of a lunatic. Otis Skinner wrote a book on "Madfolk of the Theater." Stories of irate or drunken Macbeths, pursuing stupid supers through the stage door with property swords, are numerous. Nowadays the eccentricity of our stars usually takes the form of matrimonial excursions or overdoses of dope. It is hard to cut romance out of such shoddy cloth. But Edward Doherty has made a sort of romance out of his life of poor Jeanne Eagels.

He calls his book "The Rain Girl" (published by Macrae-Smith), because Jeanne made her big hit as Sadie Thompson in "Rain." And he is not the least concerned about glossing over Jeanne's failings.

George Seibel

"Gin Eagels, Broadway called her—the unruly, the turbulent, the drinker, the 'hop-head,' the outcast of Equity, the actress no man could completely manage, the woman who loved many men—and none—the tough little Kansas City chorus girl who fought her way up to the stars without help from anyone, and who ruined herself with arrogance, and with liquor, and with drugs."

It isn't certain whether she died from alcoholism or an overdose of chloral hydrate. The doctors disagreed. What difference does it make?

SHE WAS AN ACTRESS

The difference between Jeanne and many others who get into the scandal sheets is that she was an actress.

So many of them—especially those in the pictures—are not, never were, never will be actors or actresses.

Jeanne was ignorant, superstitious, emotional, erratic, obstinate and feeble of will. But she could act—roles of a certain sort. She'd have made a marvelous Cleopatra.

Another point brought out by Doherty's life is her congenital mendacity. He says "It was seldom that she told a lie"—but over and over he records the contrary. She fell from a fence at the age of six or seven and broke her right arm. That broken arm was true. But in the legend of her life "she was a circus girl when it was broken, she said, riding around the ring on a big white horse."

Doherty's book shows that the Peg Woffingtons and Nell Gwynnes did not all live in centuries past.

JACK DONAHUE'S LETTERS

A different sort of personality is revealed in Jack Donahue's "Letters of a Hoofer to His Ma" (published by Cosmopolitan). Donahue found fame only a few years ago in "Sunny" and "Sons o' Guns," and now Jack is dead. In these Letters there are amusing glimpses of the life he led as a vaudevillain back in 1910, when "$8.74 for the week with all my meals" was a typical hotel account. It is quite as funny as some of the doings and savings of Vincent Crummles himself, immortalized by Dickens.

The book shows that Donahue had native literary genius, just as he became a great dancer without having ever had a dancing lesson. While he was doing "Feats with Feet," appearing on the bill with Rooney's Seals or Wanda the Mind-Reader, he caught all the little humors and thrills of the road. He had the true comic spirit, and he also seemed to be incurably sane.

NOTES ABOUT COMING BILLS ON STAGE AND SCREEN

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Coburn, Nydia Westman, Isabel Baring, Burford Hampden, Hope Emerson, Ilse Gronau, John Connery, Albert Barrett, Dann Malloy, Vessie Farrell, a corps of Humphrey-Weidman dancers and three score other players will appear in "Lysistrata" when it comes to the Alvin Monday night.

Francis X. Bushman will appear in person with the George Sharp Company in the Pitt next week in a comedy, "Thin Ice."

Eugene O'Neill's "Strange Interlude" will open a return engagement of one week in the Nixon on March 23.

JOAN CRAWFORD FILM

Father and daughter worked from opposite ends of the camera during the filming of "Dance, Fools, Dance," Joan Crawford's newest feature opening tomorrow in the Penn. They were Charles Rosher, cameraman, and his daughter, Joan Marsh, who plays a featured role in the supporting cast.

Bebe Daniels, Ben Lyon and Lewis Stone head the cast of "My Past," adaptation of the novel "Ex-Mistress," which opens in the Stanley tomorrow. "Three of a Kind," featuring Belle Baker, musical comedy and radio singer, will be on the stage.

"Unfaithful," which opens a week's run in both the Fulton and Sheridan Square theaters tomorrow, is Ruth Chatterton's latest starring dramatic film for Paramount, and her third featuring Paul Lukas in the leading male role.

GANGSTER DRAMA

"The Last Parade," heralded as the story of a gangster's final fadeout, will come to the Warner Saturday. Tom Moore, Jack Holt and Constance Cummings are featured.

"Aloha," screen feature coming to the Harris Saturday, is said to tell the story of a modern "wild" woman who wouldn't be tamed. It features Ben Lyon and Raquel Torres.

Producers See Pendulum Swinging Back to Musical Films

By HARRISON CARROLL.

(Copyright, 1931, by Premier Syndicate.)

HOLLYWOOD, March 12.

Reviving confidence in screen musicals is evidenced by the arrival here this week of Rogers, Fields and Hart to do another melody picture for First National.

Back in the time when musicals were at their height, this successful Broadway team wrote "The Hot Heiress" for Joe E. Brown. Their new effort will star Ona Munson, musical-comedy star, under contract to First National.

L. Tibbett

Since leaving Hollywood, the trio of showmen have produced a show in London, and have another "America's Sweetheart," in New York now.

Warner Brothers are very pleased over the local reception of "Viennese Nights." It has exceeded expectations, and producers are hoping this is a sign of the inevitable swing of the pendulum. Lawrence Tibbett's "New Moon" also did well for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.

WHERE WILL THIS END?

Bill Crouch, of Exhibitor's Herald, called a studio the other day and asked to speak to a producer.

"I'm sorry," replied a secretary, "Mr. ——— can't be disturbed right now. He's on the verge of a conference."

LATEST GOSSIP

Yielding to the persuasion of David Belasco, Lupe Velez has signed a contract to appear in the producer's "Argentina" at the modest sum of $1,500 a week, with extra provision for her to share in the receipts. She'll leave for New York and rehearsals as soon as she finishes her role in "The Squaw Man." Lupe came to the movies via the stage. She first attracted attention for her singing and dancing in one of Carter De Haven's revues. . . . Jean Hersholt is writing his third book on stamp-collecting. His other two are "Early American Issues" and "Early British Colonial Issues." . . . The Mayfair Dance went off without fisticuffs. Mary Pickford, in Doug's absence, danced a good deal with former Alabama

30 Jobless Victims Of Confidence Man

WASHINGTON, Pa., March 12.—A new type of confidence game is being worked in this city, according to reports. The agent approaches his victims with an offer of a job on the Boulder Dam project in the West, collecting $2 from each man engaged. At a meeting of the 30-odd laborers he had rounded up, the agent failed to appear.

Sarg's Marionettes To Be Here March 28

Tony Sarg's Original Marionette Company, with Tony Sarg in person, will present "Alice in Wonderland" on Saturday afternoon and evening, March 28, in the Morris Kaufmann Auditorium, Y. M. & W. H. A., Bellefield avenue.

Plays, Players and By-Play

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

Charles R. Macloon, of the Sun-Telegraph, is doing a little chesty talking about his boy these days. His "boy" is Louis O. Macloon, of Los Angeles, who, with his wife, Lillian Albertson, former prominent dramatic actress, does for the Pacific coast what the Schuberts, Ziegfelds, et al, do for the East. That is, they produce. They've just put on an operetta, "Springtime in Paris," not yet seen in the East. The producers plan to invade Chicago and then New York—for a summer engagement.

Some baseball players are holding out and a lot of actors are trying to hold out.

Alice McVicker talks before women's clubs and other organizations in behalf of Jane Cowl, who will visit the Alvin after Easter. She is a granddaughter of a former noted theater owner, builder and manager of the historic McVicker's Opera House in Chicago. Some years ago it passed into the hands of Balaban & Katz, operators of a large movie house chain, who remodeled its interior. Miss McVicker recently visited Chicago and longed to see the office in which her ancestor had worked.

"My grandfather built this theater," she explained.

"Is that so?" responded the house manager. "Which was your grandfather—Mr. Balaban or Mr. Katz?"

Variety is the spice of life, which may be why some vaudevillians think their stuff has to be spicy.

Ina Claire, temporarily Mrs. John Gilbert, declares she will make a "great picture" before she is through with the movies.

"Just how I do not know, but I shall never give up until I do," is the way she is quoted.

Coming from a Claire that has an unexpectedly belligerent sound, and it is Okay. You see, she was born a Fagan.

Marion Spangle, of the chorus, thinks a taxidermist is a "guy who missed de taxi."

The Irish actress, who is about the only salvage of R. K. O.'s venture into stage producing, came down with double pneumonia when the picture was five days under way.

SEEK GLEASON HIT

Paramount would have Jack Oakie and Skeets Gallagher do a talkie version of "Is Zat So," the comedy that made a fortune for Jimmie Gleason. From all reports, Gleason is holding out for another fortune for the talkie rights. It may be the price will be too steep. The studio has hopes of closing the deal, though. In case they do, Oakie will play the Gleason role of manager, while Gallagher will be the dum pug, played on the stage by Robert Armstrong.

DRYS RAID SAFE IN CAPONE CLUB

CHICAGO, March 12.—(AP.)—Federal prohibition agents early today raided the Cotton Club of Ralph Capone in suburban Cicero, and used acetylene torches to open the safe and obtain records for use in their investigation of the liquor traffic.

The raid itself was the upshot of a previous visit to the club by Roy Budd and Dan Copely, federal prohibition officers, who were sitting in front of the place, March 5, in an automobile when accosted by an unknown gunman and Jack Karron, the club's doorman. Despite the fact that they revealed their identities, Budd and Copely said they were taken to the Cicero police headquarters. They were subsequently released after charging Karron with interfering with federal officers.

This morning Budd and Copely led a squad of federal officers into the club. They reported they found a half dozen guests, the chorus girls and orchestra scattered over the club. The guests promptly broke half a dozen bottles of liquor on the floor, but there was no other confusion.

When the safe was opened, a number of records were seized and taken at once to the Federal Building.

Featured

Nydia Westman and Isabel Baring are featured in "Lysistrata," the Aristophanes-Seldes comedy, coming to the Alvin next week.

Too Wide

And you, my dear, who hurt so very much
So short a time ago—you hurt no longer.
You, picture-on-the-wall that used to clutch
My heartstrings—your enchantment is no stronger
This evening than a dozen other faces
More beautiful (if more diffused by years)
Than yours. My dear, this inconstant eye effaces
The sharpest images. Nor any tears
To dignify the effacement have I shed,
No poems wrought of anguish, no sleepless nights,
No single blasphemous wish that you were dead,
No dreary letter saying the last rites
Of love . . .
Too wide the world, too full of ships
And sealing wax and shoes—and eager lips!

—Jigger.

Anything for a Laugh

They will tell you that Mrs. Pat Campbell, one of the grand old ladies of the stage, is strapped these days and has a difficult time of it—but that they still like her because she won't ask for a break.

Mrs. Campbell, however, gets a bigger kick out of making celebrities miserable. The other night at a party, when she met Amelia Earhart, she cooed:

"Oh, yes. You're the lady who swims."

"But," said Miss Earhart, "I cannot swim."

"Aren't you the one who swam from France to England?" queried Mrs. C.

"No, I fly!" almost shrieked Amelia.

"Oh, yes," said Mrs. Campbell as she gently slapped Miss Earhart's wrist, "you flew from France to England!"

BEWARE THE COUGH FROM COLDS THAT HANG ON

Coughs from colds may lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of coughs from colds, bronchitis and minor forms of bronchial irritations, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist.

SCIENCE ENDS ACID STOMACH

"I was in a terrible state for years with acid indigestion," writes Mrs. Nellie Crouse, of 2803 Quincy Street, Kansas City, Mo. "After eating I had such terrible pains in my stomach, I thought I'd die. I would get nervous and numb and my heart would nearly stop beating. Nothing helped until I tried ACIDINE. Now I can eat, sleep and enjoy life again."

Just another of thousands who are astonished at the way this new prescription ACIDINE succeeds when other known remedies fail. The reason is it is different from other medicines. ACIDINE contains Japtase, which, in laboratory tests, digested 800 times its own weight of certain heavy starchy foods. ACIDINE neutralizes burning acid, soothes irritated stomach and intestinal linings, helps end acidosis.

Eat, drink all you want. When sour stomach, gas, pain, heartburn, bad taste, heavy feeling, short breath, dizziness, belching, nervousness, colds, gassy headaches and sleeplessness trouble you, take ACIDINE. Results guaranteed. If not delighted, maker refunds money. Get it from your druggist today.

COLD INFECTION

carried and spread by handkerchiefs

Ordinary handkerchief carries millions of disease germs during a cold . . self-infects user . . . infects others.

Use Kleenex then destroy

IMPORTANT to the health of every man, woman and child in the United States is the latest scientific information about the importance of Kleenex during colds.

This information comes as a result of tests performed on ordinary handkerchiefs used during colds. These handkerchiefs, without exception, were found literally teeming with disease germs. Used even once, a handkerchief may contain over 200,000 germs! These germs are carried back to the face by the ordinary handkerchief . . but are destroyed when you use Kleenex.

What Kleenex is

Kleenex is a soft, super-absorbent tissue. So inexpensive that you use each tissue only once, then discard. So gentle that irritation is impossible. Every tissue that touches your face is clean and dry.

Kleenex reduces your laundry bill. It is perfect for children.

For removing cold cream

Yes, this is the very same Kleenex that beauty experts advise for removing creams and cosmetics from the face. Its absorbency assures super-cleansing. Kleenex saves towels from cosmetic stains.

Ask for Kleenex at any drug, dry goods or department store: 25c, 50c and $1. If you have not tried Kleenex send for a free trial packet to the Kleenex Company, Lake Michigan Bldg., Chicago, Ill.

BACTERIOLOGICAL TESTS SHOW:

1. That handkerchiefs used by persons having colds may contain as many as 4,170,000 germs per handkerchief. The organisms included are those associated with colds.

2. That organisms associated with colds, when impregnated upon linen and rinsed in boiling water and soap water, were not killed nor appreciably inhibited from growing.

Walter Winchell on Broadway

those who claimed the scoop as "fiction writers" and reported that it was his "duty" to print that "Walter Winchell was the first journalist to print a line to the effect that the Biddles were being divorced."

We thank Cholly for the ad. S'very nice of Cholly, but we cannot recall ever doing anything to him to warrant being called a journalist, which anyone'll tell you is a person on a newspaper who gets less money than a reporter, but who tries to conceal that fact by carrying a cane.

Just Twice as Much

Take it from Clayton, Jackson & Durante: a Ku Kluxer walked into a shop run by a Negro and demanded to know why his window displayed a placard reading "200 per cent!"

"Well," said the brownskin, "you Kluxers say you is 100 per cent because you don't like the Jews, Catholics and colored people, right?"

"Absolutely!" thundered the Kluxer.

"Well," snapped the darkey, "I hate you and everybody else!"

In Other Words

You can find one in every theater lobby. Between acts of J. M. Barrie's old play, "The Admirable Crichton," one of the critics was saying that he thought the show creaked and that he intended so reporting.

"He comes not to praise," mumbled a pun-maker, "but to Barrie him."

Why Columnists Go Mad

"I am very much surprised," indignantly writes Josephine Sievers Birt, of No. 3421 West One Hundred and Fifty-ninth street, Cleveland, O., "to see in your column a poem called 'Temptation' by a person named Freddie. I am hot under the collar because I wrote that over a year ago, and you never used it. I'd like Freddie's name and address to give him a piece of my mind, for probably he has several of my other poems. I have made arrangements to broadcast my verses for a consideration. You certainly wouldn't like to have your stuff thefted!"

The poem has caused us no end of heckling and Freddie has been rebuked. The verse, we learned too late, is by Oscad Wilde.

Oop!

"Dear Mr. Winchell," writes Bill Mack, of the Irving Berlin Company, No. 177 Tremont street, Boston, "in a recent 'Things I Never Knew Till Now' column, you stated that there is a Winchell School in Boston. You are absolutely right, sir, but what you probably do not know until now is that the reason they named it The Winchell is that it only goes to the fifth grade!"

?Red face my is.

At Last!

The ageless query, "Why does a chicken cross the road?" has finally been answered with some common sense.

The Messrs. Vallee or Chevalier probably are on the other side.

The Retort Dandy

Benjamin Block, the owner of Morvich, one of the better racing steeds, relays the feud between Senator Evans and an Illinoisy editor, who battled the Senator via printer's ink for many years.

The aggravating newspaperman finally wearied of the quarrel, and encountering Evans, said:

"Senator, I suppose you don't want to talk to me after the way I've annoyed you, but on my word of honor I'll never say a mean thing about you again. Watch me henceforth—and see the difference."

"Oh, that's all right," replied Senator Evans. "I don't care how much you lie about me, but I warn you—I'll kill you—if you tell the truth about me."

O, Mr. Wilstach!

Suggested for the simile dictionary: Judge's: As much chance as a salary raise in Wall Street . . . Pathfinder: As dull as shaving cream sales in Russia . . . Ted Cook's: Conspicuous as a movie star without an ermine attending a Hollywood premiere . . . Patterson James: Objectionable as a nail in a fruit cake . . . John Kiernan: As healthy as giving a rapidly rotating buzzsaw a swift punch in the teeth . . . Hy Goldstein: She broke hearts as ruthlessly as a laundry does buttons.

Tee, Hee!

"All judges makes mistakes"—The Journal.

Even printers is not infallible.

Pardon My Shove—

Miss Kate Smith, if you please, who was in "Honeymoon Lane," "Flying High" and big time vaudeville, subscribes to the sentiments of those sages who commented about critics in this manner:

"As soon believe a woman or an epitaph before you trust a critic" . . . "Critics are those who've failed; the weak and insipid white wine makes at length excellent vinegar." . . . "Critics are like brushers of gentlemen's clothes."

And our favorite line about some actors still remains:

"Some actors are like cigars—the more you puff 'em the smaller they get."

SEEK RECOVERY OF ESTATE TAX

An action to recover $47,733.87 paid the government as estate tax was instituted in Federal Court by John H. Donnan, Sidney B. Donnan and Dorothy D. Witworth, executors of the estate of John W. Donnan, former president of the Citizens National Bank of Washington, Pa. The suit was filed against D. M. Heiner, collector of internal revenue in the Pittsburgh district.

The plaintiffs aver the tax was collected unlawfully on $1,700,000 the banker had given his children two years before his death, December 23, 1928. The plaintiffs ask for interest from February 17, 1931, on the sum.

SIDEWALKS —of— PITTSBURGH

By William Pfarr

"Mule" was the colored shoe shiner in the Frick Building. He was a particular favorite of city and county officials who would go out of their way to have "Mule" shine their shoes. Nobody seemed to know his last name.

William Pfarr

A few years ago his wife deserted him and his three children. After that, every day at noon "Mule" would walk the mile or two from his shine stand to his home up on the Hill to prepare the noon-day meal for his children, back from school.

The depression hit "Mule's" business, too, and a year or more ago, what with his other worries, he became mentally ill. He was sent to the hospital at Mayview, and the first person he met there was Young Bijou, Negro, one-time boxer. It so happened that years ago Bijou and "Mule" had taken part in a battle royal—slugging matches in which a half-dozen fighters punch each and any.

"Well," said Bijou as he greeted "Mule," "it looks like they counted us both out."

"Yes, Bijou, but where's that ten bucks?" "Mule" asked.

A dozen years before Bijou had collected the wages for a battle royal at Conneaut Lake and disappeared without paying off "Mule" and the others, who had to ride box cars back to town.

"Aw, 'Mule,'" Bijou protested, "that's been outlawed, that ten bucks."

Well, "Mule" died a few days ago and they took his body to his unimpressive home on the Hill, where his three children lived. Mayor Kline went up to see the family, and City Solicitor Waldschmidt and Ben Lesher and Ed Lang and Ben Anderson and some others. They took up a collection and gave it to the children.

A patriotic Pittsburgher, David R. Grafton, of Jenkins Acade, hands us one on the nose for belittling Pittsburgh's pickpockets and praising the pickpockets of Chicago. Listen to Mr. Grafton:

"A way back in 1930 my pocket was picked on a Frankstown street car. In the wallet were $51 cash and a $75 check, together with the usual cards. Sure enough, the next day the postman brought in the wallet with everything, including the check, except the money. Ever since I have had a real appreciation of this pickpocket's thoughtfulness, and I don't see where you have any license to boost the stock of Chicago's pickpockets. If this bird who picked my pocket doesn't stack up with anything in Chicago for efficiency, I'd like to know why."

To the pickpockets of Pittsburgh we apologize. We did them an injustice which, if anybody in Asia reads Sidewalks, will be felt as far away as Asia. We're humbly sorry to have offended this great fraternity.

Every now and then we go in for a bit of descriptive writing which puts the customers in the aisles. Who, for instance, will ever forget how we described the view of the city from Mt. Washington? We wrote that the view of the city from Mt. Washington was a view that should not be missed by any taxpayer. We said further, it was a wow! Boy, when we describe 'em, they stay described, as One-eyed Connelly says.

Today we have decided to toss you a bit of descriptive writing on steam shovels. We have been watching the steam shovel which is tearing up the ground at Bigelow boulevard and Seventh avenue. We have been watching it because we can see it from our office. Well, here goes: A steam shovel reminds us of a great and ravenous lion tearing into the maws of—are you still there?

HALL SITE PLOT SEEN IN BILL

Efforts being made at Harrisburg to amend the Pittsburgh zoning laws were termed today as "an insult to the taxpayers of Allegheny County" by W. H. Newmyer, chairman of the North Side Town Hall Association.

The amendment, which has already passed the House and is now being considered by a Senate committee, provides a two-thirds majority vote in City Council to change existing zoning ordinances. A three-fourths majority is required now.

FOE OF OAKLAND SITE

Newmyer is active in the movement under way to block construction of Allegheny County's proposed $6,000,000 Town Hall in Oakland. He declared that the change in the zoning law was sought merely to insure enactment of legislation which would enable the County Commissioners to proceed with the construction of the Town Hall on the site they selected. He said:

"I think it is an insult to the taxpayers of Allegheny County and nothing but a play into the hands of the politicians. It will be a constant danger to the people."

PASSED BY THE HOUSE

The amendment, which passed the House on March 4, was introduced by Representative Max Spann. It was prepared, according to word received here, by City Solicitor Charles A. Waldschmidt. It reads:

"Such regulations, restrictions and boundaries may from time to time be amended, supplemented, changed, modified or repealed. In case, however, of a protest against such change signed by the owners of 20 per cent or more, either of the area of the lot included in such proposed change, or of those immediately adjacent in the rear, or adjoining, on the side thereof extending 10 feet therefrom, or of those directly opposite extending 100 feet from the street frontage of such opposite lot, or when disapproved by the City Planning Commission, such amendment shall not become effective except by the favorable vote of two-thirds of all the members of Council of said city."

WRECKAGE OF THE "GREATER PITTSBURGH" (NEE HOMER SMITH) SUBMERGED IN THE OHIO RIVER AFTER SPECTACULAR FIRE DESTROYED IT

MYSTERIOUS FIRE RUINS STEAMER

The cause of the fire which last night destroyed the excursion steamer Greater Pittsburgh, formerly the Homer Smith, docked for the winter in the Ohio River near Page street, North Side, had not been determined today.

Flames which cast a reflection visible for miles, destroyed the steamer in less than an hour while firemen fought valiantly to check them. Hose lines were run several blocks to the burning boat by firemen, who were compelled to combat the blaze from a distance of about 100 feet because of the intense heat. The welding department of the Power Piping Company, near the wharf of the McCrady-Rodgers Company, where the steamer was docked, was threatened.

An official of the McCrady-Rodgers Company, owners, last night said that the watchman, Lon Sewell, one-time river captain, who was reported missing, had been accounted for. The loss of the boat was placed in the neighborhood of $200,000.

The fire spread and destroyed a wharf boat moored with the Greater Pittsburgh and two barges. Forty-five barges moored nearby were pulled to safety by the towboat, Sweetcake and steamer W. H. McCrady. Another McCrady steamer, the Margaret, was ordered to the scene of the fire and from her decks firemen combatted the flames.

POWER CHIEFS TOUR PLANTS

Inspection trips to power plants of the district were one of the features of today's schedule at the joint convention of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers, middle eastern district, the Association of Iron and Steel Electrical Engineer and the Engineers Society of Western Pennsylvania, electrical section, in its second day at the William Penn Hotel.

A technical session occupied the morning session at which the first woman speaker was heard before an A. I. E. E. session. Miss Edith Clarke, a specialist in the central station department of the General Electric Company at Schenectady, spoke on a technical subject.

Other speakers scheduled included C. A. Powell, J. E. Clem, W. A. Lewis, L. S. Tippett, R. D Evans and S. H. Wright.

'Blue Ridge' Division Recalled To Join St. Mihiel Onslaught

Pershing Massed His Troops From Many Sectors to Form First Army

CHAPTER LX.

The final decision that the 1st American Army would undertake the reduction of the St. Mihiel salient as its first operation was transmitted to Army Headquarters August 10, and the Army Staff immediately began the development of plans for the concentration of the necessary troops for its execution.

It was certain the psychological effect on the enemy of our success in this first operation by the American Army as well as on the Allies, our own troops and our people at home would be of great importance. The attack must, therefore, not only succeed, but a serious hostile reaction must be made impossible.

Gen. Pershing

The headquarters of the First Army were removed to Neufchateau between August 11 and 16. The special army troops assembled north of Chateau Thierry were moved eastward during the same period. Neufchateau was a central point for operations on any portion of the front from St. Mihiel to the Swiss frontier.

As considerable American activity had been carried on there for many months, its selection would probably keep the enemy in ignorance of the exact sector we were to occupy.

The following corps and divisions were placed at the disposal of the First Army for the St. Mihiel operation, and their condition may be summarized as follows.

The 1st and 2d Divisions were excellent as to training, equipment and morale. They had attacked July 18 in the Soissons drive.

The 3d, 4th, 26th and 42d divisions were of fine morale and considerable experience, as they had fought in the defense about Chateau Thierry and in the advance toward the Vesle River.

80th Division Trained

The 89th and 90th divisions were going through their sector training on the front between Toul and the Moselle River, and the 5th and 35th divisions were taking their sector training in the Vosges.

The 33d, 78th, 80th and 82d divisions had been training in rear of the British front, one brigade of the 33d having had front line service with the British, and the 91st Division had never been in the front line and had received less than four weeks' training in France.

As to Corps Headquarters, the 1st Corps was well organized and had operated in the Aisne-Marne defensive and offensive. Fourth and 5th Corps Headquarters were only partially organized and had very few corps troops.

Except for one brigade of corps artillery and three or four air service squadrons, all of the American corps and army troops to be employed were at this time in their preliminary training period in France.

The training of the divisions for the coming operation was directed by the Training Section of General Headquarters. The equipment of these units, their supply and the handling of replacements devolved upon the First Army, as did the reception, equipment and supply of thousands of corps and army troops arriving from the Services of Supply or directly from transports.

It was some time before the date for the St. Mihiel attack could be fixed, but preparations were being hastened in the hope that the attack might be made by September 7.

A Difficult Task

Our divisions were scattered and it seemed doubtful whether sufficient rail or truck transportation

The biggest laugh of the week was caused naturally by a senator (and they wasn't even in session, not trying to be funny). It was by Jim Watson, of Indiana, the Republican leader. The "progressives" are holding a meeting in Washington and he asked them to please define exactly how they stood on the following problems, "prohibition, farm relief, tariff," and 10 other important questions, asking the progressives to answer something that a Republican wouldn't answer if he was on his death bed.

Post He Organized Passes As G. A. R. Vet Dies

With the passing of Civil War Veteran Joseph Grabb, 86, last night in his home, 1217 Buena Vista street, the G. A. R. post he organized years ago became extinct.

Shortly after the Civil War, Mr. Grabb, with several other comrades-in-arms, organized Post No. 128, G. A. R. There were approximately 200 members in the ranks then.

Time cut harshly into the ranks of the old soldiers, and last November, when Mr. Grabb observed his golden wedding anniversary with his wife, Mrs. Mary Grabb, none of his former comrades were present to share the celebration.

Born in Lancaster County, Mr. Grabb was a soldier in the Union forces at 16. He left the army at the end of the war with wounds received in major conflicts and the rank of color sergeant.

He was a member of the Union Veteran Legion and St. Mary's Roman Catholic Church, Lockhart street. Besides his wife, he leaves four daughters, Mrs. Josephine Puhl and Mrs. Matilda Joy, of Pittsburgh, and Mrs. Rose Rafferty and Mrs. Emma Rapp, of Los Angeles, and four grandchildren.

M'KEESPORT MAN HELD IN PASTOR'S AUTO DEATH

DENIES HE WAS FATAL CRASH DRIVER

Traffic Inspector Posts Bond; Witness Tells of Bent Light on Machine

Traffic Inspector J. Harrison Newlin, of McKeesport, today was at liberty under $1,000 bond in connection with the death of the Rev. Clarence A. Downing, 53, pastor of the Glassport Baptist Church, who was fatally injured by an automobile. County detectives yesterday ordered Newlin to post bond pending an inquest.

The Rev. Mr. Downing was run down February 21 near his home, 435 West Fifth avenue, McKeesport, and died in McKeesport Hospital Tuesday.

Newlin denied to Mayor George H. Lysle that he drove the car that struck the Rev. Mr. Downing, but said he stopped to give aid.

Harry Hartzell, of 2619 Cleveland avenue, McKeesport, said he stopped at the accident scene and noticed the right headlight of Newlin's automobile was turned back and that the inspector repaired it without comment when his attention was called to it.

Newlin, traffic planner for McKeesport, is not a member of the Police Department.

When they neared Crawford street, he struck her on the head. The assailant fled when his victim screamed. Miss Woomer made her way back to the automobile and was taken home.

GIRL, MAN HURT IN AUTO CRASH

When the car in which they were riding struck a pole in Evergreen avenue, near North avenue, Millvale, early today, Helen Rodgers, 18, sustained a probable fractured skull, bruises and lacerations, and Robert Mackey, 26, of 2015 Veronica street, North Side, minor bruises and lacerations. Both were admitted to Allegheny General Hospital, where it was said the girl's condition was serious.

A lovely outcast

Pleasant company always passed her by . . . but she never guessed the reason. She didn't know that unsightly teeth are offensive to others. And faithful brushing will never correct this condition—unless you remove the cause of stain, tartar discoloration and decay. Authorities call it Bacterial Mouth. We all have it, and only one dental cream will remove it . . . That's Kolynos.

New Way

Quickly Makes Teeth Dazzling White

THERE is only one correct way to clean and whiten teeth quickly. That is the method long advocated by dentists and perfected by Kolynos—called the Dry-Brush Technique. But switch to Kolynos and judge for yourself. Use a half-inch on a dry brush twice daily.

You'll quickly discover that teeth marred by stain, tartar and decay, and denuded at their necks by receding gums, are tell-tale signs of carelessness. Teeth look whiter—fully 3 shades in 3 days! Gums will look firmer and pinker. Your mouth will tingle with a delightful, sweet taste.

Unique? Of course! There's nothing like Kolynos. When it enters the mouth it multiplies 25 times and becomes a pleasant tasting, antiseptic FOAM that permits the Dry-Brush Technique!

Aided by the dry bristles of the toothbrush this FOAM gets into and cleans every pit, fissure and crevice like no toothpaste you have ever used.

Ugly tartar is quickly dissolved. Acids are neutralized. Dangerous germs that cause Bacterial-Mouth are killed. Teeth are cleaned down to the naked white enamel without injury. And for 3 hours after each brushing this FOAM continues to clean teeth and combat germs.

Expect Results in 3 Days

Kolynos wins new users by comparison. No ordinary toothpaste can match its effectiveness. It permits the Dry-Brush Technique which keeps the brush bristles stiff enough to do the work they should do.

Introduce yourself to Kolynos. Start using it with the Dry-Brush Technique and within 3 days you'll understand why Kolynos is so popular. Get a tube of Kolynos from your druggist.

MISMANAGEMENT CHARGED AT DIAMOND MARKET HOUSE

PAYROLL LARGE, SERVICE POOR, SAY TENANTS

Real Estate Board Avers Council Ignored Advice on Ending $25,000 Deficit

The Diamond Market House, manned with a payroll of sufficient size to handle a small office building, according to experienced managers, has been allowed to get into such bad condition that the owners of stands are protesting.

Last spring a committee from the Pittsburgh Real Estate Board investigated the market house and filed reports with City Council stating what could be done to change a net loss of $25,000 a year into a substantial profit.

NO ACTION BY COUNCIL

No action has been taken by Council. Yesterday the Building Owners and Managers Association, representing some of the largest taxpayers in the city, sent resolutions to Council asking that the market house report be brought out of the files and some action taken to relieve serious conditions now existing.

The Real Estate Board found the building heavily manned but poorly operated. They reported antiquated equipment and low rental schedules with poor service for the tenants.

At the present time conditions are at their worst. Tenants say that the windows have not been cleaned for a year, and the walls have not been washed for a longer period than that.

PIPES RUSTED

Rusty refrigeration pipes hanging against the ceiling drip water into the stalls. One merchant keeps his stall covered with oil cloth so that it looks like a tent. In another corner of the room a merchant has hung out lard buckets to catch the water.

Merchants say that they made repeated requests to the superintendent of the market house to have the old pipes removed. Some months ago they agreed to pay an increase of 20 per cent in rent if improvements to the building were made.

The payroll of the Diamond Market approved by Council in the budget session includes one clerk, one constable, eight elevator operators, two cleaners, two watchmen, three engineers, one driver and eight laborers.

CHILD FEARED KIDNAPED LOCATED

State-Wide Manhunt Ends as Child Is Found Visiting Home of Kin in Tarentum

The object of a state-wide search by police who believed she had been kidnaped, Ruth Detwiler, 12-year-old daughter of William F. Detwiler, of 1305 North Highland avenue, was home today.

Search for the girl, whose disappearance had been reported over the police teletype system and radio, ended shortly before midnight when she was found at the home of a relative in Tarentum, where the family formerly lived. Detwiler, general manager of the Allegheny Steel Company, became alarmed when his daughter failed to return home last night, and notified police.

Ruth and her sister, Gene, 14, arrived yesterday morning at the Winchester private school, at 4721 Fifth avenue, in the family car. Gene ran ahead to greet schoolmates and Ruth vanished.

Ruth and two other little girls had visited motion picture shows in Tarentum, it was reported.

TELEGRAPH RUM FRAUD BARED

With revelation of a new liquor racket which has netted $4,400 in the last two weeks, city detectives today were searching for the perpetrators. The victims were business and club men, according to detectives, informed of the swindle by Western Union Telegraph Company officials.

Inspector of Detectives Frank R. Boyd said the scheme is, while the intended victim is absent from his place of business, to wire his secretary instructions to handle an important shipment coming to his office or home. The message instructs that a man named "Gregory" is to be paid $120 each for not more than 10 cases. Four men were swindled in this manner, Inspector Boyd said.

An error in the name of her employer, attached to one of the bogus messages, was detected by an alert secretary, who brought the scheme to light.

ACTRESS ASKING BALM SUED

NEW YORK, March 12.—(AP.)—Vera McCord's only asset, so far as Daniel Schwartz has been able to determine, is her $50,000 breach of promise suit against Maurice Rothschild, of Chicago. Just how much of an asset that may be is in doubt.

Schwartz has obtained a court order calling on Miss McCord, an actress, and Rothschild, a banker, to show cause today why Schwartz should not be made a party to the suit. Schwartz wants to get $533 which he says Miss McCord offered him for rent.

The actress' suit alleges that Rothschild, a widower, failed to keep a promise to marry her, which she says he made in 1927.

In his answer Rothschild declared the engagement was broken because Miss McCord drank. Replying to this, the actress asked if Rothschild wasn't usually her drinking companion. She denied drinking to excess.

Itchy Eczema Caused Awful Eruptions. Cuticura Healed.

"Eczema broke out in blisters on my hands and when I opened them water came from them. It burned and itched and when I scratched it caused awful eruptions. I could not put my hands in water because they burned so, and could not do my work.

"I used all kinds of ointments but they did no good. I read an advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment and sent for a free sample. After using it I purchased more and was completely healed in two weeks." (Signed) Miss Hattie Zimmerman, R. 3, Box 39, Pine Grove, Pa., April 7, 1930.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resent a substitute.

Catarrhal Deafness May Be Relieved.

A Simple, Safe and Reliable Way That Calls for No Ugly Trumpets, Phones or Other Instruments.

To have catarrhal deafness is very annoying and embarrassing. People who are deaf in this way are generally mighty sensitive on this subject. And yet many catarrhal deaf folks carry around instruments that call attention to their infirmity. Therefore people who are hard of hearing, who suffer from head noises or who are actually deaf from catarrhal trouble, will be glad to know of a simple treatment that can be easily made up at home for a few cents cost that is really quite efficient in relieving the disagreeable deafness and head noises caused by catarrh.

From all May's & Liggett's Drug Stores, or any druggist get one ounce of Parmint (double strength). Take this home and put it in a simple syrup made of ¼ pint of hot water and a little ordinary sugar. Take a tablespoonful four times a day.

This treatment should by tonic action reduce the inflammation in the middle ear, that a catarrhal condition would be likely to cause, and with the inflammation gone the distressing head noises, headaches, cloudy thinking and that dull feeling in the ears should gradually disappear. Anyone who suffers from catarrh, catarrhal deafness or head noises should give Parmint a trial. It is pleasant to take and is quite inexpensive.

LUCKIES are always kind to your throat

The advice of your physician is: Keep out of doors, in the open air, breathe deeply; take plenty of exercise in the mellow sunshine, and have a periodic check-up on the health of your body.

Everyone knows that sunshine mellows—that's why the "TOASTING" process includes the use of the Ultra Violet Rays. # PATRICIA PITT'S COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Small Events Give Color To Lent

During this last bit of gay, rollicking winter when social duties are not pressing, many folks are paying visits to friends and relatives. And the hostesses and their friends are entertaining at many informal events, which add color to the Lenten season.

Among the visitors of the last days of winter is Mrs. Robert T. Miller, of Baltimore, formerly of Pittsburgh, who is the house guest of the George B. Oateses, of South Negley avenue.

Today Mrs. John C. Penney is entertaining for Mrs. Miller in the Twentieth Century Club, and numerous other affairs have been given for her.

And I've just heard some more travel news.

Harriet Turnbull has gone to South Africa. She arrived there last week, and will return in May, accompanied by her aunt, Mrs. A. L. DeVilliers.

And today the junior William Larimer Joneses, accompanied by Mrs. Jones' sister and brother-in-law, the L. Dawson Painters, are leaving for a boat trip through the Panama Canal, and will visit Palm Springs, Cal., for a fortnight.

A very lovely March wedding is taking place at 5:30 o'clock this afternoon in the Pittsburgh Country Club. The bride is Betty Ganter Close, daughter of the Howard Dauler Closes, of Murrayhill avenue, and she is marrying Samuel Richard Robb, son of the Samuel G. Robbs, of Latrobe. Officiating is the Rev. H. H. Forsyth, of the Sixth Presbyterian Church.

Wedding Today

The bride is wearing an exquisite gown of ivory rose point lace, with a full court train, and a veil of ivory tulle cascading from a cap of old rose point. She is carrying a sheaf of calla lilies and Russian status.

Kathryn Close, her cousin's maid of honor, is wearing a gown of yellow canton crepe trimmed with apple green, with a hat of natural French imported straw banded with apple green velvet. The bride's sister, Elsie Jane Close, as the junior bridesmaid, is wearing orchid crepe trimmed with yellow and a hat similar to that of her cousin. The bridesmaids include Virginia Johnston, wearing green crepe banded with orchid; Mrs. Harry Kerr Runnette, turquoise blue crepe banded with coral pink; Mrs. William G. Sander, coral pink crepe banded with turquoise blue, and Mrs. Thomas Fitzgerald, Jr., tangerine crepe banded with brown. They are all wearing natural French straw hats and carrying spring flowers.

Serving as best man is John F. Robb, brother of the bridegroom, and the ushers include Edgar F. Sadd, Harrison F. Gleason, John B. Sheedy and Harry I. Magmaier.

At the reception following the ceremony, the table is in the form of a horseshoe, centered with spring flowers in low crystal bowls, on a cloth of silver. After a two week honeymoon in Bermuda, Mr. Robb and his bride will live in Pittsburgh.

The J. Scott Millers, who are in town en route to Wheaton, Ill., from Detroit, where they have been since their fall wedding, are being extensively entertained during their brief visit. Mrs. Miller is the former Sara Westwood Lewis, daughter of the Bertrand W. Lewises, of South Pacific avenue. Mrs. Lewis entertained Saturday in her home with a luncheon in their honor, and Tuesday night, Marguerite McLenahan, a bridesmaid at the wedding, entertained. Yesterday Mrs. Robert M. Repp was hostess at a luncheon in her home.

Honor Bride

Tomorrow night the Lewises are to give a dinner for 20 guests in their home. And on Saturday the Millers will be guests of honor at a dinner Mrs. E. L. Kidney, of Bellevue, will give. On Monday the Millers will leave for Wheaton.

Mr. and Mrs. William Cleland, of Verona, announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Martha Mary Cleland, to Joseph McGlynn, of the East End, which took place on March 2 in the home of the bride's parents. Officiating was the Rev. Arthur Stumpf. After a brief wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. McGlynn will reside in the East End.

|---|---|
| Concerto | Marcello |
| Rhapsodie | Brahms |
| Intermezzo | Brahms |
| Sonata | Liszt |
| Jeux d'eau | Ravel |
| Sonata | Miaskowski |
| Etude E Major | Chopin |
| Nocturne G Major | Chopin |
| Polonaise A flat Major | Chopin |

Henry Harris, youthful pianist who has just returned from his studies in Germany, played again in the Young Men and Women's Hebrew Association last night, presenting a rather formidable program. That he was able to maintain not only interest but real enthusiasm to the very end of that glorious polonaise speaks well for his ability to entertain, and for the musician there was plenty of every school to judge this young artist's talents.

Mr. Lissfelt

There was an old concerto of Marcello, originally written for oboe and transcribed for piano by Vivaldi or Bach, two richly conceived Brahms works, and then that gloriously dramatic sonata of Liszt. A touch of impressionism in Ravel, and then that lugubrious and ominous sonata of Miaskowski with its chorale "Dies Irae." Three better known works of Chopin completed the program, and on the insistent request of the audience there came as encores Mendelssohn's Scherzo in E Minor, Debussy's "Reflections on the Water," and that delightful "Danse d'Olaf" of Pick-Mangiagalli.

Harris is the born virtuoso. His youth forbids some of the deeper sentiment that would move us more in such intimate music as the Chopin Etude and Nocturne, but even here there are definite signs of an aspiring nature that is surely on the way to the truth. His impulsiveness stands him in good stead for many a swift and moving effect, and then becomes slightly a fault when it creates undue haste, as during the Ravel. But it is during such monumental performances as his reading of the Liszt and Miaskowski sonatas that his sense of style, dramatic effects, pure pianism, and dynamic effects becomes prophetic of a rich future.

J. FRED LISSFELT.

TELL IT TO SALLY

By SALLY MARTIN

Must a Woman Drink to Retain Popularity?

"Must I be a hooch hound . . . to be a good sport?" Hester asked that question in this column not long ago. She wasn't moralizing or being snooty. She honestly hated hooch . . . even the smell of it made her ill. And she couldn't for the life of her see anything either fizzy or funny about the fumbling gestures and vacant eyes of a Lit Lady or a Likkered Gent.

But her husband had hinted, more than once, that she was a frost on the evening. And it was true. She could see it herself. She was a frost.

"What'll I do?" she wailed. "I love my husband, and I won't want to lose him! And I'm afraid I'm going to ——"

We suspected that the argument was starting static in a good many other homes in this land of the Noble Experiment . . . so we put it up to the gang. And did the gang come through with answers!

A Disapproval

You read 'em. We'll let E. R. fire the first gun.

"Huh!" she snorts. "My answer to Hester's question as to whether or not she should learn to be a booze hound, or drunkard, or whatever you want to call it, is that the only common sense answer is an emphatic no.

"If I were annoyed by a drink-crazy husband, and a crowd of boozing friends (?), I'd first shake the boozers. There are still plenty of people in this crazy world who have the old-fashioned notion that you can enjoy yourself with all your wits awake and on the job as well, if not better, than you can if you're plastered.

"As for Friend Husband, I'd put it up to him straight: 'Do you want me to stay the way I am . . . or would you rather have a sloppy booze hound for a wife?' If he said he'd prefer the booze hound—well, I'd say the answer is 'incompatibility' and a change of partners!

A Different View

"Life is too short to allow yourself to be made miserable by swallowing a lot of junk you don't want just to please a bunch of crazy saps."

Spoken with vim and vigor, my dear! And I don't doubt that there'll be plenty of people who will agree with you. But Addie doesn't . . . and we can't deny that there's a good deal in what Addie says.

"I'm so sorry for Hester," she begins. "I know just what she's up against. And the pity of it is that it isn't bums always, by any any means, who go in for heavy guzzling these days.

"Once, if you didn't want to drink, you stayed away from certain kinds of people. But nowadays you can't do that, because there don't seem to be 'certain kinds' any more. The man with the hip flask is just as apt as not to be your boss, or the man you're trying to sell a bill of goods to and can't offend.

"And while there may be flask toters who don't get mad if you turn down their 'stuff,' I've never met one so far. So if the people Hester and her husband are going out with are folks like that, I honestly don't know what she can do except grin and bear it. Surely, sometime people will lose their childish idea that it's big stuff to 'put one over' on Uncle Sam.

"But, if they're just friends, I'd put it up to that husband of mine that we didn't have to keep 'em. And that we'd be way ahead if we didn't. I'm no old kill-joy, but if I were that girl I'd speak up for myself. I wouldn't quarrel with him. I'd just try to make him see that it isn't worth while to wake up in the morning with a taste like iron filings in your mouth and most of your money frittered away with no return.

"I wouldn't give in. I wouldn't let him change me. I honestly don't understand a man like that anyway. Nine men out ten go around complaining that the modern woman is no good because she drinks and smokes, and then, when one of them finds a woman who doesn't, he wants to make her over! It beats me!

Would Give Own Party

"Well, I wouldn't let him get away with it! If these so-called 'friends' are business associates they can't avoid going out with. I'd go and drink just as little as possible as pleasantly as possible. But if they're 'just folks' they know, I'd put my foot down on them. Then I'd dig up as many real smart, charming and sparkling people as I could find and give a party of my own! Show the Big Boy that booze isn't necessary to a peppy evening! And I'd be so sparkling and sweet myself that he wouldn't want to lose me. At any rate I wouldn't lose myself in any booze bottle for anyone.

"What does a woman have left if she loses her self-respect?"

Well, what's your slant on this question, stranger?

Must we "take a social drink" nowadays or be a kill-joy? Or is it possible to be "dry" yet popular? How do they work it in your crowd?

'Spring' -:- -:- How to Know Her -:- -:- Drawn by Nell Brinkley

How to know Spring, Winter-King's sunny daughter? Easy. And I don't mean by that one old reliable way of knowing the far stir of her approach even before her primrose self is seen—by the symptoms of Spring fever. No, not that way. We all know on these funny, sunny, still days of faint blue sky, when the air feels like Indian Summer, WHY we meet the advance guard of "hikers" on the country roads; WHY we remember good picnic places; WHY we begin to wonder in which of all the wonderful places in the world we will spend our vacation; WHY we begin to chafe at desks and feel abused because we have to work at all; WHY our head dimly aches, and our heart, too; WHY we begin to feel deadly weary of what we are doing, whatever it IS, and suddenly wish with all the might that's in us, for the high hills or the blue sea that we played our particular childhood in. We know WHY. We know that Spring is coming. She's on the way!

But sometimes the still sunny day planted in the midst of Winter, vanishes, and Winter howls again, even on the day before Spring arrives. And then will you know her when she's already here? How will you know her when her ole Dad Winter is displaying a final flourish of snow even upon the first buds?

Why—she'll be wearing, the impatient darling, her new Spring HAT! And Pan will be holding the mirror up to her delightful face!

Even if she has to be wearing a fur coat, she'll be in her new Spring capote!

There are other ways to know her, to be sure. She makes little boys in school sleepy. She makes big-boy writers—oh sae weerrrry! Just so soon as she has passed—old gentlemen begin to caper—and young ones to sigh or turn in at flower shops. Old ladies turn in at the door of the first "romantical" movie—and young ones preen their feathers and buy salmon-pink and forget-me-not-blue gloves and lapel flowers! Oh, you can tell. But the headgear is a sure one, and quick. —NELL BRINKLEY.

CORRECT MANNERS

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Engraving the Table Silver.

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1. I received a new set of silver tableware and I would like to know if it is proper to have my last initial engraved on each piece? My initials are G. O. Or should I have both initials? I have just heard that it is not the custom to have your initials engraved on your silverware anymore as so many women are divorced and the silverware is then useless to them.

2. Will you please tell me the proper way to fold dinner napkins. GERTIE

1. It is still the correct thing to have silverware engraved with the initials or monogram, and the bride-to-be that is punctilious about conventions and has respect for traditions uses the initials of her maiden name.

It is a shuddering thing to think that some women would deliberately enter into marriage with even the shadow of a thought that there might be a possibility of a divorce, and therefore would let this terrible thought influence her.

However, in any case . . . with or without this thought . . . if the bride-to-be has her silver engraved with her own initials as she should, she will find comfort in whichever form of thinking she indulges.

2. There are several forms of fold that are correct, but the one used oftenest now is the three-and-three fold. That is, fold that napkin first in three divisions one way, then in three the other way, and then, turn both edges under so that they meet . . . this will give the long, svelt, narrow fold so much seen now.

Gift for an Adopted Baby.

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My aunt's sister has adopted a baby girl 5 months old. I would like to know if it is right to give her a baby gift just the same as if it were her own child? My sister does not think we should. MRS. A.

While this gift would not be at all necessary, it would, I think, be a charming thing for you to do. I can well understand that it would bring to this woman who has been so infinitely kind to this little stranger a happiness that would be especially precious and sacred. And I suggest that you send a note with it telling her how much you admire what she has done and how deep are your prayers that this friend of yours and this baby will have a beautiful life of happiness and love together.

A 'Phone Call Interrupts Conversation

I do not usually find gratification in the discomfiture of other people—even of those who, I know are unfriendly to me. But the look of baffled malice in Edith Fairfax's face as I came back into the living room with Mary was balm to my soul.

I found no such comfort, however, in the look which sprang to Dicky's eyes as he looked from my bouquet of white orchids to Mary's, no less exquisite but smaller and of gold and bronze flecked blossoms. That he was mentally comparing their cost, I knew, and I had the prescient little feeling that . . . would not miss this opportunity for another caustic comment.

"I thought this was Mary's party," she said with a metallic little laugh. "But judging from the size of the bouquets, you're the honored lady, Madge. And white orchids! My word!"

Are you suggesting that mein frau is too old to wear white orchids?" Dicky's voice was mirthful but there was a distinct edge to it. "Because if you are I warn you I shall defend her against such an intimation with me life. And of course . . . the biggest, probably, of the whole lot. Old Phil, you know, has the foreign old-fashioned idea that the hostess is really the most important lady at any function."

His tone held just the right note of "talking down." It implied that Edith's knowledge of social nuances was somewhat defective. A furtive glance showed me that she had caught her lower lip between her teeth, and I knew that she was having a terrific struggle for composure. Mary, innocently or otherwise, piled fresh fagots on the flame.

"You haven't opened your box, Miss Fairfax. Won't you, please? I'm just crazy to see everybody's flowers."

"It won't probably add anything to your mania to see these," Edith snapped, opening the box with a jerk. And when she drew forth a cluster of mauve and white orchids I was afraid for a tense instant that her patently trembling fingers would tear the flowers apart and throw them away. But with an effort that made her suddenly look 10 years older and infinitely tired, she controlled herself, and held the flowers off with a critical gaze.

"That's how I rate," she said, with a wry smile, "hoi polloi brand. But I suppose no lady should be captious at any sort of orchids."

There was that in her tone which almost stirred me to contemptuous retort for something which had no relation to the real personal issue between us. There is no snobbery to me quite so hateful as that which arbitrarily lists certain varieties or tints of flowers as more to be desired, and therefore more costly than others. To me the delicate mauve shades of Edith's orchids were infinitely more beautiful than the cold whiteness of my own flowers. And Dicky's rosebuds in my girdle were far above all other flowers.

Dicky voiced my thought an instant later.

"You mean you have a hoi polloi brand of mind," he said, "which grades everything according to its cost. I'll bet Madge would gladly trade flowers with you."

He accompanied the words with a disarming smile, but I guessed that the barb had sunk deep. What it cost Edith to grin back again nobody but herself will ever know. Despite my resentment toward her, I found myself pitying her, and even a bit resentful toward Dicky for his baiting of her.

"Which one?" Edith retorted with lips whose trembling was perceptible. "The white orchids at the shoulder, or those rosebuds at her waist—a sop to sentiment that last, I suspect—the heart of Dicky's bouquet, eh! Madge? I warn you, old dear, I'll only trade for the orchids. I probably am the prize snob, as Dicky so delicately suggests, but sweet, fragrant rosebuds do not appeal to me."

I bit my lips to keep from railing out at her, for it was as if she had torn something sacred out of a hidden place and held it up to public view. But again Dicky came to the rescue.

"Don't worry Ede," he said gaily. "Nobody'll ever accuse you of anything so crass as sentiment. But Madge and I are old-fashioned, and we like rosebuds better than orchids."

"Ye—ah?" Edith burlesqued, but there was venom in the laugh which accompanied the drawled query.

"Just for that you don't get to trade bouquets," Dicky told her with a grin. "But if you don't want to get in the bad graces of the chatelaine here, you'd better beat it into the bedroom with that bouquet and get it pinned on. I'll put the box in the wastebasket in my room. We're all set for a party, here, you know, and 'the missus' is a stickler for having everything on schedule."

The tinkle of the telephone punctuated his little speech. He took down the receiver, and after listening, gave a curt direction.

"Send them up at once, please."

Household Hints

Spinach is so apt to be watery when served that it is wise to put it into a strainer first and then press with a spoon until the water is pressed out. Then add butter and seasonings and serve in a heated vegetable dish.

When tinting garments with a soap dye, put the cake of soap into a shaker and shake in the water until it is the shade desired. This insures an even dye, clean hands and a good disposition in consequence.

Printed linoleum should not be waxed, as the wax tends to soften the varnish, and the linoleum will look shabby before very long. Give it a coat of varnish every six months.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Guard Against "Ringworm" Infection.

Various names have been substituted for the old-fashioned word, "ringworm." Most of them mean nothing, even to the doctor, but all are applied to the one condition. Among these are "athlete's foot" and "dhobie itch." "Dermatophytosis," is another big word used for ringworm.

Dr. Copeland

Ringworm used to be quite prevalent in the Southern part of the United States. This was because of the habit some of the population had of walking without shoes.

The disease is caused by a parasite called the "trichophyton fungus." This parasite is found in grass, shrubs and at times even indoors. The ailment is frequently transmitted to man by domestic animals, particularly dogs and cats.

The disease begins as one or two rounded red patches of the skin. They may be located on the face, neck, arms, body or feet. Within a few days these patches assume a circular shape, with small pimples along the outer border of the circle. These patches are easily recognized because of their ring-like shape.

After the disease has continued for some time, healing begins in the center of the patch. The healing process extends to the edges.

Though there is rarely any itching or pain, the eruption spreads rapidly. Sometimes it involves the thighs, groins and other parts of the body.

The disease may be spread in the locker and dressing rooms of gymnasiums, in swimming pools and beaches and often by walking on the floors of private homes. In order to safeguard against this ailment, I advise that you always wear some kind of foot covering. Do not walk about with unprotected feet.

Since the condition is caused by a parasite or germ, the treatment consists in using ointments and lotions which are capable of killing the infecting agent without damage to the skin. Your doctor will tell you about the local treatment, but very likely he will prescribe something containing ammoniated mercury.

Ringworm is a particularly embarrassing condition when it attacks the hairy scalp. In such cases the X-ray and other radical methods of cure have been applied with more or less success.

Whenever one member of the family is afflicted, it is extremely important to protect the others against infection. It is readily passed from one to another.

An extremely disagreeable form of the disease is ringworm of the fingernails. It is stubborn and strongly resists treatment.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Friday, March 13

A lively enough day may be predicted from the predominant place of Mercury sextile Luna, assisted by a mutual aspect between the luminaries. The latter bears rule on employment and encourages the hope of advancement or preferment from those in authority. But there are also signs of stubborn obstacle and frustration, with the menace of disruptive change as well as secret opposition. With perseverance and tact some benefits may be reaped from adverse conditions.

Those whose birthday it is may prepare for a year in which much may be on against disintegrating conditions and enmities and definite obstacle, but employers or those in places of power may assist and there may be some benefits through writings or letters.

A child born on this day should have many talents and capabilities, which it may need to overcome many obstacles and difficult situations in life. It may count on the favoritism of those in influential positions.

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

Before lipsticks became a common commodity, some of the sassy gals brewed their own lip coloring. They crushed beets in a bowl, pressed the pulp through a sieve and added enough alcohol to act as a preservative. The ruby liquid went on by means of a bit of cotton, and served very well. Another old-time trick was to moisten the petals of artificial roses; enough dye came out of the cambric to form a so-so blush or two.

Eyes do not change through the years, but the mouth is what a woman makes it. One look at a woman's mouth and you read the story of her character. Emotions are written there — severity, petulence, gaiety, sulkiness, selfishness, cruelty, sweetness. The wining woman has a weak mouth, the critical, stern femme has a mouth that looks about as inviting as a bear trap. Faces are always in the making. They are made by the species of thoughts that carry on inside the head.

Words cannot deceive the palate. Advertising cannot put flavor in a coffee cup.

The drinking thereof is the proof of the coffee. The flavor must be there or you will not buy again.

That's why the outstanding leadership of Maxwell House Coffee seems to us, frankly, to be proof positive of its superiority.

More people drink it than any other fine blend because more people prefer its rich and mellow flavor.

ATTEMPT TO TRADE SOUTHPAW FAILS

IT IS NOT at all surprising, now that Pitcher Larry French has put in an appearance at the Pirate camp in Paso Robles and started a series of conferences with Manager Ens, that the holdout of the balking southpaw is likely to end as nearly every holdout ends, with the recalcitrant pastimer affixing his signature to a contract. In French's case, as experience has taught them is the right attitude to take in all such cases, the only question in the minds of Pittsburgh fans from the start has been the length of time it would take the club heads and players to get together and reach an agreement.

Larry French

At that, Buccaneer officials say, the French holdout might not have ended in the manner it now promises to end if a deal to send the pitcher to some other club could have been made on satisfactory terms. President Dreyfuss declares it was no idle threat when he announced last week that he would try to make a trade for Larry if the latter did not soon come to terms. He says he did try, only to meet with a refusal in an attempt to obtain in exchange for French any one of three left-handers owned by Eastern clubs.

EVEN IF THE pitcher signs soon, as he probably will, it is by no means certain that another effort to trade him will not be made later. Club executives make it clear that Larry's latest holdout, his third in three years, together with the demands he is making, has put the front office out of patience with him, and intimate that unless he shows a change of temperament further efforts to swap him may be among the possibilities.

But for the present French is a prospective Pirate, and for that reason local fans are hoping that he will sign soon and make up sufficiently for the training time he has lost to be in working shape with the other first-string pitchers, barring Steve Swetonic, when the season opens four weeks from next Tuesday. That's a period long enough to enable a hurler as young as French to condition himself if the right spirit is there.

INCIDENTALLY, IF THE advice of a former major league pitcher is worth anything, French would better set about doing something else as soon as possible in addition to putting himself in the proper degree of physical fitness for another season of slabwork.

This veteran of the mound, discussing French's case while in Pittsburgh recently, expressed the opinion that Larry will have to change his style before he can become a great pitcher, and that if he doesn't change it his major league career will be a brief one.

"FRENCH HAS THE stuff to make a good pitcher," the veteran remarked, "but he is not a good pitcher yet, as judged by the proper methods of working out there. If he doesn't change his style he won't last more than three years, for he pitches entirely with his arm. That's all wrong. A man must get his body into his pitching, and French has got to learn that and stick to it, or it won't be long until he regrets his failure to do so. Another thing, French pitches too fast. I used to think Charley Hargreaves was responsible for that when I saw him catching the left-hander. They were like two kids playing catch. But French kept it up even after Hargreaves left. It won't do. Larry must learn to take more time between pitches."

Sam Breadon

IF REPORTS COMING up from the baseball training belt are true, some of the criticism aimed at Gabby Street for questionable managerial moves during the 1930 world series may have been undeserved. Not that the said moves were less faulty than they appeared, but that some one other than Street may have been responsible for them.

While the Cardinals and the members of another National League club were fanning, a correspondent overheard a St. Louis player say that Street isn't manager of the Red Birds at all. Many fans have long suspected that Branch Rickey insists on having considerably to say in the running of the club, but it is now said that the real pilot is Sam Breadon, the president.

THE STORY GOES that Breadon runs the team from a box seat by jerking out Morse messages on his necktie. One Cardinal was heard to explode: "Why, we'd have been out in front 20 games last year if we had had a real manager." "Yeh," rejoined a member of the other club, "we know who manages the Cards—Sam Breadon and Frank Frisch.

"Street's only the office boy. I remember one day last season when we were playing you fellows in St. Louis. Jess Haines was pitching, and we could always pin Haines' ears back.

"WE BUMPED HIM this day, as usual, and then we almost rolled off the bench. Street jumped from the dugout, waving to Haines to leave the game and calling to Sylvester Johnson to come from the bull pen. Then we looked at Breadon sitting there in his box. Breadon gave his necktie a couple of jerks and Haines stayed in there. What a giggle that was. Breadon's always done the managing. That's what caused the trouble with Hornsby, O'Farrell, Southworth—none of those guys ever really managed the club. They just watched Breadon's necktie."

THE APPROACH OF the $100,000 Agua Caliente Handicap, scheduled for one week from next Sunday, recalls that it was the running of this event a year ago that ended the racing career of one of the greatest horses in the history of the turf. For it was while training at Miami for the 1930 Agua Caliente Handicap that the famous Display suffered an injury which led to his being retired to Walter J. Salmon's Mereworth breeding farm, near Lexington, Ky.

The racing game has never known a stouter horse than Display, and turfmen agree that that noted son of Fair Play well earned his sobriquet of "The Iron Horse." Campaigning from the start of the major season of 1925 until the close of the season of 1929, Display took part in 103 races, winning 23, finishing second in 25, third in 27 and earned $256,526. He featured with a Preakness victory in 1926. The only American horses to earn more have been Gallant Fox, $328,165; Zev, $303,639; Blue Larkspur, $272,070, and Sun Beau, favorite in this year's Auga Caliente Handicap, $271,469.

OUT ON THE Pacific Coast they are wilder than ever over the basketball wizardry of Charley Hyatt, and are predicting that the former Pitt star's presence in the lineup will win the National A. A. U. championship for the Los Angeles A. C. in the title tournament now in progress at Kansas City, Mo.

Charley Hyatt

Their confidence has been strengthened since Hyatt's team won its game in the first round this week. Among other coast experts, Paul Lowry, Los Angeles Times scribe, continues to rate Hyatt as being in a class of his own.

AFTER TELLING OF a game at which Sam Barry, University of Southern California coach, heaved a deep sigh upon seeing Hyatt in action and remarked that the worries of any floor coach would be over if he had just one player like Charley, Lowry writes: "From what I saw of the overwhelming defeat of the Pacific Coast club by the Los Angeles A. C., Hyatt was pretty much of a team all by himself. He scored 18 points, as many as the Coast club tallied altogether. And they weren't feeding shots to Charley, either. He was making his own openings. Forrest Twogood, who was among the spectators, and who played at Iowa when Hyatt was an all America star at Pittsburgh, remarked: 'We once held Hyatt to 16 points in two games and thought we were doing pretty good.'"

M'DONALD FIVE BEATEN IN SECOND ROUND

By JESS CARVER

For the second year in succession, Duquesne High will engage New Castle in a semi-final W. P. I. A. L. championship elimination tournament combat. The Dukes won the right to crash the elite circle of semi-finalists by overwhelming McDonald in a second-round, lower-bracket game, in the Pitt Stadium last night, 35 to 14.

A year ago Duquesne caused New Castle's name to be crossed from the list of title possibilities by defeating the Lawrence County entry, 22 to 14. On the form exhibited in the two triumphs of the present tourney, Duquesne is going to be the favorite Saturday night.

Last night the Dukes won with plenty to spare, McDonald making but a sorry showing against the speed and class of the Section VII team. The first half wasn't so bad, the Macs being able to stay fairly close to their opponents, but in the third and fourth quarters, Duquesne made a complete rout of the evening.

SERVICK STARS

It was Al Servick who again led the big parade for Duquesne. He accounted for four field goals and half that many fouls, but played a whale of a floor game, some of his passes being entirely too hot for safe handling. The entire Duquesne cast worked very nicely, which was unfortunate for McDonald.

Duquesne led by 11 to 4 at the end of the first period. Servick dumped in two goals and Karpowich and Durik one each. Rondour popped one for McDonald.

The Macs pulled together better in the second period and outscored their rivals by 6 to 4, not enough of a margin to slice the Duquesne lead to any appreciable extent.

The third quarter was a nightmare, or an entire band of nightmares for McDonald. Duquesne counted 11 points, meanwhile holding McDonald scoreless, giving the Macs only one opportunity to count, when a foul was blown just as the session ended. Tournabene missed the free throw and his team staggered into the last quarter 15 points behind.

McDONALD HELPLESS

A field goal by Russell and a foul by Leo Malarkey, who looked like a pretty fair guard in the game with Washington, but who was mediocre last night, provided McDonald with three more points, which were exactly six less than Duquesne scored for the period.

McDonald was well nigh helpless against the Duquesne defense, a four-man zone arrangement, with one player, Servick, out front all the time, messing around in the McDonald attack. Servick messed plenty, too.

There will be a complete shutdown of the W. P. I. A. L. mill tonight, but tomorrow, the Stadium will be jammed to the rafters (girders if you must be technical) as New Kensington and North Braddock tie into each other in an upper-bracket, semi-final game.

Last night's lineup:

| Duquesne—35. | | McDonald—14. |
|---|---|---|
| Servick | F | Russell |
| Zeleznik | F | Rondour |
| Karpowich | C | Knepshield |
| Durik | G | Malarkey |
| Alexandrovich | G | Tourhabene |

Score by periods—

| | | | | |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| Duquesne | 11 | 4 | 11 | 9—35 |
| McDonald | 5 | 5 | 0 | 3—14 |

Substitutes — Duquesne: Muir, Surdul, Isydore, Radansky, Kushner. McDonald: Kaufman.

Field goals—Servick 4, Zeleznik 4, Karpowich, Durik, Alexandrovich 3, Surdul, Rondour, Russell 2, Knepshield. Fouls—Servick, 2 out of 3; Zeleznik, 0 out of 1; Karpowich, 2 out of 2; Durik, 1 out of 3; Alexandrovich, 2 out of 4; Rondour, 2 out of 4; Russell, 2 out of 3; Knepshield, 1 out of 5; Malarkey, 1 out of 2; Tournabene, 0 out of 1.

Team fouls—Duquesne, 7 out of 13. McDonald, 6 out of 15.

Says Nick Altrock

(Baseball's Comedian)

BILOXI, Miss., March 12.—Bill Terry is holding out for a $25,000 salary from the Giants. It looks bad for Bill. His boss, Stoneham, is used to sending out calls for more margin instead of getting them. It must be on account of the real estate values or something, but it sure costs plenty to have first base covered in New York. Lou Gehrig grabs $30,000 every annum for first basing for the Yanks and now Bill Terry wants to be classified as expensive bric-a-brac. With so many guys playing left tackle in the bread line, this is no time to strike the boss for bigger wages at first base.

EXPLANATIONS OF RIPLEY'S CARTOONS OF YESTERDAY: THE HOLY ROLLER—The Holy Roller is another astounding example of the Oriental fanaticism which our Western mind is unable to comprehend. The topography of the country traversed by the Saddhu (from Lhassa, Tibet, to Benares, India) in "barrel" fashion is so incredible, and the privations which he voluntarily imposed upon himself must have been so stupendous, that the mind reels in contemplating it. The "rolling," as a rule, is performed for motives of religious mortification. The story is contained in Koerber's "Buddhist Mythology of Tibet," Vol. 1, preface. ## Sport Vignettes

Harvey Harman, former Pitt star tackle, and new head coach at the University of Pennsylvania, last visited here over the Thanksgiving Day holidays, taking in the football game between his alma mater and Penn State at the Stadium . . . . He had come up from the South, where his Sewanee (University of the South) eleven already had finished its season, and was scheduled to go on a long speaking tour among the Sewanee alumni scattered about the country . . . . He had just rounded out the first season of a three-year contract at Sewanee, after having been at Haverford College for eight years after being graduated from Pitt, and his main thought was to interest the University of the South alumni in an expansion program . . . . He was thinking big things for Sewanee, little dreaming that before another season could get under way an even bigger and brighter future awaited Harvey Harman in the call to Penn.

Harman is a strapping big, broad-shouldered fellow who has taken on some weight since he played at Pitt . . . He always was good-natured, but at the same time he was thorough in anything he attempted, and this combination explains his success as a coach . . . All of his friends here will be pulling for him to make good on the job many of the outstanding coaches in the country had been seeking at Pennsylvania.

Jimmy Bradley, 20-year-old southpaw pitching star of the South Side, who checked a winning streak of the Homestead Grays last season by shutting them out while pitching for the Stowe Civics, is getting ready to leave Saturday night of next week to join the Wichita club, of the Western League, a Pirate farm, and his friends on the other side of the Monongahela River are going to tender him a testimonial dinner next Saturday, at which he will be the target for their well wishes . . . . This is not Jimmy's first crack at league ball . . . . He worked for a time for the Cumberland Colts in the Middle Atlantic League . . . . They do say that everything is according to the book with the new local A. A. U. basketball champions, the W. U. Hoyles . . . The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph Pressroom Bowling League will stage its annual banquet on the night of April 28, unless someone takes out an injunction to prevent it.

If Tommy Loughran is successful in defeating Ernie Schaaf, Jack Sharkey's test man, in their fourth meeting, in Madison Square Garden, New York, tomorrow night, he will be matched with Sharkey again. . . . Tommy has a tough job ahead of him, as Schaaf has beaten him in two out of three bouts . . . Sharkey will second

THE LOWDOWN ON THE BUCS

By the BENCH WARMER

PASO ROBLES, Cal., March 12.—Well, folks, it was great to shake hands with Larry French again. I'm still in the big room with the five plow jockeys, but Larry has it all fixed to ask for me for his roomie if he signs up. For a fella that is still a holdout, he broke in pretty good. It rained all day and Larry wanted some exercise, so a bunch of us went to the big swimming pool. He has more pep than ever, and when he came out, he pulled one that made us laugh. The boys were all foolin' under a shower after they left the pool. They were throwin' cold water on each other and that is a terrible trick as far as I am concerned. Well, Larry wanted to get even with somebody, so he filled up a glass with ice water and sneaked over to a shower where he thought one of us was under the hot water. He threw it in on the bather, and guess who was in there taking a bath? Nobody but Jule.

I wouldn't be allowed and I wouldn't try to print the stuff that came from that shower bath. I think Jule would have shot the guy if he had known who it was.

I'm still waitin' to get a peek at Paderewski, who is going to room below us. They said he would be in today, and the boys are making a bet whether he or Comorosky will land first.

LOCALS EXPECT TO GET PLACE IN PLAY-OFF

By CARL W. SHATTO

If one can believe the Yellow Jacket icemen, it is just a matter of a few weeks until they are crowned champions of the International League.

Gordy Fraser

Yesterday it was announced that Gordy Fraser, defense ace of the locals and generally regarded as the best backfielder in the circuit, had sustained a broken hand in the Cleveland game Tuesday night and was lost to the team for the remainder of the season.

Local fans received the announcement with many mournful sighs of resignation. They were ready to toss in the towel and admit that, although the Jackets had clambered up to within a half-game of London's fourth-place Tecumsehs by downing the Indians, they really didn't stand a chance of getting into the play-offs with Fraser out of the lineup.

NOT DOWNCAST

And what of the local icemen, who left last night for Detroit, where they battle the Olympics tonight? Your correspondent thought that they, too, would be much downcast, but your correspondent was all wrong, as usual. The consensus of opinion among the Jackets as they clambered aboard a west-bound Pullman shortly after 11 o'clock last night was:

"Oh, we'll get in there."

By "in there" the Jackets meant in the International League title series. They expect to make it eight wins in a row over Detroit tonight, Fraser or no Fraser, and they expect to down Syracuse here Saturday. They also expect to be three points ahead of London by Saturday night, and they can't see why they shouldn't win the championship series after they get "in there."

FINE SPORTSMEN

Foolish or otherwise, the Jackets' optimism is infectious. While your correspondent was waving an initialed handkerchief to the departing Schooley stalwarts, he was wondering just how a "Pittsburgh wins championship" story should be worded.

The trouble with the Pittsburgh team (and it's a virtuous fault) is that they don't know when they're beaten. Any level-headed ice fan knows that the Jackets ought to give up the ship after losing Fraser. The local skaters have been waging an uphill fight for so long that they have come to regard a hefty handicap as something to be expected.

President-Manager Roy D. Schooley and Coach Charles Reid plan to start Whitey Fields, ordinarily a center, at Fraser's left defense post tonight. Roger Smith, also a left defense man, will give Fields relief, and Art Berlett also may be used because he has a suspicion that he can play right defense, left defense or any other kind of defense.

Fields is a right hefty forward who has had some experience at a defense point. Fraser today has his hand in a plaster cast.

Tonight's game in Detroit and the fray with Syracuse here Saturday are likely to answer the question of whether your pessimistic correspondent or the optimistic Jackets are balmy.

FRENCH AND ENS CONTINUE NEGOTIATIONS

American Youth Ready to Face Challenge of French Net Stars

BUCS' HOLDOUT MAY COME TO TERMS TODAY

By CHARLES J. DOYLE
Staff Correspondent.

PASO ROBLES, Cal., March 12.—The biggest matter before the Pirate Congress this morning was a continuation of the French holdout question. Speaker Ens is much opposed to an extra session, and he will do everything he can to get this issue cleaned up today.

There was no activity in camp yesterday, an all-day rain keeping the Pirates indoors for the most part. Ens expects to stage a camp game this afternoon, a practice joust being set for this forenoon.

BIRD RELEASED

The first release of the season was made yesterday when the club dropped Catcher Joe Bird, former Columbus receiver, who has been out of action for a year or more. Somebody in the Pirate family was anxious to land Bird when he was catching regularly and at a time when he doubtless had sufficient skill to advance, but Joe found it hard to show the required form under the circumstances, so Manager Ens decided to dispose of him.

Bird was athletic director for the Pennsylvania Railroad in Columbus before he joined the Buccos. He may return to that company. Although he might dicker with some of the Coast League teams, with a view of remaining in the game.

The departure of Joe leaves Ens with four catchers—Phillips, Hemsley, Mealey and Finney. The skipper will carry the quartet for some time to come, but he may dispose of another receiver before the season is fair under way.

The French negotiations of yesterday were most pleasant, but the southpaw and the management did not get down to a working basis. Ens declined to discuss the intimate details of his discussions with Larry, but there was every indication to think a fine feeling prevailed. A compromise is likely to be reached, but there is no chance for the Coast League graduate to receive what he asked in the beginning of the big controversy.

COMMY DUE IN CAMP

Adam Comorosky and Ignace Paderewski are both due to reach the camp today. Both were in the holdout class, but the Pirate left fielder is signed, sealed and almost delivered. The stage for the arrival of the famed pianist has been set for several days, the artist being two or three days overdue. He is coming here for a rest.

Paul Waner is due to reach the camp tomorrow. The manager is anxious to have Commy and Brother Paul in a few sessions before the breakup of the camp. Camp games will be continued tomorrow and Saturday, with Sunday being reserved for the Portland Club, of the Pacific Coast League.

Bill Regan, who has been out for more than a week with a wrenched ankle, said this morning his ailment was progressing so well he might indulge in a light workout tomorrow.

GERSHE TO BOX AT GARDEN

By HARRY KECK
Sports Editor.

Benny Gershe, veteran, hard-hitting featherweight boxer, of Cleveland, a few years ago a sensation in the division, will make his Pittsburgh debut in the eight-round semi-final at Motor Square Garden next Monday night. His opponent will be another out-of-towner, Joe Marciente, of New York, who has been here a few days working out for an engagement.

Eddie Anderson, the Wyoming Cowboy, who boxes Eddie Brannon, local Negro, in a 10-round windup, a return bout, arrived in town yesterday and worked out in the Garden gym. He is stopping at the Ritz Hotel, across the street from the Garden. His young bride, who accompanied him here for the first bout with Brannon recently, remained behind in Omaha, where they make their home. However, Anderson did bring with him a cowboy suit, which he will don for advertising purposes, if necessary, but he refuses to give a lariat-throwing exhibition in the ring.

The card for Monday night has been completed with Harry Fine, of the Hill, and Eddie Kaufman, of Cleveland, in the second bout and Peaches Gallagher, of Swissvale, and Jimmy Reilly, of McKeesport, in the opener. Kaufman boxed Tiger Joe Randall at McKeesport last winter.

Between Rounds

Benny Schwartz, of Baltimore, and Jimmy Thomas, local Negro bantamweight, will taper off their training with light workouts this afternoon for their 10-round main bout in the Moose Temple ring tomorrow night. Both have come through their training unmarked and in good fighting trim. Johnny Warner and Mose Butch meet in another 10-rounder on the card, and, in the two six-round battles, Young Joe Walcott boxes Joey Spiegel and Ross Fields takes on Jackie Wilson.

Freddie Edwards boxes Jimmy Moinette and Frankie Porto meets Steve Selina in bouts at Alliance, O., next Tuesday night. Porto also boxes Homer Ronan in a windup at Zanesville, O., the following Monday.

Les Kennedy, Coast heavyweight, who was knocked out by Paulino Uzcudun in four rounds at Los Angeles Tuesday night, was a 10-8 favorite to win.

Jackie Rodgers and Joey Katkish have been indefinitely suspended by the boxing commission for failing to honor their contracts at Motor Square Garden last Monday night.

Pete Latzo, former welterweight champion, boxes Sam Weiss at Bethlehem, Pa., tonight. Frankie Hayes boxes Frankie Rapp and Johnny Hayes, his brother, meets Richie Martell in two eight-round bouts in Philadelphia and Benny Touchstone opposes Frankie Simms at Ypsilanti, Mich. The Hayes brothers, incidentally, are Polish.

The Pittsburgh Lyceum offers a card of amateur bouts tonight. The bouts: Young Chemes vs. Tony Marino; Jaey Chemes vs. Johnny Shepler; Ole Malco vs. Andy Zelli; Johnny Birek vs. Pat Powers; Johnny Hazel vs. Tony Shurra; Max Elling vs. Georgie Schile and Walt Selslawski vs. Jack Snyder.

Arthur Sharkey, who plans to promote wrestling bouts at Motor Square Garden, has decided to postpone the inaugural show from next Tuesday night to Wednesday of the following week, the night the Fishman-Hoff Syndicate, of Philadelphia, planned to open there. He talks of using either Joe Savoldi or Jim Londos as the headliner of his first show.

SEEDING FAVORS SHIELDS AS FINALIST

NEW YORK, March 12.—(AP.)—A slim line of American youth was drawn up today to face the challenge of Jean Borotra and his French mates in the week-long battle for the national indoor tennis singles championship, opening Saturday on the boards of the Seventh Regiment Armory.

Francis X. Shields, No. 2 in the American list, and Clifford Sutter, Tulane collegian, ranked No. 5, headed the list of eight seeded defenders. Sutter tops the field of 64 in the upper half of the draw, with Borotra, first of the three Frenchmen, seeded at the bottom of the same bracket. If form prevails, they should meet in the semi-finals.

SHIELDS TOPS BRACKET

Shields, the New York youngster, heads the lower bracket, and is favored to dominate his half of the play and provide the opposition for the Bounding Basque in the final match next Saturday. Borotra's two teammates, Pierre Landry and Christian Bousses, also are seeded in the lower half of the draw, along with three of the preferred Americans—Berkeley Bell, ranked No. 11; Herbert L. Bowman, No. 21, and William Aydelotte, a former indoor champion. Seeded in the upper half with Sutter and Borotra are Julius Seligson, ranked No. 15; Donald H. Cram, of Nashville, Tenn., No. 25, and Perrine Rockafellow, who failed to attain a national ranking in 1930.

STARS OUT OF PLAY

Aside from Shields and Sutter, the front line of American ranking stars evaded the issue with the French, and the Tri-Color leader, Borotra, who has won the championship three times, Gregory Mangin, one of the younger stars, entered the play, but withdrew later, while Johnny Doeg, national outdoor champion; George M. Lott, Jr., of Chicago, and John Van Ryn, Davis Cup players, are saving their energies for an indoor team match with the three Frenchmen later. It was reported, however, that Doeg, recently married, has no intention of interrupting his honeymoon for the team match.

The tournament will be without a defending champion. Frank Hunter, 1930 singles winner, now is competing as a professional.

BROWN, MYERS TO PLAY

Nearing the finish of their basketball season, the Young Men's Hebrew Association passers will be out to avenge an early-season defeat tonight when they meet the Oil City Merchants on the Y. M. H. A. floor. The Merchants are one of the few clubs to defeat the Bellefielders this season, turning the trick in a game at Oil City. The Y passers have been pointing for this contest all week and are bent on turning the tables on the Oilers.

In the preliminary game, the Y. M. H. A. Varsity B quintet, which was eliminated in the semi-finals of the annual Allegheny Mountain Association tournament, will meet the Homewood-Brushton Club for the second time this year. The home quintet copped the decision in the first battle and will be out to make it two in a row.

The Penn Five-Schneider battle at North Side Moose Hall tops the schedule in the West Penn League. These clubs have been staunch rivals in the West Penn League for years and they seldom fail to put up a brilliant exhibition. In the other West Penn League frays, the South Side Falcons are the attraction of the Knickers at Forresters Hall.

Only one game is scheduled in the Greater Pittsburgh League, Manchester Community entertaining Ambridge, while Mt. Troy Juniors play at Central Pittsburgh Juniors in the Junior Church League. In the Senior Church League, First Presbyterian is at Faith Chapel.

Tomorrow night Eddie Losman, of the Duquesne Lafayettes, will lead an all-star County League team against the I. K. S. passers on the I. K. S. floor.

North Side Community handed St. Michael's a 33-26 drubbing in the West Penn League last night. The Question Club bumped the Caytons, 27-11, in the Schneider loop, and Trinity Royals easily trimmed Mt. Troy Presbyterians, 38-21, in their Senior Church League combat.

Homer Ronan Wins Over Jack Hoster

NEWARK, O., March 12.—Homer Ronan, local lightweight, won a 10-round decision over Jack Hoster, Columbus, here last night.

Ray Louder, Columbus, knocked out Ernie Payne, of this city, in the fourth round after flooring him six times.

Tarzan Phillips, Circleville, and Red Kirk, this city, drew in four rounds. Mutt Schotts, this city, knocked out Kid Swartz, Hampden, in the fourth round. Young Strear, Hebron heavyweight, knocked out Dick Williams, of Columbus, in the second round.

ROBINS, REDS DEAL RUMORED

TAMPA, Fla., March 12.—(AP.)—Brisk talk of a trade between the Cincinnati Reds and Brooklyn Robins had sprung up in the Red camp here today, but Manager Dan Howley was silent on details. It was intimated that Manager Wilbert Robinson had offered the Reds Ray Moss, pitcher, for either Larry Benton or Ray Kolp, both hurlers, with the argument that Moss could beat the Robins every time and thus assure the Reds a few victories. Howley, however, is after an infielder and an outfielder.

STEEL CITY, MINOR LOOPS ORGANIZED

By TOM BIRKS

The formation of the Steel City League, two sections of the Minor League, and a 10-club junior league were accomplished by Honus Wagner last evening, at a special meeting of the Western Pennsylvania region of the National Amateur Baseball Association.

The meeting brought out 34 clubs of various ages, and the gathering, one of the finest ever held in connection with sandlot baseball, seems to indicate that a banner season is ahead.

The East End Cardinals, Brodericks, St. Elizabeth's, Shine A. C., Demor, Fox A. C., Doelfels and the Observatory Civics probably will compose this season's make-up in the Steel City loop.

MINOR LEAGUE BACK

The Minor League also went over with a bang. It will be necessary, according to Honus, to form two divisions in the Minor League with Bellevue, P. J. Cauls, Brookline Carolinals, Jednota, Hays Cardinals, the Hemsley Club and others set to go.

A date was set for the next meeting of the schedule committee, and final arrangements for the opening of the season. Enthusiasm ran high, and the boys of all classes seem to be flocking around Wagner.

Tonight finds Wagner in Monongahela putting the finishing touches to the Valley League. Floyd France and Joe Tabory feel that 12 clubs will make up the league, including Finleyville, Bunola, Monongahela, Charleroi, Monessen, Van Voorhis, New Eagle and others, are expected to post forfeits.

W. O. W. QUITS

The withdrawal of the W. O. W. Club as a member of the City League was announced at a meeting held last night by the league officials. Six clubs have been enrolled and two others are expected to be voted in to complete an eight-club loop.

Harry A. Yerx was elected president, Fred P. Alger, treasurer, and Everett Sweeney, secretary. The next meeting will be held on Wednesday, March 18.

Dempsey to Quit Ring as Fighter

LOS ANGELES, March 12.—Jack Dempsey has definitely renounced the ring. In a formal statement he said:

"I have definitely decided to engage in no more fights. For more than three years I have been literally on the fence. Friends and admirers have urged me to try again. Promoters have assured me that I had one good fight left. Their blandishments kept me wavering.

"I will be 36 in June, three or four years past the accepted fighting prime. I have kept in fair shape and have tried to work myself up to intensive training. The old urge is gone for battle. I feel that I could not justify the ambitions of my friends were I to go back. I also know that I could not be at my physical best."

LEWIS AFTER BOUT

CHICAGO, March 12.—(AP.)—Matchmaker Nate Lewis, of the Chicago Stadium, left today for New York to try to sign Tommy Loughran, Jimmy Maloney, Ernie Schaaf or Jack Sharkey, for a 10-round bout with Tuffy Griffiths in the Stadium's next boxing show, March 27. The Stadium has moved its March 20 date up to March 27, and will pass up its other date for the month, March 30.

Auto Wreck Causes Fight Card Change

ALIQUIPPA, Pa., March 12.—Promoter Ray Eberle was forced to put on a last-minute makeshift set of bouts in the Rialto Theater here last night, featuring amateur boxers when a group of Pittsburgh Lyceum and Hogan A. C. mitt wielders coming by automobile were delayed by a wreck, and arrived too late by train to participate. Five matches were put on, nevertheless, before a large crowd, two ending in knockouts. The summary:

125-pound class—Leonard Cook, Coraopolis Y., defeated John Deneen, Aliquippa A. C., three rounds.

118-pound class—Leonard Kiobs, Coraopolis A. C., defeated Jackie Davis, Aliquippa A. C., three rounds.

JONES BEATS GORMAN

OAKLAND, Cal., March 12.—(AP.)—Gorilla Jones, Akron, O., Negro middleweight, won a 10-round decision over Bud Gorman, Vallejo, Cal., last night.

PITT RALLIES TO SET DOWN W. VA., 24-22

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., March 12.—The University of Pittsburgh passers staged a comeback here last night to eke out a 24-22 victory over the West Virginia University Mountaineers.

The Mountaineers held the edge for the first three-fourths of play, only to have the Panthers slip up gradually and close with a rush to take the game. It was the last of the season for the Mountaineers, closing the court careers of Capt. Plaster, Eddie Bartrug and Sigmund Weiner.

NINETEENTH VICTORY

By winning Pitt goes into its last game of the season, with Penn State at State College, Pa., Saturday night with a record of 19 victories and four defeats. The Mountaineers finished with nine victories and 11 defeats.

Tim Lawry and Eddie Baker were the heroes of the Panther triumph, although Willie Kowalis also was a shining light.

Baker's successful goal from a difficult angle knotted the count at 22-all in the last two minutes of play and the fine marksmanship and cool-headed foul shooting of Lawry gave Pitt its victory.

With only a minute remaining Bartrug fouled Lawry as the latter dribbled in for a shot and the little Panther forward refused to be befuddled, goaling both gift shots to close the scoring at 24-22. West Virginia missed a long shot and failed to tally in a mix-up under the hoop as the gun cracked.

W. VA. TAKES LEAD

The Mountaineers raced out to a 5-0 lead in the first 11 minutes of play, but had only a 9-5 edge at half time. As the second half opened West Virginia spurted again and with Sigmund Weiner, Johnny Doyle and Wilbur Sortet goaling rapidly, had a 19-9 lead with 13 minutes to play. Pitt, with Lawry and Kowallis doing the gunning, pulled up to 19-16 with three-quarters of the game gone. The lineup:

| Pitt—24. | | West Va—22. |
|---|---|---|
| M. Cohen | F | Doyle |
| W. Kowallis | F | Sortet |
| Albright | C | Bartrug |
| Arture (C) | G | (C) Plaster |
| Smith | G | Weiner |
| West Virginia | | 9—13—22 |
| Pitt | | 5—19—24 |

Field goals—W. Kowallis 4, Arture, Lawry 3, Baker, Doyle 3, Sortet 2, Plaster, Weiner 2.

Team fouls—Pitt, 6 out of 9; West Virginia, 6 out of 8.

Individual fouls—Pitt, Lawry 5 out of 6, Baker 1 out of 1, W. Kowallis none out of 1, Smith none out of 2; West Virginia, Doyle none out of 2, Sortet 2 out of 2, Bartrug 3 out of 3, Weiner 1 out of 2.

Substitutes—Pitt: Lawry, Baker; West Virginia: None.

Referee—Cal Boister. Umpire—Dan Brickley. Time of halves—20 minutes.

PANTHER CUBS BOW

West Virginia University freshmen handed the Panther Cubs a 56-to-34 drubbing. The lineup:

| W. Va. Frosh—56. | | Cubs—34. |
|---|---|---|
| Abbruzio | F | Hunt |
| McCracken | F | Pryde |
| Pyles | C | Ochsenhirt |
| Stone | G | Hughes |
| King | G | McBride |

Substitutes—West Virginia, Mcvedless, Harrison, Pitt, Beck, Rhoda. Field goals—Abbruzino 6, McCracken 8, Pyles 7, Stone 2, King 2, Pride 2, Ochsenhirt, Hughes 5, McBride 2, Beeson 2, Rogda. Fouls—West Virginia, 6 out of 11; Pitt, 8 out of 11. Referee—Bolster. Umpire—Brickley.

W. VA. BOXERS WIN

After Bucknell University's sluggers in lighter weights scored victories over their West Virginia University opponents, the Mountaineers came back to win the last four bouts and the match, 4-3, in a contest held prior to the floor tilts.

ALLEGHENY VICTOR

MEADVILLE, Pa., March 12.—(AP.)—Allegheny College closed its basketball season with a victory here last night over Edinboro Teachers, 29 to 21. Edinboro was leading at the end of the half, 12 to 7, but a spurt started soon after the second-half whistle blew, swung the tide of battle. Allegheny won 10 games and lost nine during the season.

Man Who Gave McGraw Start Succumbs

CEDAR RAPIDS, Ia., March 12.—(AP.)—James Plumb, 78, the man who gave John McGraw his start in professional baseball, died yesterday following an operation for appendicitis.

McGraw came here in 1891, when Cedar Rapids was a member of the Illinois League. He asked Plumb, manager of the team, for a chance to show his ability. McGraw was placed at shortstop and made good from the start.

A lasting friendship between the men developed from the early associations.

Carnegie Passers In Spring Drills

Ralph (Buzz) Hogan, basketball coach at Carnegie Tech, has issued orders to the Skibo floor candidates to report for spring practice in the Tartan gym next Monday.

The Plaid mentor plans to send his players through two weeks of training in preparation for next year's campaign. The Skibos enjoyed one of their best years on the floor during the current season.

Real Estate

Frank Tickner and W. R. McConnell have been added to the sales staff of C. C. Hamilton & Co., downtown brokers. Tickner and McConnell were formerly associated with the C. L. Saxton Company.

Real state appraisers may have a professional society of their own as a result of the efforts of the Appraisal Division of the National Association of Real Estate Boards. Detailed plans for the formation of an organization to be known as the American Institute of Real Estate Appraisers, prepared by a committee during the past six months, have been approved by the executive board of the division and are now in the hands of the division membership for confirmation or possible changes. The plan, which is built about the certification of real estate appraisers through high admission standards to such an organization, may be inaugurated by the sanction of the Association Board of Directors at the coming annual convention of the National Association of Real Estate Boards to be held at Baltimore in May.

F. J. West is constructing two bungalows in Bellanca avenue, Brentwood Grove, new residential development in Brentwood Borough. Stevens, secretary of the Land company. Stevens says that $70,000 has already been spent in public improvements.

An improved property in Chalfonte avenue, Bellevue, has been purchased by Andrew Spencer from Olive H. Kilgore for a private consideration. The lot is 45x120 feet.

MY EXPERIENCES IN THE WORLD WAR

By GEN. JOHN J. PERSHING

Commander-in-Chief, American Expeditionary Forces

ARMY MASSED BY PERSHING FOR DRIVE

80th Division Included in Units Assigned for Huge Task Before St. Mihiel

could be found to assemble them in the area, together with the corps and army troops and auxiliaries, before the rainy season, which usually starts about the middle of September and which, it was said, might seriously hinder operation in that sector.

It was necessary to assemble in all 550,000 troops for this operation, and this gigantic task imposed mainly upon the 1st Army general staff, which itself was yet in the formative state, might well have caused dismay even under the most favorable circumstances.

The almost total inactivity on the St. Mihiel front since 1916 and the preparation for an operation of such magnitude made many initial installations necessary. The telephone and telegraph lines to insure effective communication throughout the area required miles of wire. The artillery ammunition dumps, calculated on the basis of at least five days of battle, required about 3,300,000 rounds. Engineering material required to build roads across no-man's land behind the advancing army ran into thousands of tons.

The construction of railway spurs, advance depots and hospital accommodations for sick and wounded had to be provided, and aviation fields prepared.

Many other things were required, such as the construction of light railways for distribution beyond the railheads, personnel and equipment pertaining to searchlights, the development of water supply, installations for sound and flash ranging for artillery, arrangements for traffic control and the camouflage of positions, roads and material.

Advance During Night

Each item was the subject of consideration by qualified specialists, and all had to be co-ordinated by the newly formed staff.

The actual movement for the concentration of the more than one-half million troops, whether by rail, truck or on foot, generally took place at night. The troops bivouacked during the day in forests or other sheltered places, hidden from the observation of enemy planes, resuming the movement at nightfall.

The rail and most of the truck transport belonged to the French and was handled by them. Changes were constantly necessary in schedules because of the non-arrival of trucks as planned, usually due to their being used by the French elsewhere.

All ranks of the staff and line of our army were filled with enthusiasm over the coming operation. Officers of the rapidly-expanding First Army Staff worked with the greatest energy under their new responsibilities.

The French officers assigned to my headquarters gave material assistance in expediting the arrival of French troops and in handling the civilian population within the zone of the armies.

These officers were deeply interested and the spirit of cooperation between French and Americans in the untiring efforts given to preparation foretold the succesful outcome of our first offensive.

During a visit to the 92d Division (colored) at this time, it was found that the situation as to training, especially of colored officers, was not entirely satisfactory. This National Army Division had been in service since October, 1917, and was composed of units from different parts of the United States.

Greater Responsibility

None of the junior officers had received more than superficial training, and most of them were unaccustomed to the management of men. The general officers of the division were not sanguine regarding the possibility of bringing the instruction of their officers up to standard.

They had all served with colored regiments of the Regular Army, and presumably they were in position to judge from practical experience just how much to expect.

In the Regular service the officers of colored units were white, and their qualifications were equal to those of officers of like grades throughout the army. But it was well known that the time and attention that must be devoted to training in order to raise the level of efficiency of the colored regiments up to the average was considerably greater than for white regiments. More responsibility, therefore, rested upon officers of colored regiments.

In the new army, with hastily trained colored officers relatively below white officers in general ability and in previous preparation, the problem of achieving battle efficiency for colored troops was vastly more difficult. It would have been much wiser at the start to have provided these colored units with selected white officers.

My diary notes the following: Chaumont, Sunday, August 25, 1918. Harbord came up on Friday; reported increasing activity in SOS. Have cabled for 39,000 extra engineer and service troops for port expansion. Conferred with Col. Andrews, Maj. Perkins, Red Cross, has requested service in the army. "Went yesterday for conference with Foch on operations. Franklin Roosevelt, assistant secretary of Navy, called.

Mr. Roosevelt

"Gen. Bliss came today to propose co-operation in urging the 100-division program.

"Gen. Bridges, British army, called to discuss machine gun organization, training and repartition of lines. Told him that we were not in favor of training with the Allies."

My visit to Marshal Foch, August 24, was to discuss preparation for the operations in the St. Mihiel sector, and especially to urge haste in the assignment of the required French auxiliary units.

Americans With British

Opening the conversation, Marshal Foch referred to a letter he had written requesting that the 27th and 30th Divisions, which were still with the British, should remain there. He considered it important, he said, to have them ready to assist if necessary in the British operations then in progress.

I replied that not only were these troops needed with our own Army but that they were eager to serve under their own flag. Moreover, it had been clearly understood that they should join the American Army when it was formed.

I think Foch fully appreciated the situation and the sentiment involved, but he said the battle was going well on the British front from Arras to the Oise, and he hoped that it would extend further and produce greater results. Therefore he wanted to count on our two divisions to help.

While he did not give any other reason, I thought it probable that he wished, too, thus to satisfy the insistent demand of the British for their share of American troops.

Moreover, it was certain that he would also ask for American divisions to aid the French, and his action in this case would make the latter request appear more consistent.

While I felt that if our divisions should once become engaged in battle as part of another army it would be unlikely they could be withdrawn, yet, under the circumstances, I accepted military emergency as the real reason for the request and assented, with the understanding that these divisions should not remain with the British indefinitely.

Opposes Training Idea

I was opposed to the suggestion made by Mr. Lloyd George in a telegram to M. Clemenceau that we should leave a few of our divisions behind the British lines for training, and I felt that compliance with Foch's request for two divisions temporarily was as far as I could go.

Our experience with the British had shown that instruction and training were actually retarded and I considered it detrimental rather than beneficial to leave them there.

As it was likely that further demands would be made on us, I told Foch it should be definitely understood that we would thereafter instruct our troops according to our own methods and use them in our own army.

He took the view that Mr. Lloyd George should not complain where our troops were used so long as they were winning victories, a view which, if carried to its logical conclusion, might mean the continued dispersion of our units.

I wished to be of assistance so far as consistent with the formation of an active, independent American army, and when he asked that two other divisions be held for use wherever they might be needed I agreed only after much the same discussion as before and under the condition that such assignment, when it came, would be only temporary.

English Hold Tanks

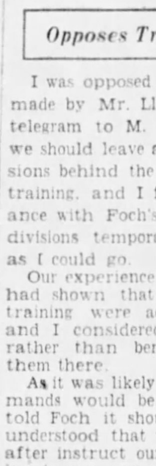
We then took up the question of tanks, to find, not at all to my surprise, that the British now said they could not spare any heavy tanks, notwithstanding the understanding at the conference July 24 that they would be able to give us some heavy tanks when we needed them.

Foch said the French would let us have five battalions of French tanks, three with French personnel and two to be manned by Americans. I later sent my tank commander, Brig. Gen. Rockenbach, to confer with the British in an endeavor to obtain some equitable allotment of heavy tanks, but without success.



Gen. Rockenbach

The shortage in tanks made it necessary to plan for greater artillery or other preparation to overcome obstacles such as barbed wire entanglements and concrete machine gun shelters or pill boxes, as they were called.

Steps had already been taken to procure an extra supply of wire cutters and the interest was such that various other means were improvised by engineers and by the troops themselves to enable them to cross the sea of entanglements on the St. Mihiel front.

Prisoners Battle Captors, Ditch Car

MOUNDSVILLE, W. Va., March 12.—(AP.)—After a trip on which they made a desperate effort to escape, Lloyd Moon, 29, and Austin Hardwick, 31, fugitives from the McDowell county road camp, apprehended in El Paso, Tex., were returned to the state prison here.

They were in charge of Deputies Harry Franklin and C. H. Payne, who reported that as their automobile reached Indianapolis the men attacked their captors and in the scuffle the car swerved into a ditch. Two truck drivers aided in subduing the prisoners.

Damage Suits Filed In Fatal Auto Crash

GREENSBURG, March 12.—As result of fatal auto accident in Greensburg last November 4, in which a man was killed and another man and a woman were injured, two suits totaling $35,000 damages were filed here today against Avra N. Pershing and Miss Grace Young, of Greensburg. One suit, filed by Joseph Cicotella, of Hempfield Township, asks $10,000 damages for injuries. The other, by Mrs. Flora Cicotella, asks $25,000 for the death of her husband, Tony, and injuries to herself.

STOCK MARKET LIST SLOWLY ASCENDS

Shares Recede 1 to 3 Points In Early Trading, but Later Move Up—Trading Dull

NEW YORK, March 12.—(AP.)—Selling prompted by adverse dividend news was soon mopped up in today's stock market, and bull leaders made cautious efforts to get things in hand again.

The list slipped off 1 to 3 points in the first hour, but worked slowly higher thereafter. Trading was spiritless. Bears appeared already to have slipped away with their profits, so the market lacked a resilient cushion of short covering. Both business and corporate news was confusing enough to restrain the public from entering the market.

Speculators for the rise again concentrated their efforts in some of the eastern utilities.

With further adverse dividend news hanging over the market, bullish efforts were distinctly lacking in enthusiasm, although the meagre volume of selling brought out by the New York Central reduction was encouraging. Further railroad dividend shaving is confidently expected. Market letter writers are pointing to the similarity of the position of Baltimore and Ohio and that of New York Central. The former has failed to earn its $7 dividend. The break in Lackawanna was clearly in response to the Central dividend cut, for that carrier is guided by a conservative banking influence, which is an important factor in New York Central. Westinghouse's annual report, which included none too cheerful comment on the volume of business, did not inspire confidence in its current dividend rate.

The national automobile chamber of Commerce's report of motor car output was encouraging, saying March should show a gain of 50 per cent over February, and that retail sales seem to be keeping pace. Carnegie Steel's posting of second quarter prices unchanged from the first quarter quotations dashed hopes of an increase from the current unprofitable levels, but at least ended uncertainty. The copper market, after its recent sag from 10½ to 10 cents an ounce, interpreted rathr bullishly the February statistics, and 10-cent metal soon disappeared.

Call money renewed at 1½ per cent once more, and was in fair supply. Time money was nominally firmer, but extremely dull.

WESTINGHOUSE NET DROPS

The annual report of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company for the year ended December 31, 1930, showed net profit of $11,881,705, equivalent to $4.45 a share on the combined common and preferred stocks. This compared with $27,062,611, or $10.15 a share, in 1929.

The reduction in sales and earnings in 1930 reflected the removal of the manufacture of radio sets and tubes, as well as the decline in general business.

American Bridge Gets M.K.&T. Job

The American Bridge Company has received an order from the Missouri, Kansas and Texas Railroad for erection of a new steel super-structure bridge over the Missouri River at Boonville, Mo. The structure will cost about $800,000 and total cost of the bridge will be about $1,200,000. The contract calls for completion of the bridge by January 31, 1932.

Stock Exchange Topics

Union Pacific R. R. Loses $500,000 by Central's Dividend Cut

Union Pacific Railroad at the end of 1929 held 248,070 shares of New York Central and no important change is believed to have taken place since then. Union Pacific's income from New York Central dividends amounted to $2,124,160 in 1929, and was approximately the same last year. The reduction in Central's dividend rate to $6 annually from $8, means a cut in income from this source of approximately $500,000 a year.

Selling which came into the railroad shares on the Central dividend cut yesterday did not assume especially large proportions. But the fact remained that the market in carrier stocks was pretty thin on the buying side as witness recessions ranging from 1 to 7 points which took place in the group. Central dipped about 3 points and was back within striking distance of the 1931 low, while declines of 1 to 8 points were the rule in Atchison, Baltimore & Ohio, Southern Railway, Louisville & Nashville, and Union Pacific, with the last mentioned issue suffering the extreme setback. Selling appeared largely professional and did not seem to influence much liquidation.

A sudden burst of strength in the rubber and tire shares provided one of the outstanding features of yesterday along about midsession. In the absence of anything in the way of news bearing or the situation in that industry market observers were a bit puzzled by the flurry of activity in that quarter of the list. Crude rubber was actually soft with quotations ranging about 20 points lower and near the recent bottom prices of the movement. Evidently shorts in the tire shares were moved to cover a part of their commitments upon finding that no liquidation to speak of had been precipitated by the poor showing of rubber company reports recently appearing.

For the time being the stock market seems to have settled back into a "trading rut," that is so far as th. 90 leading stocks which figure in the Standard Statistics index are concerned. There have been some well-defined movements in a few isolated stocks, as for example in Allied Chemical and Dye, which has shown a sharp downward trend, but by and large the market has been for most part a "churning" affair, with considerable latitude of price movement at times, but with the market showing only nominal net change. The closing average for 90 stocks on Saturday was 140.1, and in the early afternoon yesterday the average for the same stocks stood at 139.8, seemingly illustrating the narrow range of the market in spite of swings in some stocks.

Many in the financial district believe that the announcement of the absence of Orlando Weber president of Allied Chemical and Dye Corporation, and the fact that his affairs in the company are being taken care of by others suggests that he will not return to the company. Last year was not as good a one for the company as 1929, and many expect that the forthcoming annual report will show at the most $10 a share on the common and with drastic cuts in many chemicals and soda ash, the latter making up a large part of the company's production. It is believed that the first months of this year were not as good as the same period a year ago.

Electric Auto-Lite was under accumulation some time ago, and the stock now has become popular with some of the important traders who have been active on the long side of a number of stocks. These operators are predicting a substantial further advance in the stock, basing their optimism on the improvement which must came to the company if automobile activity increases this year.

Automobile Output Gained in February

WASHINGTON, March 12.—February automobile production in the United States and Canada aggregated 230,364 cars and trucks, comparing with 178,399 in January and 345,955 in February, 1930, according to the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce. Two months' production totaled 408,763 units, against 629,561 in 1930.

Reports from leading cities show increased demand, pointing to substantial gains for March and April.

Wages Again Discussed By Banker, But—

By B. C. FORBES

WHEN ALBERT H. Wiggin, head of the largest bank in America, recently urged that the lowering of wages would help to lay solid foundations for the fresh upbuilding of prosperity, he drew upon his head a storm of criticism.

Mr. Forbes

That has not deterred George E. Roberts, vice president of America's second largest bank, from coming forward with a similar argument.

Labor authorities claim that, while there has been relatively little open cutting of wages, the same result has been achieved in various directions by having workers off and taking on others—or re-engaging the former ones—at lower pay.

As already mentioned in this column, a great many corporations, even the strongest in the land, have reduced salaries 10 per cent or more.

IT IS ENTIRELY natural that workers should regard anyone who talks of lowering wages as anti-labor, hard-boiled, utterly selfish, intent only on piling up more profits for themselves.

As a matter of fact, Mr. Wiggin isn't that type at all. He has been head of the Chase National Bank for 20 years and long ago earned an enviable reputation for his considerate handling of associates and employes. A Chase executive told me some time ago that Wiggin had never once dismissed a responsible employe, no matter how dull business might be, except for downright wrongdoing.

So, when this banker expressed the view that lower wages and lower costs would stimulate renewed buying and wider employment, he was not moved by hostility to workers.

MR. ROBERTS was yesterday reported, in connection with a speech he made before a large gathering of business men, as having said:

"While wages have not come down as they should, earnings have, because men are out of work, or working on part time; and this sort of wage reduction is destructive because it does not reduce the price of goods, increase consumption or 'restore the industrial equilibrium necessary to prosperity.'"

BUT ISN'T it an indisputable fact that the general level of prices has come down?

Authoritative compilations show that many commodities have fallen to pre-war quotations. They also show that the cost of living is down 10 to 15 per cent from the 1929 peak.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics of the United States Department of Labor reports that the average retail food price is approximately 15 per cent lower than in the early part of last year. President Colby M. Chester, Jr., of the General Foods Corporation, estimates the reduction during the last year at 12 to 15 per cent.

IT IS ARGUED, of course, that high wage rates enter less into the production of foodstuffs than into the production of other necessaries of life, such as homes, clothing, furniture, coal, shoes, hats, amusements, etc.

Yet the truth is that, with few exceptions, prices for these other things have also come down. It is retorted:

"Ah, yes, but these lower prices have been largely at the cost of normal profits. The country cannot hope to enjoy renewed prosperity so long as the majority of business enterprises are being run at a loss or at such slender profits that they cut and pare and curtail at every turn."

WHAT EVERYONE is most interested in is not theorizing as to the wisdom or unwisdom of reducing wages, but in the very practical question, "What is likely to happen?"

My guess is that, if signs of recovery in general activity continue to multiply, very little more will be heard about lowering wages.

On the other hand, if the hoped-for revival does not materialize, if the incipient spring betterment peters out, it will become a very live issue as to whether it would be for the greatest good of the greatest number were a larger number of wage earners to be put to work at reductions in wages similar to the reduction in the cost of living, or whether top-notch wages should continue to be paid to a smaller number of workers and funds continue to be raised to take care of the unemployed.

LET US HOPE that trade and industry and everything else fulfill hopeful expectations, and that neither bankers nor anyone else will consider it necessary to keep on bringing up wage-cutting talk. It isn't conducive to strengthening confidence or to normal spending among the vitally important wage-earning class.

CHAPTER XXIV.

Mary Lou looked up at him. He was so tall she had to look up. His brown eyes were intent upon her face, intent and compelling. She felt a slow tide of color rise, flooding throat and face and brow. She looked away and opened a book which lay before her, idly, with a hand which shook, and followed a line of print with blind eyes.

Lorrimer drew a deep breath. He was no fool. He had seen. He had seen the response in her lifted eyes, the betraying color. His heart rose, light, within him.

He had been troubled lately, feeling the change in her attitude toward him. Something warmer than indifference yet cooler than liking. But now? He wondered, on a sudden flash of hope, if it was because she was really coming to care for him again, and, remembering her bargain with him, had set her pride to guard her heart. For he had bargained that if ever she came to care she would tell him so. And that she would, some day, he had no doubt. If she cared. For she was, he knew, essentially honest—or had become so. As he remembered her, years and leagues away, she had not been so honest; she had been a born coquette, playing with his and her own emotions. But now, he thought, he could depend on her. And he was pitiful, comprehending. Let her pride have its little brief day. Some time she would surrender it.

Sees Her Tears

"Dearest," he said, under his breath.

Her eyes met his for one infinitesimal instant. In them he read briefly an extraordinary appeal; as if he had wounded her terribly. He spoke her name, very low, urgently, and then her eyes were veiled. But he had seen the tears.

She turned away, murmuring something about changing for dinner, and left the room. The others stared after her, all but Lorrimer, who continued to look at his books, apparently unmoved by his companion's abrupt departure. Mrs. Lorrimer looked, puzzled, at Dr. Mathews, whose face was perfectly impassive. Jenny thrust her hands into her jacket pockets and whistled three bars of some current song hit. Larry stared at the library door. None of them had seen anything, but all of them had sensed, intuitively, some sudden crisis of emotion.

Larry, of course, had to put it into words. He was not ordinarily a stupid young man, but he had been astonished into speech.

"Where's she gone?" he asked and Jenny answered, smiling at the sudden attention aroused by her simple statement of fact:

"To dress for dinner, and it's high time we followed her example—Lawrence darling!"

There was malice in her tone. Larry jumped and glared down at her. Mrs. Lorrimer said, faintly:

"Why, Jenny!"

But Jenny, who had brought a suitcase no bigger than a special delivery stamp, which meant that she was staying for dinner, was half way out of the room, in a flash of scarlet.

"She didn't mean it, you know," said Larry, embarrassed, to no one in particular. He was red as Jenny's costume, to the roots of his redder hair.

"Don't be too sure!" said Dr. Mathews.

Shortly after the new year Mrs. Lorrimer, Mary Lou and Travers Lorrimer went to Lake Placid after accompanying "Mac" to the splendid sanitarium into which Lorrimer had gained admittance for him. The doctor in charge expressed extreme optimism and was certain of a complete cure. Mac's routine was to be simple enough, consisting of food and the keen, cold, mountain air and rest—principally rest. He was heartbreakingly grateful to Lorrimer.

Reminiscences

"Gee, Lieutenant," he kept saying, "gee I don't see why you go to all this trouble for me!"

The least he could do, he assured Mary Lou, for this "great guy" was to get well. And his dark eyes glittered in his emancipated face with an amazing resolution.

Mac had been very good medicine for Lorrimer. For once, Lorrimer was forced to disregard himself and think of someone else. Mary Lou had started him on the road to this particular cure for the sick ego, and Mac completed it for him. Unwillingly to tell the little man, who admired him so greatly, of his long, relaxed surrender to nerves and retrospective horrors, he had compelled himself to play a part, that of the normal, robust, rather insensitive man who accepts everything, including war and its attendant tragedies, in his stride.

And in performing this role he had been obliged to listen, on his many visits to McEwan, to interminable floods of reminiscences, some gay and ribald, some dark with remembered despair. Much that he had forced to the back of his mind, things which lay buried in his subconscious mind, were, perforce, dragged to the sunlight, mulled over, discussed, commented upon. For Mac, invalided all these years, by reason of his lameness and the gassed lungs, had had little in the way of a future to look forward to; had become reconciled to a slow death, and lived, almost exclusively, in his memory of those brief and action-crammed years, into which he had packed, it seemed, his entire life. Mac looked backward—with clear, rather humorous and quite unresentful eyes. "It was a great war while it lasted," Mac said. His conversation, therefore, while with Lorrimer, turned for the most part, upon the events through which they, mutually, had lived. And Lorrimer had to listen, had to talk, and so came gradually to unburden himself of much that had been festering in his mind, eating at the frayed edges of his nerves, slinking through his thoughts, the dark, starved rats of unhealthy memory.

Larry Does Well

And thus, playing his part, with a metaphorically bitten lip and stiffened spine, Lorrimer came to find laughter again, in memories, and pity and a healing loss of self.

After leaving Mac at the sanitarium, the Lorrimers and Mary Lou went on to Placid, where they had two glorious weeks of winter sport. Mary Lou had not bob-sledded, skated, skied and snowshoed in high, glorious, mountain air since her childhood, when, for a short time, she and her parents had been at St. Moritz, in Switzerland. At

There was malice in Jenny's tone.

Placid, Jenny Wynne and her elder brother and his wife joined them for the last week, and so Mrs. Lorrimer, with a wholly womanly regard for lovers, invited Larry up for the final week-end, and Larry came, every red hair on his head flaming with satisfaction, having combined business with pleasure, in persuading his editor to allow him to do a special article upon the winter antics of the fortunate rich, to be read by shivering stenographers and clerks clinging to straps in the subway trains which propelled them to their business of earning a living.

He had obtained the press-agent job, he told Mary Lou, which was to exploit an English revue, coming to town in the early spring. He didn't, he confessed, grinning, know much about specialized publicity, but he thought that he could manage to see that the star's jewels were stolen or her pet dog afflicted with pneumonia. Anyway, from what he had already learned, publicity would come easily. One of the girls in the company had a title—or said she had; a juvenile lead was the disinherited son of a great ship builder, and one of the chorus or show girls had been married to no less than three lords—not all at the same time.

"There was a woman, once," explained Larry, to Jenny, Mary Lou and Travers, "who married a couple of Dukes. They called her the Double Duchess. How about this one being a Triple Lady? Sounds like a triple bromide, but maybe it will catch on!"

He was in high spirits, Jenny was kind and, even if he didn't know much about skiing, and fell ingloriously upon his nose, and stuck in snow banks, long legs waving, her laughter was entirely friendly, and she took great pains to instruct him in the various difficult sports. Also he was now writing signed special articles for his paper, and had sold the first of a series of short, short stories on newspaper life to a popular weekly, and expected to sell many more—and his bank account had swelled gorgeously. He had always been ambitious, but had never taken himself very seriously. Mary Lou had been his closest confidante, a pink and interested ear into which he was wont to pour the varied colored tales of his experiences and hopes. But in Jenny he had an incentive, a spur to performance.

Her laughing ladyship kept her own counsel. What Jenny thought of Larry and his importunities, his disarming impertinences, his obvious enchantment, was nobody's business but Jenny's. So her friends watched the little comedy, smiling, and no one interfered, not even her very wise parents, who had met Larry and liked him and who, contrary to current ideas about people of means and position, desired nothing more—or less—for their only daughter, than her happiness. So, if Larry proved to be her happiness, she could have him and they would make him very welcome.

But Jenny said nothing. Only her amber yellow curls danced about her pointed face with increased vitality, it seemed, and her eyes danced, too, and she was alternately serious and absurd, but she remained kind to her besotted swain, which was more than she usually did for one in his condition.

DAILY TRUE STORY— 'N. O. N.'

Celia stood on the running board and playfully pinched Wilmont's red cheek.

"Thanks for running over, Monty," she said.

"You always make me feel at home."

"That," she told him with a smile that made his bashful heart thump a few extra beats, "is because I think it is a good idea."

"Yes — thanks — er — yes, indeed." He wanted to hold Celia's hand as it rested in the side of the car but his possessions ran to money instead of nerve.

"Well," he glanced at the clock on the instrument board of the car, "old Billings will be waiting for me and he always lectures me about keeping appointments—see you tomorrow, Celia."

"You better had or I'll die of loneliness."

She hopped down from the running board and watched Wilmont Durgin drive off up the wide highway toward the castle-like mansion, set in some 10 acres of ground, that was his home.

Mrs. Wilson, Celia's mother, sitting on the veranda, watched him go and watched Celia coming up the walk.

Celia sat on the top step, chin in hand, and stared into the honeysuckle vine.

"The passionate lover reluctantly tears himself away," Celia finally remarked.

Talks With Mother

Her mother chuckled at this.

"If," Celia went on, "I had all the money Monty has, and if I paid old Billings a good round income to handle my affairs, I'd like to see him bawl me out for being a few minutes late!"

"Mr. Billings regards Monty still as a little boy. He has been handling his finances for years. He realizes that Monty is all alone there and he has got to the point where he regards himself in the light of guardian, father, teacher and lawyer."

"Monty is a darn nice boy—honestly, if he didn't have a cent I'd marry him."

"Without his consent?"

Celia flushed, and then her good nature prevailed, and she got up and sat on the arm of her mother's chair.

"Did Dad chase you around and around and beseech you on bended knee to marry him?"

"Not exactly." She patted Celia's blonde curls, because they were so like the curls of Celia's father, who had passed on five years before.

"I don't suppose, by any chance, you encouraged Dad?"

A landscape gardener's small truck came up the drive.

"Good land, Celia, whatever is Curt buying more shrubs for?" Mrs. Wilson asked.

Curt Mason was Mrs. Wilson's brother. He owned the pretty little home where she and Celia lived.

Celia ran across to the drive. "Do these shrubs go in the ground or in the cellar?" she asked the driver. He promptly grinned.

"Guess they best go in the cellar until Mr. Mason comes home, Miss Wilson.

The man put the tiny shrubs with the seemingly immense roots, burlap-wrapped, in the cellar while Celia went back to her mother.

"Uncle Curt is going to do a little landscape gardening down in the bar," she explained.

Curt Mason had, like so many others in these days, built what is commonly called a "game room" in his cellar, the chief piece of furniture being a small bar.

Overhears Conversation

"Whatever do you mean—shrubs in tubs down there?"

"No, dear, those are phony shrubs, tops of any old bushes and all of those big burlap things cover bottles and not roots. The gentlemanly appearing landscape gardener is a bootlegger."

"The very idea!"

"Yes, the very idea. You didn't think Uncle Curt built the game room and bar just to store soda pop in, did you? It's a swell idea; he has his parties down there and it keeps cigar ashes and drink stains and things, such as cigaret burns, out of the house."

That very evening Celia was down by the hedge, hoping that Wilmont might drive over, when she saw her mother and uncle coming down a winding path.

"But, Curt, Celia will feel exactly as I do about it," she heard her mother say.

"It is your home as well as mine, and Mary understands perfectly; don't let me hear any more nonsense," Curt answered.

"It isn't nonsense. I expect you to marry. I want you to marry. But it is simply out of the question to think Celia and I would continue living here—the first years of marriage should be lived in your little nest without any outsiders."

"But what will you do on your small income?"

Celia strained her ears, but couldn't get her mother's reply.

Wilmont continued to drop in every day. Celia continued to smile and be gay, and try and break down his apparent lack of nerve.

One extremely hot afternoon she told him about her uncle's bar.

"Uncle Curt won't mind," she said to her mother, "and I'm going to take him down and mix him something cool—probably a N. O. N."

"Whatever is an N. O. N.?" her mother asked.

"Oh, just a nice little drink. Come along, Monty."

Down in the cool game room with its miniature bar Celia proceeded to play barmaid.

Monty got up courage to tell a silly and harmless little parlor story that Celia had heard when she was a school girl, but she laughed uproariously, which made Monty feel very happy. He didn't know when he had felt so happy.

"We'll get another," Celia suggested.

"Sure — wonderful summer drink," Monty agreed, "and when served by you — well, that's perfection!"

"Why, Monty—you brave darling!"

"Darling, yourself!"

Celia mixed the drinks, as before. They went out to the west terrace and down to the big rose arbor.

"Here's to crime!" Celia said.

"Do you mean it?"

"About being a bad man?"

"No, calling me a darling!"

"Sure—you're a darling—at moments you seem to be two darlings. What's the name of this cooling summer drink, darling?"

"N. O. N."

"What's that mean—darling?"

"Just a name, perhaps—here—" she lifted her glass and he did the same. "Here's to my going away from here!"

Monty started to drink, but paused.

"Fooling?"

She shook her head.

"I won't drink to it—where would I go if you went away?"

"Find some other girl."

Invited to Dinner

Monty swayed just a little and blinked.

"No other girl."

"Plenty, Monty, crazy to be friends with you."

"Nope—it's all settled. Can't let you go, darling."

"How can you stop me, darling boy?"

"Forbid you!"

"You haven't any right to forbid me—you don't own me, Monty, dear."

"That's a swell idea—I can own you—I'll marry you and then forbid you to go away!"

"Quit joking—you don't want to marry me, Monty."

"Darling little liar — course I do."

"We'll go up and ask mother."

"I won't ask her, I'll tell her," Monty declared.

Celia's mother saw them coming. Monty managed it quite well, although his face was flushed.

He gladly accepted an invitation to dinner, and drove home to get his dinner clothes.

"Celia," her mother said as soon as Monty had driven away, "what sort of a drink did you give him?"

"One of my own inventions. I call it N. O. N., mother."

"Whatever is N. O. N?"

"Now or Never!"

Is Vice Protected?

Former Magistrate Brandon, Who Should Know, Makes Serious Charges Against Mayor Kline.

In an address to the Harwood School Parent-Teachers' Association in Sheraden Tuesday night, A. D. Brandon, former magistrate of Morals Court, made grave charges against Mayor Kline, Director Clark, of the Department of Public Safety, and various police officials and Republican ward chairmen.

He said speakeasies and other illegal resorts operate with the sanction of the accused officials and that subordinate policemen do not dare to interfere with the protected establishments, because to do so would jeopardize their jobs.

Brandon dealt in generalities, but said his charges were based on cases that came under his observation during his four years in Morals Court. He has been in position to know the truth about these matters, is a responsible citizen, and presented his accusations deliberately in a formal speech. They cannot be ignored.

Two More Judges

Opponents of Coyne Measure Have Not Satisfactorily Refuted the Strongest Argument for It.

Senator Coyne's bill creating two additional Common Pleas judges for Allegheny County, having been passed by both branches of the Legislature, is now before Gov. Pinchot.

Earnest efforts are being made by the Bar Association, the Civic Club and other reputable organizations, to have the bill vetoed. Their principal arguments are that the new judgeships would saddle additional expenses on the taxpayers, and that the places probably would go to men better known for their activities in machine politics than for their legal attainments.

But the principal question to be answered is whether more judges are needed, and the remarks of the opponents of the Coyne bill in respect to that are not satisfactory or convincing. They say, it is true, that visiting judges can take care of the situation. But Judge Drew and other authorities are quoted to the effect that the system of visiting judges is not satisfactory.

It is admitted that the court calendars are congested, but contended that more than two additional judges are necessary if the courts are to keep abreast of the tide of litigation. If that is the case, let us have as many new judges as are required.

The congestion, however, could be appreciably relieved if the courts would give up their custom of suspending for two months during the summer.

Allegheny County will benefit by the signing of the bill if Gov. Pinchot appoints as judges men of the same caliber as he chose for the local bench in his previous administration. The community will not benefit if he permits the political bosses of Allegheny County to dictate the appointments.

They Dodge the Issue

Upholders of Blue Law Are None Too Scrupulous in Their Discussion of the Matter.

Advocates of the dreary Sunday imposed by the Blue Law of 1794 gave a dinner for members of the Legislature at Harrisburg Tuesday and demanded that they leave the statute unchanged.

A great deal was said about the necessity of preserving Sunday as a day of religious worship.

"Throughout the three hours of speaking," a Harrisburg correspondent reports, "not a single reference was made to the fact that the Musmanno bill would give the churches and Sunday schools a clear deck up to 2 o'clock in the afternoon."

That offers an index to the character of the attack that is being made on the Musmanno bill. Its opponents are none too scrupulous in their discussion of the measure. They seek to convey the impression that it would interfere with religious worship, whereas it would no nothing of the sort.

The Blue Law adherents dodge the issue, which is if, in communities like Allegheny County and Philadelphia, where a large majority of the people desire permission to indulge in innocent amusements on Sunday, they shall be restrained by the intolerance of people living elsewhere.

Electrical Convention

Engineers Selected a Peculiarly Appropriate City for Their Meeting in Choosing Pittsburgh.

Pittsburgh entertains a good many conventions every year. The city seems an especially appropriate meeting place for some of them, while in the case of others almost any other large city might be equally satisfactory. The convention of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers belongs in the former class.

Electrical engineers should feel at home in Pittsburgh, seat of the great Westinghouse works and the residence of so many men eminent in the electrical profession.

Pittsburgh has been the birthplace of notable electrical inventions. The pioneer radio broadcasting station of the world is a local institution, and Pittsburgh engineers have contributed not a little to the progress of television.

The visitors will find themselves in congenial surroundings.

Illegal Sausage

Commendable Zeal Is Shown by State Bureau of Foods in Protecting People from Adulteration.

A report just issued by Dr. James W. Kellogg, director of the bureau of foods and chemistry, Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture, in regard to prosecutions for food adulteration in the Pittsburgh district should give considerable satisfaction to the citizens. It indicates that commendable zeal is being displayed by the bureau's agents in protecting the people from impure or misrepresented articles.

No less than 37 sausage manufacturers were prosecuted last month for adulterating sausage with sulphite or adding cereal. There were additional prosecutions for watering butter, selling eggs as fresh which were not fresh, and other illegal practices.

The alertness of the state's pure food agents is calculated to make manufacturers and dealers in food products think twice before they resort to adulteration.

Golf Widowlogues

"Whither away?" called Mrs. Divot, as Mrs. Green stopped her little blue car, and motioned her to jump in.

"To the beauty parlor for a facial—like a dutiful wife," said Mrs. Green. "From there, to my fencing and dancing lessons; thence to Madame Fleur's for fitting; and then, lickety split, to the station to meet John at the 6:15. Aren't we women 'slaves?'"

"If you were a dutiful wife and a 'slave,'" laughed Mrs. Divot, "you'd be at home baking a cake or darning John's socks."

"Where have you been for the last 20 years?" demanded Mrs. Green. "Darning and baking were luxuries of the old-fashioned wife. The wife-job, in those days, was a cinch. A woman had to be only a man's Cook and his Consolation. Now she has to be his 'inspiration,' his chauffeur, his bridge-partner, his mental companion, and a fashion-plate, besides.

* * *

"You don't suppose that any woman actually ENJOYS being flayed, slapped baked, parboiled and run through a wringer at a beauty shop, do you? But men demand BEAUTY, these days. And being beautiful is harder than being good! It's a dog's life!

"The old-fashioned wife could loll around after the dishes were washed and munch chocolates and grow fat, comfortably. She could wear her corsets until the steel broke and hurt her.

"In those days a man took his last look at his wife—and any other woman—right at the altar. After that, she might have blackened her teeth and shaved her head, and he would scarcely have noticed it. But now he doesn't close his eyes when he puts on the wedding-ring. He keeps them WIDE OPEN—and his wife has to do some hustling to hold her own with all the young, beautiful, snappy, efficient women he sees around him.

"Being a wife, these days, is a combination of art, science, drudgery, and legerdemain. You can't hold a husband with pink baby-ribbon and waffle-paste any more. You've got to hold him with both hands, a safety-clutch and sleight-of-hand. And, even then, if you don't hold onto your looks, he may do a Houdini—and get loose."

* * *

"In short," rejoined Mrs. Divot, "the modern woman's 'freedom' is just a life-sentence at hard labor!"

AMERICAN GROUP SOUL

By Archibald Henderson

The United States of America is often called a new country, a young nation. This is scarcely true in the strict sense, for it is pointed out that it has the oldest written constitution, and the people are the heirs of all the ages, the melting-pot of all the races. Its culture is heterogeneous, derived from a thousand sources; and the nation itself was founded by peoples from beyond its own shores. But in a very real sense, this country is new. For it has not yet developed a national ethos—a philosophy, a soul, indisputably native, irredeemably American.

America, as we choose to call it, although even North America is not a correct term for the United States, is the world's most conspicuous democracy. The true ideal of democracy has been properly defined by Claude Bragdon as the rule of a people by its demos, or group soul. Science expresses itself in many forms, but in none so conspicuously perhaps as in architecture, which is decisively the cynosure of all eyes. We may set up architecture, in conjunction with art, wrought out in these states an architecture truly expressive of the group soul of the American people?

Unfortunately, the architecture of the past in this democracy has been something of everything, but nothing long enough to become fixed or truly representative. Power, mass, utility are found; a hopeless mixture of styles; imitativeness, subserviency to classic forms, and a certain tentativeness and timidity in expression indicating the gropings of the uncertain mind.

Mathematics, although not science in general, consistently teaches the beauty of structure. Symmetry, elegance, lucidity, form—all these are qualities of science in its higher reaches. Mathematics divests itself rigorously of the extraneous and the superfluous; nothing is used that is not germane to the process, organic in the structure.

There is a certain majesty and stark eloquence in skyscrapers: "granite deeps opening into granite deeps beyond range of vision, and mountains of masonry with seas of labor in turmoil at their base." Their geometry is simple, their bulk impressive; but they seem structures of sheer, hard necessity. They have the beauty of efficiency; but the soul is not there. They remain, as has been said, "monsters of the mere market."

A building, in the highest sense, is an organism. It has a life of its own, its own interior soul and rhythm. The form must express, both implicitly and explicitly, the function. And conversely the function must dictate, predetermine, the form. This country is developing an individual architecture. This will be realized when the architect is a true artist who can project, in structure, the meaning of American democracy.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

Don't speak lightly of "one-track minds—"

Don't conclude that they're vague, weak affairs, not to be taken seriously—

Respect them and look out for them. They are always powerful—they are sometimes extremely dangerous. And you lay yourself open to their danger if you underestimate them.

"But they have only one idea," you say, proud of your many-idea intellect.

That is exactly why they are powerful. They HAVE only one idea—but they back that one idea with all they have. The man with one idea doesn't scatter his forces. He concentrates on one issue and keeps everlastingly at it. His attack may seem trivial, but he never stops—and he wears his opponent away by that very persistence. He has it all over the chap with a dozen irons in the fire . . . who gives but a fraction of his energy to each project.

And the one-track mind is often dangerous, because it never sees, or tries to see, the other fellow's side of the picture. It has only one desire and if you get in the way of that desire, that's YOUR bad luck. For the one-track mind, as a general rule, has no more regard for your rights than a mad dog.

You've seen it happening dozens of times in your own life . . . perhaps in your own family.

Generous, rich souls being devastated by wizened, spiteful spirits—

Strong, fine men wrecked by nagging, nit-wit wives—

Noble, brave women broken by whimpering, pee-wee males—

How does it happen?

IT HAPPENS BECAUSE THE BIG NATURE DOESN'T TAKE THE LITTLE NATURE SERIOUSLY.

It happens because the big nature thinks the tiny demands, the querulous complaints, "don't really matter."

"Anything for peace," says the big nature, smiling amiably. "After all, it takes so little to make them happy—I'd be a brute to refuse when I have so much—when I'm so strong—

So the ignoble compromises and concessions begin . . . partly out of pity . . . partly out of good natured condescension.

And presently the Big Nature is picked clean—and the Little Nature goes gouging merrily on, while everyone gives way to its "one-track mind."

Don't underestimate the one-track mind. Arm yourself against it. And, if you're smart, borrow a few of its tricks.

When I Consider

When I consider, Love, how soon the night
Will veil the radiance of smiling day,
And when I note how swiftly years take flight,
To bear with them the charms of youth away,
I long to leave the false and fruitless quest,
Quit groping after gold through sun and rain,
To turn away from worldly things, to rest
Content with love, and seek no other gain.

For when Time waves his spell across your hair
Where now my hand so gladly, lightly lies,
When silver mingles with the sunlight there,
Youth's wonder will be dimmed from out your eyes.
When I consider, Love, how little worth
Have fame or gold when bought with youth and tears,
Ten-fold I prize your tenderness, your mirth,
Ten-fold my triumph, that we cheat the years!

Text For Today

Blessed are the peacemakers, for they shall be called the children of God.—Matthew, v:9.

Pullman's 100th Birthday

A Story of Human Progress.

AN OLD-FASHIONED PULLMAN CAR 60 YEARS AGO WITH ORGAN AND HYMN BOOKS.

When George M. Pullman was born at Brocton, N. Y., 100 years ago he made up his mind that he would build a car in which men could sleep—and he succeeded.

All Americans know the Pullman car, all Europe knows it. Some do not realize how interestingly it reflects the progress of science, of comfort and luxury in this fortunate country.

The picture above, published in the Illustrated London News 56 years ago, shows a Pullman car of that date.

Since then the hymn books and organ for playing the hymns on Sunday have disappeared from Pullman cars.

Religion is just as popular, but it is not forced upon us in public places.

The old Pullman car of 1859 had one tin wash basin. It was lighted by three candles.

Then came kerosene, the Pintsch light, and then the electric light generated by the moving wheels of the train.

The first Pullman cars were heated by a wood burning stove, then by hot air furnaces, then by hot water from coal burning heaters, later by live steam from the engine and now by vapor "brought down to atmospheric pressure from the steam in the locomotive."

The old Pullman car had no ventilation. Our quite recent ancestors believed that the "night air is bad for you."

The Pullman windows, about 12 inches square, could not be moved. Now the ventilating of a Pullman car costs almost as much as George M. Pullman's first car cost to build complete. The Pullman car now weighs more than 150,000 pounds, the trucks on which it rides alone weigh more than the original Pullman car.

In one year Pullman cars travel more than 1,206,000,000 miles. The mileage covered by Pullman passengers is more than 14,000,000,000 miles, equal to 72 trips to the sun and back.

And the housekeeping department of the Pullman Company would interest women that worry about getting the washing done.

The Pullman housekeepers must keep ready for the guests more than 4,000,000 towels, 2,000,000 sheets, 2,000,000 slips, 500,000 blankets—about 10,000,000 different pieces of washable material. Four million pieces have to be replaced every year, thanks to wear and tear and "absent-minded" travelers that carry the linen away with them.

Modern business is big business in every sense of the word, and it reflects, as nothing else does, the progress of the human race.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O.O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, March 12.—Next to red ink manufacturers, soothsayers have enjoyed the biggest profits of the year. Even the radio has gone palmist and psychic. Mitt readers, star gazers, character analysts, swamis and what not have been blatting from every station. Destiny is being written in planchette.

Fortune Telling Row, trailing off Columbus Circle, has never had such a puff of prosperity. Any world cataclysm results in scurrying to the seers. Wall Street is especially sensitive to such prophets. Many now have offices in the down town canyons.

There has been a remarkable gush of interest in numerology. In times of stress civilization shows it has progressed very little from ancient necromancy. Witches are no longer touched off in flames but fantastic potions are still being swallowed.

Luck charms are not worn only by voodoo followers. They are frequently worn by men and women of cultural attainments. With prosperity people let go of superstition but in adversity they grasp for any straw like the proverbal drowning man.

After the World War a big list of spirit salons opened. Frantic parents and other relatives sought "messages" from those who had "gone over."

The radio added an impulse to the search for the unknowable. It seemed to presage many further links in communicating beyond the veil. In the past year the new mental experimentalist has had no trouble in collecting a group of the wide-eyed.

Stenographers are keen for palmistry and sundry parlor conjurors. So are office workers generally. Such abracadabra offers an outlet for the pent-up yearning for grandiose romance. It is a soporific that deadens many to the stark realities.

Few newspapers have turned out so many bang-up writers as the Kansas City Star. It has been the generating ground for such accomplished writers as Homer Croy, Courtney Ryley Cooper, Bide Dudley, George T. Bye, Wesley Stout, Charles Phelps Cushing, Jerome Beatty, Fatty Lewis, Russell Crouse and Brock Pemberton.

In these days not many newspaper writers gather their own material. Instead a "leg man" collects and hustles it via telephone. Someone describes the telephone as the newspaper's automatic gun that rakes an entire district in a few minutes. Thus a writer knows only what filters over the whispering wires. He does not rub elbows with life. He gets a close-up of the murdered gangster from a tabloid picture and sees the glamorous Mrs. Vanastor through the eyes of the society reporter. He does not acquire the "feel" of things as did the old-time reporter.

I had need of the services of a chiropodist today. What we once knew as a corn doctor is no longer even a chiropodist. At least asking for a chiropodist they sent a pediatrist with an "M. CP." after his name. He came sporting chamois gloves, a silver handled walking stick and a gardenia. If there had been a graceful way of backing out I would. He was too grand. There isn't much to do for worn out feet anyway.

Dancers are the most frequent patrons of pedicure parlors. They fear the slightest foot trouble. One of the most famous of the esthetic dancers — a sprite whose body had the graceful, wavering outline of a Jinn rising from its bottle—had to give up her career on account of a bunion.

I was once for a brief period press agent for one of the leaping-for-buttercup dancers who invariably fluttered into a swoon at the end of the dance. When on the stage she proved an eerie enchantress who seemed to float in mid-air and then ricochet on tip-toe and skim like a gull. (Do you mind if I run into the other room and run through this descriptive stuff to my wife?) Anyway, she seemed to me some fragile flower, and scarcely of this world. My disillusionment was as usual. The ethereal lady, I learned, chewed snuff.
